MEXICANS MOBILIZE

Twenty-first Battalion of Lower California to Hold Bridgehead

Federals Drawn Up Before Rodriguez Palace for Movement East

MEXICALI, March 4. (Exclusive) Military authorities here tonight ordered the mobilization of the Twenty-first Battalion of Mexican Infantry and began commandeering motor trucks for the transportation of the troops to the Sonora frontier on the east to prevent the threatened influx of Mexican insurgents to Lower California.

At sundown a score or more of the picturesque Mexican rurales, the territorial police, who are standing loyal to the Portes Gil government with the infantry of this district, were drawn up in formation before Gov. Rodriguez's palace and issued heavy bandoleers of additional ammunition.

BRIDGEHEAD KEY

The soldiers of the Twenty-first Battalion who are being withdrawn from the outposts of Tia Juana and Tecate will be dispatched at once to the western frontier of Sonora, and stationed southward along the boundary, which is the Colorado River, from San Luis, according to reliable information.

Although Gov. Rodrigues or Col. Pareyon, military commander, decline to comment on the troop movement, it is understood that a heavy detachment of the troops will be stationed at the new bridge crossing

STATE SIGNS DAM PACT

Utah Expected to Ratify

Assembly, Senate, Young Act Quickly to Force Arizona's Hand

Under Six-Sided Terms Only Bar to Project Can be Federal Suit

BY C. A. JONES
"Times" Staff Representative

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (Exclusive)—As a vigorous warning to Arizona to end her shadow boxing on the Colorado River, the Legislature today passed two measures relating to the Boulder Canyon Dam Act situation, one of which ratifies the six-State compact and the other agrees to California's water limitation.

In record time, by voting to suspend the rules, the bills were started off in the Assembly shortly before noon, adopted there, rushed to the Senate, adopted, whisked back from State Printer Smith's plant and placed on the Governor's desk.

UTAH INFORMED

They received his signature at 3:15 p.m. and immediately Gov. Young telegraphed his action to Gov. Dern of Utah. The speed was necessary to assure Utah of California's attitude. It is generally believed that the Utah Legislature will approve the six-State compact before it adjourns this week, in the light of California's action. Thus Arizona will be left out in the cold, having approved neither the six-State nor seven-State compact. Under the provisions of the Boulder Canyon Dam Act the Federal government may undertake construction of the project within six months of the time of the signing of the bill by former President Coolidge, which was late last December, provided, however, that six States have ratified. Now that California is in, only Utah and Arizona remain out and if Utah signs then Arizona's only recourse to prevent construction of the dam is to file suit in the Federal courts.

OUT ON LIMB

In many quarters it is believed that if Arizona cannot induce Utah to stand with her in her opposition to the project, Arizona will take the concessions wrung from the other basin States and then stand aside. The bills were introduced by Assemblyman Witter of Brawley. He made only a short introductory speech and the lower house approved unanimously. Senator Swing of San Bernardino handled them in the Senate and unanimous approval there followed in less than fifteen minutes.

Section Four, subdivision A of the Boulder Canyon Dam Act provides specifically, that in the event of a six-State compact, California must be one of the signatories. That provision today was complied with. The same subdivision adds that California must be limited to 4,400,000 acre feet of the 7,500,000 acre feet allotted the lower-basin States under the compact, provided, however, that California and Arizona shall share excess waters.

BINDS CALIFORNIA

The second of Mr. Witter's bills binds California to this division as set out in the Federal act. This excess water is mentioned in the compact as being 1,000,000 acre feet, which in reality allows California a total of 4,900,000 acre feet. This does not take into consideration the reports of most engineers and hydrographers that the actual flow of the river, when controlled by the dam, will be far in excess of even these figures, Mr. Witter stated.

He declared that Arizona's recent offer at the Santa Fe conference would, in effect, bind Califor-

Will Rogers Remarks:

NEW YORK, March 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It sure did seem strange to hear a Presidential speech on something besides prosperity. Mr. Hoover hadn't been sworn in three minutes before he waded into a topic that Mr. Coolidge had never mentioned in six years; that was prohibition.

And judges, Senators, Governors, Congressmen and party leaders hadn't been to their home or hotel three minutes till they waded into some old corn (pre-war) to kinder keep the chill off them after that rain. And over many a clinking glass, the general comment was "that was a fine speech of Hoover's, and right to the point, too."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

P.S.—Mr. Coolidge passed through here this evening and I believe I know what that quiet grin was about.

SPAIN PLANS TO PRODUCE OWN FILMS

Royal Decree Appoints Committee on Industry and Invokes Quota

[Copyright, 1929, by the Chicago Tribune.]

MADRID, March 4. (Exclusive)—Following the lead of France, England, Italy and other countries, Spain today decided to put the brake on the exhibition of too many American films in Spain. The offerings at present, apart from a few German films, are practically entirely American.

A royal decree emanating today from the Ministry of National Economy appoints a commission to study the best means to develop the cinematograph industry in Spain and protect the Spanish motion-picture industry against foreign competition. The decree sets forth that the government proposes to develop the cinematographic industry both as a matter of profitable business and as a means of propaganda to emphasize the natural and artistic beauty of Spain.

In order to help the baby Spanish film industry it is announced that foreign films will be limited by quota and that each motion-picture theater will be forced to show a percentage of national films along with the foreign ones in accordance with the plan adopted in Italy and in England. The new commission will report a month hence to the government as to its findings.

LONDON, March 4. (AP)—The Prince of Wales will deputize for King George at this year's court ceremonies and investitures, it was announced officially today.

Gandhi Reported to be in Custody

LONDON, March 4. (AP)—The Times says that Mahatma Mohandas K. Gandhi has been arrested in Calcutta.

Gandhi long has been a leader of the nationalist movement in India. He has advocated passive resistance by means of boycotts on English products and similar methods to attain an independent government for India rather than the use of force. On January 31 he said that he hoped for Indian home rule within a year.

Smith and Party Leave Florida

PALM BEACH (Fla.) March 4. (AP)—At about the same hour that Herbert Hoover was taking the oath of office as President today Alfred E. Smith, his Democratic opponent for the office, left here with a party of friends for an unannounced northern point.

With the former Governor and Mrs. Smith were William F. Kenney, John J. Raskob, and J. J. Riordan and their families, all of New York.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Inquiries which followed cancellation of a speaking engagement at a woman's meeting by Helen Wills today resulted in information that the tennis champion plans an exhibition of sculpture in London next fall.

It was said a London exhibitor's shortened visit to this city prompted Miss Wills to "pass up" the luncheon so she could consult with the exhibitor. Miss Wills is known to have spent much of her time perfecting her sculpting.

THREE DIE AS SLIDE HITS TRAIN

Snow Avalanche Hurls Great Northern Coaches Over 200-Foot Bank

SPOKANE, March 4. (AP)—Three men were killed, three were injured and half of the Great Northern Railroad's mail train No. 27 was hurtled over a 200-foot embankment by a great snowslide that sheared off six cars as the train was entering a tunnel near Singleshot, Mont., this morning, word received here tonight said.

The dead: Benjamin Stumpf, mail clerk of Spokane; Gus Mazos, a section foreman of Singleshot, and Phil Tanas, a track walker of Singleshot.

The injured: J. Elmer Hutsinpiller, Edmund J. Corridan and Wheeler G. Hand, all railway-mail clerks from Spokane and vicinity.

Few details are available in Spokane tonight regarding the seriousness of the injured.

According to the correspondent of the Spokesman-Review at Whitefish, Mont., the train encountered a small snowslide just after passing the snowshed near the entrance of the tunnel. This was overcome without difficulty, but after the engine and several cars had entered the mouth of the tunnel, a great slide roared down the mountain, shearing off the last six cars of the train. All these were carried in the van of the slide over a 200-foot embankment.

LARAMIE (Wyo.) March 4. (AP)—Forced down on the desolate summit of Sherman Hill during a blizzard, Carl Vickery, Chicago commercial pilot, his mechanician and two passengers today were recovering from exposure after being rescued last night by a crew of telephone linemen.

STOCK SLUMP MARKS DAY

Reaction on New York Exchange Accompanies Change in National Administration

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—The change in national administration today was accompanied by a general reaction in stock prices.

Opinions differed as to whether the selling was influenced by anything in the new President's message or merely represented the traditional "selling on the good news" following the brisk "inaugural rally" last week. Reports of revolutionary disturbances in Mexico and indications of a further tightening in credit conditions also may have been a factor.

Veteran market observers point out that market reactions followed the inaugurations of the last three presidents. Many stocks broke $5 to $15 a share when Wilson assumed office; the postwar deflation was in full swing when Harding took over the reins of government, and a temporary decline followed the inauguration of Coolidge four years ago, although subsequently the market enjoyed the greatest bull movement in its history.

SERIES OF SLUMPS

American Express broke $25.50 a share on a couple of sales. Allied Chemical and Motor Products each slumped $10 a share, General Electric $8.50 and probably two score other issues closed at net declines of $3 and $7.50.

The Associated Press index of fifty industrials lost 2½ points, the twenty public utilities 2 points and the twenty rails less than a point. Trading was only moderately heavy in volume, the day's sales aggregating 4,557,300 shares.

GUESSES ON MESSAGE

Wall street's guesses on the contents of the inaugural message proved to be far from the mark. Rumors were in circulation last week that Mr. Hoover would take a positive stand on oil conservation and recommend legislation to speed up railroad consolidations, but the message contained no reference to either subject. This may have caused some liquidation of oil and railroad shares, but most of the losses in each group were nominal.

The new President's announced approval of public utility regulation was believed to be responsible for some of the selling in the power and light stocks, the declines in which ran from $1 to $3 a share in the active issues.

THOUSANDS WATCH IN RAIN AS HOOVER TAKES OATH

Capital Downpour Does Not Check Greatest Inaugural Enthusiasm Displayed in Recent Years

(A full page of pictures of the inaugural ceremonies appears on Page 8 of Part I of this edition of The Times.)

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—The American people today with solemn ceremony placed Herbert Hoover in the highest office within their gift—that of President of the United States.

With a pelting, stinging rain falling, he swore to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States, kissed a verse in the Bible and began the gravest duty ever demanded of him in his life of far-flung activity. And, turning to his inaugural address he made a pledge to enforce all laws, including the prohibition amendment, to the full extent of his ability.

Into office with this California engineer and orphaned Quaker went Charles Curtis whom fate had taken from an Indian reservation and elevated to the Vice-Presidency. The two then rode down the historic route from the Capitol to the White House, bareheaded, rain-beaten, but smiling their happiness over one of the most remarkable and enduring ovations given any President or Vice-President in recent years.

For nearly four hours the thousands stood in the driving rain waiting to do honor to the foremost two Americans. They filled the long rows of water-soaked stands lining the route; they perched upon perilous, slippery ledges of buildings flanking the street. Dripping windows were filled with peering faces, and rooftops were heavy with humanity.

On the Capitol plaza, shining with its watery film, the thousands with water-dripping clothes saw Mr. Hoover kiss a verse in the Bible which sealed his fealty to his countrymen. That verse said: "Where there is no vision the people perish; but he that keepeth the law, happy is he."

GLOWS AT MARCHERS

And when that solemn ceremony was over they remained defiant of the weather to see the impressive tribute paid to the incoming head of the nation by representatives of nearly every grouping of American life. The Army, the Navy, the Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, governors, governors' staffs, patriotic organizations, marching clubs, and bands tramped the wet, pool-studded pavements until late in the day to salute the new commander-in-chief. He stood in a reviewing stand in front of the White House, glowing with pleasure, and by his side the new first lady of the land, animated with interest, waved her hand in numerous salutes.

When the parade ended and President Hoover entered his new home, its occupant of yesterday was speeding toward the quietness of Northampton, Mass, seeking the rest of a private citizen. He had become former President Coolidge, but he took with him happy memories of the expressions of friendship showered upon him on his last day in office.

COOLIDGE SMILES

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge did not remain in Washington for the inaugural parade. With President Hoover installed as Chief Executive of the nation Mr. Coolidge entered an automobile with Mrs. Coolidge, was driven to the union station, and boarded a train for the city where he started the career that led to the Presidency. Cheers rang in his ears as he departed and there was a smile upon his usually stern countenance.

Inauguration day in Washington means just that. The train of events leading up to the ceremonial installation of the President and Vice-President began at 10 o'clock in the morning when the two central figures started for the White House to join President and Mrs. Coolidge. Mr. Hoover rode with Mrs. Hoover in a White House automobile from his home on S street, while Senator Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, proceeded to the executive mansion in a Congressional car.

LIQUOR LAW AID ASKED

Hoover Pledges Enforcement

Address Also Promises Survey to Reorganize Court Procedure

World Court Membership Urged as Vital Step to Universal Peace

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Herbert Hoover entered on the Presidency today with a solemn promise to enforce the prohibition and all other laws to the extent of his abilities and with a declaration that he coveted for his administration a record of having further contributed to advance the cause of peace among nations.

In terse language he told his fellow-countrymen that the measure of success the government could attain in law enforcement will depend on the moral support which they extended.

"The duty of citizens to support the laws of the land is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist," he said. "No greater national service can be given by men and women of good will—who, I know, are not unmindful of the responsibilities of citizenship—than that they should, by their example, assist in stamping out crime and outlawry by refusing participation in and condemning all transactions with illegal liquor.

CAN DEMAND REPEAL

"If citizens do not like a law, their duty as honest men and women is to discourage its violation; their right is openly to work for its repeal."

With a hope of improving present conditions, President Hoover announced that he will appoint a commission to make a searching investigation of the whole question of law enforcement and to make such recommendations for reorganization of the administration of Federal laws and court procedure "as may be found desirable."

In the copy of his prepared address he added that in the meantime it is essential to transfer from the Treasury to the Justice Department a large part of the enforcement activities. There was some confusion as to whether he read this sentence in his speech.

On behalf of the President it was stated at the White House subsequently that if he had ommitted it in his hurried reading because of the rainstorm in which the address was delivered, it was purely an oversight, and that the copy as written and made public expressed precisely his views on that subject.

FOR WORLD COURT

The Chief Executive devoted even more of his address to world peace than he did to law enforcement. He expressed the earnest hope that a way can be found for the United States to become a member of the

COOLIDGE EXITS TO CHEERS

Throngs Thunder Farewell Tribute to Retiring Chief Executive and Wife on Departure

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Calvin Coolidge was speeding northward tonight, again a private in the vast army of American citizenry.

Behind him in Washington the stir and joyous tumult that welcomed his successor to the President ebbed and flowed with the passing hours.

But the man at whom the finger of destiny pointed with such tragic suddenness in the dark, small hours of an August morning nearly six years ago was done with all that. His work finished, his eyes fixed on the peaceful sanctuary that awaits him in New England. He was going home.

Under all the noisy greetings to the new President, weaving in and out of the bright fabric a nation had prepared to acclaim its chosen leader, ran a voiceless message of God-speed from the people of America to a retiring chieftain who has been tireless in the performance of his duties to the end.

BUSY TO LAST HOUR

For Mr. Coolidge clung to the role of doing each day the work of that day to the very last. An hour before he joined President-elect Hoover for the swift ride down Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol, behind the trotting cavalry escort that was leading the way for him out of public life, the retiring President was grinding away at his desk at the White House. The same calm, almost inscrutable serenity that marked him in that August morning when he stood in a lamplighted room of his father's home at Plymouth, Vt., to make his first oath of service as President, marked him also as he passed again to private life. It was in his eyes and bearing as he sat at Hoover's right on the way to the Capitol, nodding and waving restrained, unhurried greetings to the cheering throngs that lined the way. It clothed him like a mantle in the President's room of the Senate where his last official acts were performed; it underlay the smiling pleasure with which he accepted the applause in the Senate chamber as he appeared to witness the inauguration of Vice-President Curtis, applause that came generously from the galleries and from political friend and foe alike on the Senate floor.

HEARS HOOVER ADDRESS

Throughout the delivery of President Hoover's inaugural address Mr. Coolidge, with Mrs. Coolidge at his side, sat rather impassively listening. Once he arose to pull his overcoat closer about him as the steady drip of rain was beating in below the tall columns of the inaugural stand to the discomfort even of the small group of most World Court, declaring that its reservations to the protocol of adherence should not be misinterpreted, and that no more potent instrumentality for the settlement of international differences is practicable of establishment.

Declaring that the acceptance of the recent treaty for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy should pave the way to a greater limitation of armament, President Hoover said, "we sincerely extend to the world" an offer of such limitation.

"Surely civilization is old enough, surely mankind is mature enough so that we ought in our own lifetime to find a way to permanent peace," he said.

WILL CALL CONGRESS

Turning to domestic affairs, Mr. Hoover reiterated that he will call a special session of Congress for enactment of farm and "limited" tariff revision legislation. He declared that neither can be postponed "in justice to our farmers, our labor and our manufacturers."

He said the election had again confirmed the determination of the American people that regulation of private enterprise and not government ownership and operation is the course rightly to be pursued in the relations to business. He also proposed a continuation of the policy of Federal assistance of collective self help by industries.

Other mandates of the November elections he held to be: . . . Continuance of economy in public expenditure; continued regulation of business to prevent domination in the community; the avoidance of policies which will involve the United States in the controversies of foreign nations; the expansion of public works and the promotion of welfare activities affecting education and the home.

TEXT OF ADDRESS

The text of the inaugural address of President Herbert Hoover follows:

My countrymen:

This occasion is not alone the administration of the most sacred oath which can be assumed by an American citizen. It is a dedication and consecration under God to the highest office in service of our people. I assume this trust in the humility of knowledge that only through the guidance of almighty providence can I hope to discharge its ever-increasing burdens.

It is keeping with tradition throughout our history that I should express simply and directly the opinions which I hold concerning some of the matters of present importance.

OUR PROGRESS

If we survey the situation of our nation both at home and abroad, we find many satisfactions; we find some causes for concern. We have emerged from the losses of the great war and the reconstruction following it with increased virility and strength. From this strength we have contributed to the recovery and progress of the world. What America has done has given renewed hope and courage to all who have faith in government by the people. In the large view, we have reached a higher degree of comfort and security than ever existed before in the history of the world. Through liberation from wide-spread poverty we have reached a higher degree of individual freedom than ever before. The devotion to and concern for our institutions are deep and sincere. We are steadily building a new race —a new civilization great in its own attainments. The influence and high purposes of our nation are respected among the peoples of the world. We aspire to distinction in the world, but to a distinction based upon confidence in our sense of justice as well as our accomplishments within our own borders and in our own lives. For wise guidance in this great period of recovery the nation is deeply indebted to Calvin Coolidge.

But all this majestic advance should not obscure the constant dangers from which self-government must be safeguarded. The strong man must at all times be alert to the attack of insidious disease.

FAILURE OF SYSTEM OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE

The most malign of all these dangers today is disregard and disobedience of law. Crime is increasing. Confidence in rigid and speedy justice is decreasing. I am not prepared to believe that this indicates any decay in the moral fiber of the American people. I am not prepared to believe that it indicates an impotence of the Federal government to enforce its laws.

It is only in part due to the additional burdens imposed upon our judicial system by the Eighteenth Amendment. The problem is much wider than that. Many influences had increasingly complicated and weakened our law-enforcement organization long before the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment.

To re-establish the vigor and effectiveness of law enforcement we must critically consider the entire Federal machinery of justice, the redistribution of its functions, the simplification of its procedure, the provision of additional special tribunals, the better selection of juries, and the more effective organization of our agencies of investigation and prosecution that justice may be sure and that it may be swift. While the authority of the Federal government extends to but part of our vast system of national, State and local justice, yet the standards which the Federal government established have the most profound influence upon the whole structure.

We are fortunate in the ability and integrity of our Federal judges and attorneys. But the system which these officers are called upon to administer is in many respects ill adapted to present-day conditions. Its intricate and involved rules of procedure have become the refuge of both big and little criminals. There is a belief abroad that by invoking technicalities, subterfuge and delay the ends of justice may be thwarted by those who can pay the cost.

Reform, reorganization and strengthening of our whole judicial and enforcement system both in civil and criminal sides have been advocated for years by statesmen, judges, and bar associations. First steps toward that end should not longer be delayed. Rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard of freedom, the basis of all ordered liberty, the vital force of progress. It must not come to be in our republic that it can be defeated by the indifference of the citizens, by exploitation of the delays and entanglements of the law, or by combinations of criminals. Justice must not fail because the agencies of enforcement are either delinquent or inefficiently organized. To consider these evils, to find their remedy, is the most sore necessity of our times.

ENFORCEMENT OF 18TH AMENDMENT

Of the undoubted abuses which have grown up under the Eighteenth Amendment, part are due to the causes I have just mentioned; but part are due to the failure of some States to accept their share of responsibility for concurrent enforcement and to the failure of many State and local officials to accept the obligation under their oath of office zealously to enforce the laws. With the failures from these many causes has come a dangerous expansion in the criminal elements who have found enlarged opportunities in dealing in illegal liquor.

But a large responsibility rests directly upon our citizens. There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. We must awake to the fact that this patronage from large numbers of law-abiding citizens is supplying the rewards and stimulating crime.

President Addresses Nation

Hoover Before Microphone

The picture shows President Hoover delivering his inaugural address before the microphones that transmitted it by radio to every part of the United States.

I have been selected by you to execute and enforce the laws of the country. I propose to do so to the extent of my own abilities, but the measure of success that the government shall attain will depend upon the moral support which you as citizens, extend. The duty of citizens to support the laws of the land is coequal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist. No greater national service can be given by men and women of good will—who, I know, are not unmindful of the responsibilities of citizenship—than that they should, by their example, assist in stamping out crime and outlawry by refusing participation in and condemning all transactions with illegal liquor. Our whole system of self-government will crumble either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support. The worst evil of disregard for some law is that it destroys respect for all law. For our citizens to patronize the violation of a particular law on the ground that they are opposed to it is destructive of the very basis of all that protection of life, of homes and property which they rightly claim under other laws. If citizens do not like a law, their duty as honest men and women is to discourage its violation; their right is openly to work for its repeal.

To those of criminal mind there can be no appeal but vigorous enforcement of the law. Fortunately they are but a small percentage of our people. Their activities must be stopped.

A NATIONAL INVESTIGATION

I propose to appoint a national commission for a searching investigation of the whole structure of our Federal system of jurisprudence, to include the method of enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the causes of abuse under it. Its purpose will be to make such recommendations for reorganization of the administration of Federal laws and court procedure as may be found desirable. In the meantime it is essential that a large part of the enforcement activities be transferred from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice as a beginning of more effective organization.

RELATION OF GOVERNMENT TO BUSINESS

The election has again confirmed the determination of the American people that regulation of private enterprise and not government ownership or operation is the course rightly to be pursued in our relation to business. In recent years we have established a differentiation in the whole method of business regulation between the industries which produce and distribute commodities on the one hand, and public utilities on the other. In the former, our laws insist upon effective competition; in the latter, because we substantially confer a monopoly by limiting competition, we must regulate their services and rates. The rigid enforcement of the laws applicable to both groups is the very base of equal opportunity and freedom from domination for all our people, and it is just as essential for the stability and prosperity of business itself as for the protection of the public at large. Such regulation should be extended by the Federal government within the limitations of the Constitution and only when the individual States are without power to protect their citizens through their own authority. On the other hand, we should be fearless when the authority rests only in the Federal government.

CO-OPERATION BY THE GOVERNMENT

The larger purpose of our economic thought should be to establish more firmly stability and security of business and employment and thereby remove poverty still further from our borders. Our people have in recent years developed a new-found capacity for co-operation among themselves to effect high purposes in public welfare. It is an advance toward the highest conception of self-government. Self-government does not and should not imply the use of political agencies alone. Progress is born of co-operation in the community—not from governmental restraints. The government should assist and encourage these movements of collective self-help by itself co-operating with them. Business has by co-operation made great progress in the advancement of service, in stability, in regularity of employment and in the correction of its own abuses. Such progress, however, can continue only so long as business manifests its respect for law.

There is an equally important field of co-operation by the Federal government with the multitude of agencies, State, municipal and private, in the systematic development of those processes which directly affect public health, recreation, education and the home. We have need further to perfect the means by which government can be adapted to human service.

EDUCATION

Although education is primarily a responsibility of the States and local communities, and rightly so, yet the nation as a whole is vitally concerned in its development everywhere to the highest standards and to complete universality. Self-government can succeed only through an instructed electorate. Our objective is not simply to overcome illiteracy. The nation has marched far beyond that. The more complex the problems of the nation become, the greater is the need for more and more advanced instruction. Moreover, as our numbers increase and as our life expands with science and invention, we must discover more and more leaders for every walk of life. We cannot hope to succeed in directing this increasingly complex civilization unless we can draw all the talent of leadership from the whole people. One civilization after another has been wrecked upon the attempt to secure sufficient leadership from a single group or class. If we would prevent the growth of class distinctions and would constantly refresh our leadership with the ideals of our people, we must draw constantly from the general mass. The full opportunity for every boy and girl to rise through the selective processes of education can alone secure to us this leadership.

PUBLIC HEALTH

In public health the discoveries of science have opened a new era. Many sections of our country and many groups of our citizens suffer from diseases, the eradication of which are mere matters of administration and moderate expenditure. Public health service should be as fully organized and as universally incorporated into our governmental system as is public education. The returns are a thousand fold in economic benefits, and infinitely more in reduction of suffering and promotion of human happiness.

WORLD PEACE

The United States fully accepts the profound truth that our own progress, prosperity and peace are interlocked with the progress, prosperity and peace of all humanity. The whole world is at peace. The dangers to a continuation of this peace today are largely the fear and suspicion which still haunt the world. No suspicion or fear can be rightly directed toward our country.

Those who have a true understanding of America know that we have no desire for territorial expansion, for economic or other domination of other peoples. Such purposes are repugnant to our ideals of human freedom. Our form of government is ill adapted to the responsibilities which inevitably follow permanent limitation of the independence of other peoples. Superficial observers seem to find no destiny for our abounding increase in population, in wealth and power except that of imperialism. They fail to see that the American people are engrossed in the building for themselves of a new economic system, a new social system, a new political system—all of which are characterized by aspirations of freedom of opportunity and thereby are the negation of imperialism. They fail to realize that because of our abounding prosperity our youth are pressing more and more into our institutions of learning; that our people are seeking a larger vision through art, literature, science and travel; that they are moving toward stronger moral and spiritual life—that from these things our sympathies are broadening beyond the bounds of our nation and race toward their true expression in a real brotherhood of man. They fail to see that the idealism of America will lead to no narrow or selfish channel, but inspire it to do its full share as a nation toward the advancement of civilization. It will do that not by mere declaration but by taking a practical part in supporting all useful international undertakings. We not only desire peace with the world, but to see peace maintained throughout the world. We wish to advance the reign of justice and reason toward the extinction of force.

ON WORLD PEACE

The recent treaty for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy sets an advanced standard in our conception of the relations of nations. Its acceptance should pave the way to greater limitation of armament, the offer of which we sincerely extend to the world. But its full realization also implies a greater and greater perfection in the instrumentalities for pacific settlement of controversies between nations. In the creation and use of these instrumentalities we should support every sound method of conciliation, arbitration and judicial settlement. American statesmen were among the first to propose, and they have constantly urged upon the world, the establishment of a tribunal for the settlement of controversies of a justiciable character. The Permanent Court of International Justice in its major purpose is thus peculiarly identified with American ideals and with American statesmanship. No more potent instrumentality for this purpose has ever been conceived and no other is practicable of establishment. The reservations placed upon our adherence should not be misinterpreted, the United States seeks by these reservations no special privilege or advantage but only to clarify our relation to advisory opinions and other matters which are subsidiary to the major purpose of the court. The way should, and I believe will, be found by which we may take our proper place in a movement so fundamental to the progress of peace.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Our people have determined that we should make no political engagements such as membership in the League of Nations, which may commit us in advance as a nation to become involved in the settlements of controversies between other countries. They adhere to the belief that the independence of America from such obligations increases its ability and availability for service in all fields of human progress.

I have lately returned from a journey among our sister republics of the Western Hemisphere. I have received unbounded hospitality and courtesy as their expression of friendliness to our country. We are held by particular bonds of sympathy and common interest with them. They are each of them building a racial character and a culture which is an impressive contribution to human progress. We wish only for the maintenance of their independence, the growth of their stability and their prosperity. While we have had wars in the Western Hemisphere, yet on the whole, the record is encouraging in contrast with that of other parts of the world. Fortunately, the New World is largely free from the inheritances of fear and distrust which have so troubled the Old World. We should keep it so.

SPEAKS OF PEACE

It is impossible, my countrymen, to speak of peace without profound emotion. In thousands of homes in America, in millions of homes around the world, there are vacant chairs. It would be a shameful confession of our unworthiness if it should develop that we have abandoned the hope for which all these men died. Surely civilization is old enough, surely mankind is mature enough so that we ought in our own lifetime to find a way to permanent peace. Abroad, to west and east, are nations whose sons mingled their blood with the blood of our sons on the battlefields. Most of these nations have contributed to our race, to our culture, our knowledge and our progress. From one of them we derive our very language and from many of them much of the genius of our institutions. Their desire for peace is as deep and sincere as our own.

Peace can be contributed to by respect for our ability in defense. Peace can be promoted by the limitation of arms and by the creation of the instrumentalities for peaceful settlement of controversies. But it will become a reality only through self-restraint and active effort in friendliness and helpfulness. I covet for this administration a record of having further contributed to advance the cause of peace.

PARTY RESPONSIBILITIES

In our form of democracy the expression of the popular will can be effected only through the instrumentality of political parties. We maintain party government not to promote intolerant partisanship but because opportunity must be given for expression of the popular will, and organization provided for the execution of its mandates and for accountability of government to the people. It follows that the government both in the executive and legislative branches must carry out in good faith the platforms upon which the party was intrusted with power. But the government is that of the whole people; the party is the instrument through which policies are determined and men chosen to bring them into being. The animosities of elections should have no place in our government for government must concern itself alone with the common weal.

SPECIAL SESSION OF THE CONGRESS

Action upon some of the proposals upon which the Republican party was returned to power, particularly further agricultural relief and limited changes in the tariff, cannot in justice to our farmers, our labor and our manufacturers be postponed. I shall, therefore, request a special session of Congress for the consideration of these two questions. I shall deal with each of them upon the assembly of the Congress.

OTHER MANDATES FROM THE ELECTION

It appears to me that the more important further mandates from the recent election were the maintenance of the integrity of the Constitution; the vigorous enforcement of the laws; the continuance of economy in public expenditure; the continued regulation of business to prevent domination in the community; the denial of ownership or operation of business by the government in competition with its citizens; the avoidance of policies which would involve us in the controversies of foreign nations; the more effective reorganization of the departments of the Federal government; the expansion of public works; and the promotion of welfare activities affecting education and the home.

These were the more tangible determinations of the election, but beyond them was the confidence and belief of the people that we would not neglect the support of the embedded ideals and aspirations of America. These ideals and aspirations are the touchstones upon which the day-to-day administration and legislative acts of government must be tested. More than this, the government must, so far as lies within its proper powers, give leadership to the realization of these ideals and to the fruition of these aspirations. No one can adequately reduce these things of the spirit to phrases or to a catalogue of definitions. We do know what the attainments of these ideals should be: The preservation of self-government and its full foundations in local government; the perfection of justice whether in economic or in social fields, the maintenance of ordered liberty; the denial of domination by any group or class; the building up and preservation of equality of opportunity; the stimulation of initiative and individuality; absolute integrity in public affairs; the choice of officials for fitness to office; the direction of economic progress toward prosperity and the further lessening of poverty; the freedom of public opinion; the sustaining of education and of the advancement of knowledge; the growth of religious spirit and the tolerance of all faiths; the strengthening of the home; the advancement of peace.

There is no short road to the realization of these aspirations. Ours is a progressive people, but with a determination that progress must be based upon the foundation of experience. Ill-considered remedies for our faults bring only penalties after them. But if we hold the faith of the men in our mighty past who created these ideals, we shall leave them heightened and strengthened for our children.

CONCLUSION

This is not the time and place for extended discussion. The questions before our country are problems of progress to higher standards; they are not the problems of degeneration. They demand thought and they serve to quicken the conscience and enlist our sense of responsibility for their settlement, and that responsibility rests upon you, my countrymen, as much as upon those of us who have been selected for office.

Ours is a land rich in resources; stimulating in its glorious beauty; filled with millions of happy homes; blessed with comfort and opportunity. In no nation are the institutions of progress more advanced. In no nation are the fruits of accomplishment more secure. In no nation is the government more worthy of respect. No country is more loved by its people. I have an abiding faith in their capacity, integrity and high purpose. I have no fears for the future of our country. It is bright with hope.

In the presence of my countrymen, mindful of the solemnity of this occasion, knowing what the task means and the responsibility which it involves, I beg your tolerance, your aid and your co-operation. I ask the help of Almighty God in this service to my country to which you have called me.

HOOVER'S MANY EPIGRAMS ADD SPICE TO INAUGURAL ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP) President Hoover's inaugural address bristled with epigrammatic statements. Here are some of them:

"We are steadily building a new race — a new civilization great in its own attainments."

"Rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard of freedom, the basis of all ordered liberty, the vital force of progress."

"There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it."

"The duty of citizens to support the laws is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist."

"Our whole system of self-government will crumble either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support."

"Those who have a true understanding of America know that we have no desire for territorial expansion for economic or other domination of other peoples."

"We not only desire peace with the world, but to see peace maintained throughout the world."

President's Oath Taken on Biblical Commendation of Vision and Law

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—This is the verse from Proverbs which Herbert Hoover selected to kiss on the administration to him of the oath of office as President:

"Where there is no vision the people perish; but he that keepeth the law, happy is he."

It had been announced previously that the Bible would be opened at the inauguration on the fifth chapter of St. Matthew, containing the Beatitudes so cherished by the Quaker faith.

COOLIDGES COMPLETE FUND DRIVE

Will Present $2,000,000 Check to Clarke School for Deaf Children

WASHINGTON, March 4. (Exclusive)—Before the President and Mrs. Coolidge left the White House today to become plain Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge of Northampton, Mass., they had the great pleasure of knowing that the $2,000,000 fund for the Clarke School for the Deaf, which they had sponsored with their name, was fully subscribed, and that the famous school where Mrs. Coolidge once taught will be able to strengthen and increase its service to children handicapped by the disability of total deafness. Mrs. Coolidge will present a check for $2,000,000 to the school when she returns to Northampton.

The goods news was conveyed to President and Mrs. Coolidge by Earle P. Charlton, national chairman of the fund, who made the trip from Palm Beach, Fla., to present to Mrs. Coolidge his own personal check for $100,000 and to make his final successful effort, with his associates on the national committee, to push the fund over its $2,000,000 goal.

Until noon today telegrams and letters bearing pledges and subscriptions, together with messages of good will and admiration for this last gracious and unselfish act on the part of the retiring President and his wife, poured into the White House, where Mr. Charlton was a guest, and it was not until just before the hour set for the completion of the campaign that the fund was assured.

New Vice-President Upsets Dawes on Senate Rules

CURTIS TAKES OVER GAVEL AND OUTLINES POLICIES

Cheers and Laughter Ring Forth in Solemn Chamber at Tilt Executed With Good-Nature

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Charles Curtis took over the Vice-Presidency today from Charles Dawes at a ceremony unique for its good-natured clash of pronouncements by the two leading participants.

The nation's officialdom gathered in the Senate chamber disturbed the solemnity of the hour by jovial applause when Dawes reiterated his antagonism to the Senate's liberal rules and Curtis, a moment later in his inaugural address, defended them.

In more moderate manner than four years ago upon his own ascendancy into office Dawes again criticized the unlimited debate allowed by the Senate. And the Senate, which totally has ignored his plea, good-naturedly applauded as the former army general emphatically said: "I take back nothing."

APPLAUSE IN SENATE

The interest of the audience intensified as Mr. Curtis began his address a moment later. Again applause and laughter rang through the assemblage facing Herbert Hoover and Calvin Coolidge as Curtis, thirty-four years a legislator and the father of the controverted rules, paused and in measured words declared: "The Vice-president is not one of the makers of the law, nor is he consulted about the rules adopted to govern your actions. His obligations to the people of the country to whom he owes his high position and his duty to you Senators call for a fair and impartial construction of the rules which you yourselves have adopted and which you alone may change."

MUCH AT HOME

Curtis looked very much at home as he took over the chair, in the chamber where he has served so long. He banged the gavel almost viciously as if by habit as he stepped into the Vice-Presidential harness and began in serious tone the reading of his brief address.

Sitting beside Coolidge and Hoover in front of the Vice-Presidential dais, Mr. Dawes smiled genially and crossed his legs as the chamber enjoyed the good-natured admonishment administered to him by his successor.

Dawes's vigorous gesticulations of four years ago were missing today. After administering the oath to Curtis he slipped his glasses into their case. He hesitated a moment. Curtis hesitated, then, as if unable to restrain the impulse, Dawes snapped shut the glass case and began speaking—extemporaneously.

DAWES STANDS PAT

But the criticism of the World War general and business man was tempered today with the feeling of one about to depart from company he loved. And Mr. Dawes spoke first of that feeling.

"At the time of parting between friends," Mr. Dawes said, "there is no place for acrimony and I assure you there is none in my heart. But I could not be true to myself and to my conception of the duties of this position if, as I leave it for the last time, when, if ever, disinterestedness should characterize my convictions, I did not speak again of the collective error of this great and powerful branch of the government.

"Alone of all the deliberative bodies of the world, the Senate of the United States, under its rules, has parted with the power to allot its time to the consideration of the subjects before it in accordance with their relative importance. This defect of procedure is fundamental. I take back nothing."

TEXT OF ADDRESS

The text of Mr. Curtis's address follows:

Senators: The United States Senate is today one of the most distinguished legislative bodies in the world—one of the greatest actual and potential powers for the promotion and advancement of civilization. Its personnel is of a caliber equal to, if not the superior of, any previous body heretofore assembled. Any individual, no matter how outstanding in the realms of leadership, political or otherwise, might well be proud to preside over its deliberations. I may, therefore, be pardoned in declaring here the feeling of pride which I experience that through my election as Vice-President of the United States such a signal honor has come to me. I hope I may prove worthy of the people's choice, and of you. No efforts of mine will be spared to aid and assist you in the successful solution of the numerous intricate and important problems which will come before you.

RELATIONS HAPPY

During the course of my twenty years' service among you as Senator from the State of Kansas I have profited much from the wisdom, tact and experience of the members of this august body as displayed by its most modest and unassuming members as well as by its most outstanding and brilliant leaders.

My relations with the Senators during all these years have been pleasant. My memories of persons and events in this chamber constitute some of the most delightful in a long public life by no means devoid of warming memories.

At this point I may with propriety, I think, be permitted to offer to the honorable gentleman who is retiring as presiding officer of this body, Mr. Dawes, an expression of appreciation, admiration and esteem. We will all agree that he has filled his arduous and frequently onerous duties with credit and distinction, not only to himself but to the Senate and to the people of the United States.

SENATORS WELCOMED

It would seem fitting also at this point to offer a word of welcome and greeting to our new Senators. They will find their fellow Senators, as I have found them, most human and kindly gentlemen, willing and anxious to help newcomers where they may.

My service among you has impressed me with the responsibilities of every Senator, and at the same time it has given me a clear understanding of the duties and obligations of the Vice-President.

He is not one of the makers of the law, nor is he consulted about the rules adopted to govern your actions. His obligations to the people of the country to whom he owes his high position and his duty to you Senators call for a fair and impartial construction of the rules which you, yourselves, have adopted and which you alone may change. His obligations and duties require a recognition and application of the precedents which have brought the United States Senate to its present recognized position of paramount importance as a legislative body.

PART OF BODY

With the familiarity gained from long years of close observation, assisted by your full co-operation without which little can be done, I hope to be able to sense your desires certainly and surely; to obey your will, which is the will of the people; to give it effect with the utmost dispatch, and to expedite the business of the Senate in an orderly and speedy manner for this, I take it, is not only your desire but also the wish of our people. In effect, to be an integral part of this body, not a being strange to or remote and detached from it.

To do these things within the limits of my abilities I conceive to be the whole scope and sphere of the Vice-President. The task is not easy. I ask your help and indulgence.

With a whole-hearted spirit of co-operation between us I am certain your achievements in the Congress before us will redound to the immediate and ultimate good of all; your proceedings will be so much to your credit in the eyes of our people and so much to the credit of our people in the eyes of the world that they will stand for years in the future as the highest mark of legislative endeavor within, and perhaps without the United States. It gives me pleasure, sir, to receive the gavel from you and to take over the duties of the Vice-President.

LITTLE HOOVERS UNCONCERNED

Herbert No. 3 and Peggy Ann Play With Blocks While Their Grandfather Takes Oath as Nation's President; Odd Events of Day Come to Light

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP) Their grandfather, Herbert Hoover, was elevated today to the nation's highest office, but small Herbert Hoover III, and Peggy Ann, were unconcerned. They unceremoniously were building block houses at the S-street home while the ceremonies at the Capitol were being conducted.

Herbert Hoover was asked by Senator Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the Congressional Committee, this morning before the inauguration if he had read the morning papers.

"I have," replied Mr. Hoover.

"Then you saw that you had been elected."

"Yes."

"Then you're it, come on and get inaugurated."

President Hoover was reminded today of the days of his early career as a mining engineer in Australia by a group of more than 100 Australian naval cadets visiting in Washington. They watched the inauguration from the Capitol roof and raised the Australian flag in his honor. It was the only foreign emblem flown during the ceremony.

Traditions of the American Revolution were brought to President Hoover's inauguration in three military contingents which participated in the parade—the Connecticut foot guards, dating from 1775, the Connecticut horse guards, a regiment founded in 1780, and the crack Richmond Blues, another regiment that fought in the War for Independence. The Connecticut foot guards with brilliant scarlet and white uniforms and their tall bearskin hats vied in their uniforms with the Richmond Blues clad in their impressive buff and blue uniforms with a high white feather topping their shakos.

The Bible used by President Hoover when he took the oath is of old family origin but few details of its history have been disclosed. The Bible used by Vice-President Curtis is one printed in Germany more than 300 years ago and has been in the family of Representative Strong of Kansas.

Five-year-old Paulina Longworth, daughter of the Speaker of the House, today was one of the most excited spectators of the Hoover inauguration. She and twenty of her friends, all about her age, witnessed the ceremony in a box outside her father's office. The children, however, displayed more interest in the varicolored umbrellas in the crowd below than the solemn induction into office of the new President.

CONGRESS ENDS WITH EULOGIES

Retiring Leaders Given Farewells

Many Notable Measures Enacted

Tribute Paid Garrett of Tennessee

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—The Seventieth Congress ended its session quietly today after writing a record as colorful as that of any of its recent predecessors.

It enacted the bill to control the turbulent waters of the Mississippi River system; greatly expanded the nation's naval forces; paved the way for harnessing for man's uses the mighty Colorado River, and placed upon the statute books a new act to materially increase penalties for violation of the prohibition laws.

In addition, the Senate ratified the Kellogg treaty to have war renounced as a national policy by the nations of the world.

The Congress, however, left as a legacy to its successor the vexing problems of farm relief and tariff revision but it did take steps to enable early consideration of both these questions at a special session of the new Congress to be convened some time next month.

ENDS PEACEFULLY

The closing hours on Capitol Hill today were in contrast to the Seventieth Congress' opening session two years ago when charges of excessive campaign expenditures threw the Senate into a turmoil and the Beck election contest produced confusion in the House.

For a brief space this morning a controversy over a bill to postpone the effective date of the national origins provisions of the Immigration Act threatened to upset the decorum of the Senate, but this dispute faded as the noon hour approached and the often-filibustering Senate came to a peaceful end.

The immigration measure, passed yesterday by the House at the first Sunday session in six years, died with the Congress, and under existing laws the national origins clause will become operative on July 1. Under its provisions England and Northern Ireland will be favored in immigrations quotas at the expense of Germany, Sweden and Norway.

LEADERS EULOGIZED

The last minutes in both houses were dominated by farewells and eulogies to departing leaders.

In the Senate, Charles Curtis, of Kansas, who retired two days ago to ascend to the Vice-Presidency, was paid tributes by Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, and then by Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, who opposed Curtis for the Vice-Presidency in the last election.

In the House as the noon hour approached Representative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, the Republican leader, said that before the bang of the gavel he would like to hear from Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the minority leader, who, after twenty-four years of continuous service, today retired.

The chamber was in confusion as Tilson spoke. Members, with hats and coats on their arms, were leaving through the main doorway for the inaugural ceremonies, but as Garrett rose from his seat a hush fell. The exit of members ceased.

Garrett walked to the wall in front of the rostrum. Turning and facing the Speaker, one of his closest personal friends, he said:

FOR STATE RIGHTS

"Mr. Speaker and my friends of the House: . . . This is perhaps an occasion when it would be quite proper for me to say something of a personal nature or carrying a personal flavor and yet I shall not do that because if I were to attempt it, I realize I would display an emotion which, while I certainly would not be ashamed of it, nevertheless would not be of interest to the House."

Garrett's voice was low. It faltered slightly at times, but he could be heard throughout the chamber. Members were silent. The voice that so frequently had commanded their attention in the heat of partisan debate was speaking for the last time in the House. They paused in their rush to see a new President inaugurated—to the very end of his Congressional career Garrett commanded their attention and respect.

The Tennesseean's final plea was for State's rights. "I believe that the one greatest strain on this nation was withstood in the Civil War," he said. "In the final analysis, paradoxical as it would seem, each side was fighting for a fundamental principle, and that was the preservation of local self-government."

GLORY FOR FIRST LADIES

Mrs. Hoover Maintains Quiet Dignity as Husband Takes Oath, While Mrs. Coolidge Smiles

BY MARGUERITE YOUNG

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover gripped her purse and straightened her shoulders with pride as her husband pronounced the President's oath.

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge smiled.

From the moment she walked out of her old S-street home until she entered the White House after the inaugural parade, Mrs. Hoover preserved a quiet dignity—broken, while the public watched, not more than half a dozen times.

Mrs. Coolidge, from the start of the procession from the White House to the departure on the train that tonight was bearing her toward Northampton, appeared anything but unhappy to be escaping from confinement in a palace that had its glamour and its glories, but its burdens, too.

WRAP CHANGED

Evidently the weather caused Mrs. Hoover to change her mind about her inaugural wrap at the last moment. While the crowd waited for her appearance from the Hoover home, word came from within that she would be dressed in a plum-colored dress and coat; but she walked out instead in a black broadcloth coat, with brown fur collar. The plum-colored gown was of velvet, with a close-fitting waist and circular skirt. Her hat matched, its soft, small brim showing a bit of her haid and framing her rougeless face.

While other members of her immediate family drove directly to the Capitol, she rode to the White House to say farewell to her friend and predecessor, Mrs. Coolidge.

SAD IN PARTING

Their last farewell completed a half hour later within the executive mansion, Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Hoover walked out together to the waiting cars. About the windows of the massive old structure were clustered members of the staff of the mansion to whom Mrs. Coolidge has been a friend as well as mistress in the long years behind. She waved them last greetings—and there was a fleeting touch of sadness in the parting.

Mrs. Coolidge, dressed in a furless tan suit, straightlined and matched by a soft straw hat adorned with a ribbon band and tassel, took her place beside Mrs. Hoover in the machine directly behind that of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Coolidge. She carried a brown fox neckpiece over her arm.

Rolling down the broad avenue with its banked walls of humanity there was a share of handclapping and cheering for the first ladies, present and future. Mrs. Coolidge leaned forward repeatedly to wave energetically back at the crowds.

Curtis Heard by Indian Students

LAWRENCE (Kan.) March 4. (AP)—One thousand Haskell Indian Institute students, representing every leading tribe in the United States, today listened to the inaugural address of Charles Curtis, new Vice-rPesident, and the only man of Indian blood ever to attain such a position.

The address of the Indians' favorite came into the Haskell chapel through radio loud speakers.

One of the largest buildings on the campus bears Curtis's name.

Campaign Also Inaugurated for Re-election of Hoover to Presidency in 1932

PROPOSAL MADE BY CLUB LEADER

Northern Republican Women Hear Nomination

Four Years Held Too Brief for Program

Bay City Engineers Send Felicitations

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Although Herbert Hoover had been President only about an hour when the action was taken, Northern California women, meeting under the auspices of the Republican Women's Federation of the district, today launched a moral campaign for his re-election four years hence.

Mrs. Alfred McLaughlin, introduced as the representative of the independent Republican forces among women, broached the subject in an address in which she said:

"Hoover will do all that it is humanly possible to do in the next four years in carrying out his promises, but it is up to the women of the land to persuade the men to let this man carry on farther than that.

"We have the spectacular in America today in that the man best prepared for the office since Jefferson is in the Presidency."

Although the meeting was called by the Republican women, all parties were represented. The theme of the meeting and the addresses made was that President Hoover is the choice of women throughout the nation more than any other President in history, and that it is incumbent upon women to see that he is given all co-operation and moral and actual support.

Congratulatory telegrams were sent both to the President and to Mrs. Hoover, whose inaugural bouquet of gardenias was the present of the federation.

The Engineers' Club of San Francisco, meeting tonight in a felicitation gathering, sounded a note of personal pride in the newly inaugurated President, passed on through the "I knew him when" stage and eventuated in telegrams in which it was said:

"We know your success will reflect a better appreciation by the public of the importance to all lines of industry and commerce of that form of service which can be rendered only by the engineer."

DINNER GIVEN STIMSON BY JAPANESE PREMIER

TOKIO, March 4. (AP)—Premier Tanaka today gave a dinner in honor of Henry L. Stimson, Governor-General of the Philippines, who is en route to Washington to assume the post of Secretary of State in the Hoover Cabinet. The entire Japanese Cabinet, foreign diplomats and leading Japanese were present.

FLOOD OF FELICITATIONS

Thousands of Telegrams of Congratulation Go to Hoover from Southern California

The suggestion of The Times that California give expression to its satisfaction over the inauguration of the first Californian ever to be President of the United States by telegraphing congratulations to Herbert Hoover was adopted to an extent which well-nigh buried the telegraph companies yesterday.

Copies of telegrams sent from all parts of Southern California were still pouring into The Times office at 6 p.m., this newspaper having undertaken to publish as many as possible of those received up to that hour. They are in such large number as to make it impossible to print more than a fraction and, in the cases of some of the longer wires, it has been necessary to abbreviate them for lack of space.

Following are copies of some of the telegrams sent Mr. Hoover, the dateline and salutation being omitted to save space:

"A new era for the United States of America and California begins March 4 at your inauguration. The nation and California are proud of its new President.

"SYLVESTER L. WEAVER."

THE RECORD-BREAKING NEW NASH "400"

The New NASH "400" is the one car at the show you must not miss seeing

Twin-Ignition Motor
Far more power and speed with greater economy of gasoline than possible with single ignition. At every speed this new Nash Twin-Ignition motor delivers wonderful performance. Instant, alert get-away and surpassing smoothness through the full range of power and speed.

World's Easiest Driver Control
We challenge the world on this new "400" feature. Nowhere is there another car so marvelously easy to steer and turn and park, or with such effortless clutch action as the new Nash "400". Nash is far ahead of the industry in ease of driver control.

Houdaille Shock Absorbers
These Houdailles are especially engineered by Nash to the new "400" with outboard mounting, new to the industry and exclusive to Nash. They are double-acting—softening the action of the springs both when they are depressed and on the rebound and giving you fullest riding ease.

Front and Rear Bumpers
These are the finest bumpers built, exceptionally beautiful and strong. They are integrally designed by Nash to harmonize perfectly with the new "400" Salon body design. As regular equipment at no extra cost, they contribute to the remarkably low Nash price, delivered, in this city.

—In fact it is an entire show by itself—because it embodies all the newest and most valuable motor car developments —all as regular equipment at no extra cost.

... In any comparison you may make, your own good judgment will prove that we are under-stating the actual facts about the new NASH "400"...

Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication
Press a pedal and 21 points, including all spring shackles, are oiled automatically and instantly under 100 pounds pressure. Saves time and money. One of the greatest features of convenience and economy ever offered motorists.

7-Bearing Crankshaft
This is the world's finest practice—expensive, but worth it—because of finer performance than is possible with fewer bearings. Each connecting rod is given maximum support by big bearings on both sides. This is the modern type of engineering.

Refreshing Comfort
The deep, soft cushions, form-fitted to the body, the wide seats, the roominess of the Nash "400" interior, all help to bring you to the end of every ride refreshed beyond anything in your whole motor car experience. On the longest trip you rest as you ride.

Costly Car Interior Finish
Costly upholstery and luxurious craftsmanship distinguish the new Nash "400" interiors at once from competitive cars. You can see the difference the instant you open the door. Nash "400" interior finish is matched only by the very highest-priced cars.

NEW PRESIDENT GIVEN OVATION

Coolidges Take Train After Capitol Ceremony

Former Executive Loses Stern Demeanor

Capitol, Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover riding together with an escort of three troops of cavalry. Vice-President Dawes was not a member of the group, being at his post as presiding officer of the Senate. There were billows of applause as the Presidential car passed along the avenue, and both Coolidge and Hoover kept busy acknowledging the noisy, enthusiastic greetings from the packed sidewalks and stands.

Reaching the Capitol, President Coolidge and his successor-to-be entered the President's room on the Senate side, and there awaited the moment for the induction into office of Mr. Curtis, who for years had been Republican Senate leader. Curtis took the gavel from the hands of Vice-President Dawes before an assembly in which were intermingled the brilliant uniforms of diplomats, army and navy officers, the somber robes of the justices of the Supreme Court and the formal attire of some members of Congress.

DRAMA IN SENATE

A reminiscent touch of the electric atmosphere of four years ago was given to the Curtis inauguration. Vice-President Dawes on that day had given the Senate a sound lecture over the rule which permits unlimited debate. Today defiantly, but good-naturedly, he said farewell to that body with the reminder that he would take nothing back. He smiled with his listeners as he descended from the rostrum and seated himself near President Coolidge in the Senate chamber and listened to Vice-President Curtis say that the Senate was master of its own course.

The rain was showering the Senate skylights when the Senate finally adjourned and the inaugural party moved toward the open-air stand on the plaza for the swearing in of Mr. Hoover. Chief Justice Taft administered the oath of office to Mr. Hoover on the twentieth anniversary of the day Taft himself had taken over the reins of government from Theodore Roosevelt. A President, a former President and a President-elect stood there until the few words of obligation prescribed by the Constitution made them one President and two former Presidents.

COLOR IN SCENE

The crowd which listened to Mr. Hoover's inaugural address presented a brilliant mixture of color as it stood there in the rain. A myriad of umbrellas bobbed about, their color emphasized by the glints of their water-sheeted fabrics. Hats of every hue mingled in the audience which followed the new President's declaration of faith attentively and applauded his telling points.

The plaza ceremonies complete, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge departed for their journey homeward, and the procession of acclaim was formed. The President and Vice-President rode to the White House ahead of the parade for luncheon. As they passed in automobiles, with tops down, they repeatedly waved their high top hats to the cheering spectators, water poured across their faces as they extended their signs of appreciation.

REVIEW PARADE

Half an hour later the two leading figures in the events of the day, surrounded by members of their parties, were seated in the reviewing stand to return salutes of the thousands who marched by in honor of a new President.

The end of the trudging column passed a few minutes before 5 o'clock. Then President Hoover invited into the White House the Republican National Committee, the members of the new and old Cabinet, and the committees which arranged for the inaugural ceremonies. The meeting was for the purpose of exchanging greetings.

The new Cabinet did not go into office with Mr. Hoover, it having been decided to withhold their nominations from the Senate until tomorrow when a one-day special session will deal with them.

Tonight the President invited Mr. and Mrs. Mark Requa, of California, as their first White House dinner guests; and that informal function finishes the first day of the Presidential life of Herbert Hoover.

Wife Greets Delaware Crowds With Words: "He is Asleep"

WILMINGTON (Del.) March 4. (AP)—The train carrying former President and Mrs. Coolidge to New England made a one-minute stop here at 5:12 p.m. About 100 persons crowded about the rear car occupied by the Coolidges. There were shouts for the former President and Mrs. Coolidge appeared to say:

"He is asleep."

"Sorry to see you go," somebody shouted, and Mrs. Coolidge smiling said: "You can never lose me."

Russian Wants Name of Hoover

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (AP)—While Herbert Hoover was taking the oath that made him President of the United States a Russian immigrant stood in Federal court here today and asked that his name might be changed to Hoover.

The Russian, Vadim Alexandrovitch Macareitcheff, said he liked Hoover because of the executive's work in distributing food to Russian children after the World War.

ROLPH SENDS GOOD WISHES TO COOLIDGE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (Exclusive)—In a telegram to President Coolidge on his retirement, Mayor Rolph today presented San Francisco's compliments and expressed the city's good wishes to the former Chief Executive and Mrs. Coolidge.

What happens when you are laid up?

BROWN: "—understand Miller is quite ill."

NEIGHBOR: "Yes, he had a serious operation. Had a relapse and has been laid up for weeks."

BROWN: "It's an expensive proposition to be sick like that. How can he get by while his earnings are cut off?"

NEIGHBOR: "Miller, you know, is a pretty level-headed fellow. He bought a '5-way' policy a few months ago from the 'Pacific Mutual.' He draws $3900 while sick for the first year and then $150 monthly as long as he lives during the time he is totally disabled.

BROWN: "That surely will be a big help to his family. He is the third fellow I've heard of in the last couple of weeks who has profited from that '5-way' insurance. I'm going to look into it myself."

You, too, can PROFIT from this modern policy that "pays-5-ways." Note at left what this Multiple Income Policy can do for you.

It Pays "5 Ways"

1. PAYS YOU FOR ACCIDENT $200 a month for total disability and $100 a month for partial disability. Also $10,000 for loss of hands, feet or sight.
2. PAYS YOU FOR SICKNESS $200 a month while totally disabled.
3. PAYS YOU FOR PERMANENT TOTAL DISABILITY $3900 for the first year and $150 per month thereafter during such disability for life, plus $10,000 cash at age 65. All life premiums waived during permanent disability.
4. PAYS YOU $10,000 Cash at age 65. Pays earlier if you let your dividends accumulate.
5. PAYS YOUR BENEFICIARY $10,000 Cash if you die before you are 65, or $20,000 cash if accidentally killed.

DUTCHESS "CORDS"

Wherever you find "regular fellows"—in college or in camp, on hiking trails or fishing trips, or anywhere else that outdoor men get together—you are sure to find sturdy corduroy trousers made by the Dutchess Manufacturing Company—in other words, the famous "Dutchess Cords".

For many years "Dutchess Cords" have been favorites with college men everywhere—and it didn't take other men long to learn that corduroys which can "stand the gaff" of campus wear are mighty good "cords" for any kind of hard service.

The Dutchess Company makes a specialty of trousers, and the same sturdy workmanship and hard wearing qualities that have made Dutchess Cords famous will be found in all of their trousers—in tweeds, worsteds, cheviots, homespuns and other fabrics. The name "Dutchess" is your guarantee.

And Dutchess Cords still carry their famous iron-clad guarantee of "10 cents a button—$1 a rip." That shows that Dutchess Cords aren't afraid of "rough stuff."

Inaugural Parade Dazzling, History-Making Spectacle

GREATEST SINCE ROOSEVELT DAY

Marching Host Undaunted by Chilling Drizzle

Lines of Spectators Wet and Bedraggled, But Gay

Number of Capital Visitors Placed at 200,000

BY PHILIP KINSLEY

WASHINGTON, March 4. (Exclusive)—Today's inaugural show takes its place in history as the most colorful and spirited since the time of Roosevelt. And this in the face of gloomy skies and cold rain, which brought discomfort to the multitude that had gathered in the capital from all parts of the country.

The weather was much like that which ushered in the administration of William Howard Taft twenty years ago, but it was not so cold. President Hoover and Mr. Taft, now Chief Justice, and others of the immediate Presidential party, watched it all from a glassed-in inclosure in front of the White House. There hardly will be any casualties from the cold in that group. In the streets, however, the people were huddled under umbrellas and newspapers which rapidly became soggy messes of pulp.

The remarkable feature about it all was the cheerful determination of the crowds along Pennsylvania avenue to see it through. Thousands of holiday costumes were ruined, silk stockings splashed with mud, hats bedraggled, shoes wet through, but the crowds stayed until the end and enjoyed one of the best parades in the history of these quadrennial celebrations.

ESTIMATE OF CROWD

It is estimated that 200,000 visitors were in Washington for this event. From 8 o'clock in the morning until 5 in the afternoon they were jammed along the lines of traffic, forming parade units, or seeking favored places from which to get the first glimpse of the new President.

The parade was a panorama of national history. There was a touch of all, from the colonial days to the latest women's marching club of the recent campaign. It was representative of the entire country, although somewhat spotty in this particular, some States taking much pride in their turnouts of crack military outfits, others just sending on a delegation of silk-hatted politicians who bowed from the shelter of limousines.

Indians, cowboys, marching clubs from Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Virginia; special delegations from Iowa, Kansas and Ohio, gave the Rooseveltian flavor to the event. It was not the simple inauguration of the Coolidge and Harding days.

GRAND-DAUGHTER THERE

From the great window of the court of honor, built right over the avenue in front of the White House, President Hoover enjoyed the whole show immensely. He had his little grand-daughter, Peggy Hoover in front of him and shared in her pleasure as the gay bands marched by, the drum majors strutted and the music filled the town. She is just tall enough to peer over the edge of the window. Taft sat behind, occasionally leaning over to talk to Peggy, too. The Vice-President was there, too, and Mrs. Hoover, and all the members of the Cabinet and the chief of the Army staff, Gen. Summerall. It made something of a picture to remember for those thousands of marchers who tramped with eyes left to salute the symbol of the nation.

From the White House to the Capitol, Pennsylvania avenue was transformed into a sort of arena. Seats were in high tiers in front of all the buildings. The Treasury Building was nearly blocked from entrance. These were all sold and all occupied, it appeared, even through the rain. In addition there were rows of people ten deep for a mile along the great avenue.

AVENUE OF PRESIDENTS

All our presidents have ridden down this street, on horseback, in carriage or by automobile. Mr. Hoover, the President by a few minutes, traversed it today in a rainstorm, lifting his hat at frequent intervals, as the cheering crowds welcomed him. He was in an open car and got thoroughly wet before he reached the White House. Mrs. Hoover, beside him, was wrapped in fur.

This was his part of the show and he did not deny the people the sight for which they had waited for hours. He went into the White House as master at 2 o'clock, had luncheon with his family and a few friends in his own rooms and was out in the reviewing stand before 3. He sat there or stood there until 5, while the parade passed. Most of the time he was getting up to salute the colors that seemed to be endless in number.

After the parade he went into the White House to remain for the evening. But here again he showed his willingness to take part in a big show. He gave a buffet supper for more than 2000 persons. Not since the days of Andy Jackson has anything like this been seen in the White House. On that historic occasion, when the candidate of the common people had ousted the aristocrats, his friends stormed the White House and tramped it full of mud. Jackson cut a huge cheese and much rum was taken. Mr. Hoover served coffee, salad and chicken patties.

INFORMAL AFFAIR

At the rate of this entertainment the new regime in the White House will not make any record in personal economy. It brings a new note.

The invitations to this affair were informal, word being passed around and the people gathered in from all directions. Almost anyone could "crash the gate" at the mansion this week and the police at the door were quite mystified.

The first part of the parade was made up of the grand marshal's section, staff men of the Army, orderlies and seven units of the Regular Army. The Navy, Coast Guard section, National Guard, Naval Reserve and Officers' Reserve came next. By the side of the President's box his color guard stood with the President's flag, which was dipped in salute to all the passing colors. The guard consisted of a marine and soldier and a sailor from the Mayflower.

The second section was political and quite up to date. The marshal was Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee. All his aides came next, then more dripping citizens, whose way was enlivened by the Quantico Marine Band.

GOVERNORS IN LINE

The State governors came next in the order of their entry into the Union. This was led by Delaware, with a band and National Guard unit. Pennsylvania made a fine show, with Gov. Fisher and State officials at the head. One feature was 100 battle flags and standards of the State. New Jersey sent Gov. Larson, many officials, a troop of National Guard and several special delegations.

Connecticut made a fine appearance also. Gov. Trumbull was accompanied by the Governor's foot guards, a military organization which dates back to Colonial days. The horse guards were there, too. Among the Governor's escorts was a new member of his staff, soon to become his son-in-law, young John Coolidge, whose father then was on his way home to Northampton.

Massachusetts sent Gov. Allen and staff but close-by Maryland, instead of Gov. Ritchie, was represented by Brig.-Gen. Milton C. Reckford. South Carolina sent Gov. Richards and staff; New Hampshire, Charles W. Tobey and staff, and Virginia, Gov. Byrd. Virginia looked like a Republican State from its turnout. The famous Richmond Blues were there, the Richmond Howitzers, the Richmond Grays, three bands and a delegation of citizens.

NEW YORK GROUP

Commissioner of Education Graves and Maj.-Gen. William N. Haskell of the New York National Guard, representing Gov. Roosevelt, came next. Several of the cars supposed to bear State delegates went by empty. North Carolina, Rhode Island, Vermont, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Mississippi, were represented by governors. Ohio sent a band and a special delegation from Marietta, the home town of Gen. Dawes.

Illinois came along about this time, Gov. Emmerson and his aide Gen. Carlos D. Black, and the rest of the official delegation riding in closed cars.

Alabama, Maine, Missouri and Michigan were next in line, with their governors heading small delegations. Florida and Texas did even better than some of the rock-ribbed Republican States of the North. From Florida came the famous harmonica band made up of boys and girls who played "Yankee Doodle" as they went by. Gov. Carlton was there. Texas sent Gov. Moody and staff.

The Coe College band accompanied Gov. Hamill and the Iowa delegation. They swung by to the tune ofof the tall corn song. Wisconsin was made colorful by the presence of the St. John's Military Academy cadets. They made as fine an appearance as the ancient military companies of the East. Minnesota, Wyoming and New Mexico also were represented by governors. Military colleges and schools, mostly from this neighborhood, were next in line. St. John's College, a Catholic institution of Washington, made a big appearance.

The veterans came next. Mr. Hoover took special notice of these and saluted each car where men of the Grand Army and men of the Confederate Army were riding Down this same street during the Civil War the soldiers of Lincoln went limping in defeat more than once.

Disabled veterans stumped by on wooden legs or with other signs of battle. Jewish veterans of the wars of the republic, smartly dressed American Legion men from many points and patriotic societies were next. A delegation of cowboys came whooping by.

INDIAN MARCHERS

The United States Indian Band from Tulsa, Okla., and a delegation of old Indian chiefs in full war paint and feathers drew much applause. The show spirit of nonmilitary organizations was shown in the many marching clubs that participated. The women were there in force, the drum corps and Republican club organizations, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, glee clubs, the Simmons University Cowboy Band from Texas, a special delegation from West Branch, Iowa, Mr. Hoover's birthplace, kept the President smiling as he looked out out of his window. He had a special greeting for West Branch, where his school-teacher of boyhood days, Miss Mollie Carran, was one of the delegation.

Kansas sent a lively delegation of bands and drum corps. The Indians looked up to see smiling Charlie Curtis, to whom they will now look for much comfort. The cowboys yelled "Hello, Herb" as they held their rearing, dancing ponies.

One Indian was naked in the rain, except for a breech-cloth. He was riding a horse and did not seem to mind the weather.

The tailors and, perhaps, the doctors should do a good business tomorrow.

CURTIS FORGETS TO ADJOURN SENATE BUT CORRECTS ERROR

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—One of the strangest sessions in the long history of the Senate occurred today when Vice-President Curtis hastened back to the almost deserted chamber to declare it adjourned, before he rode down the avenue in the inaugural parade.

Formal adjournment was neglected in the excitement following the inauguration of Mr. Curtis and the ensuing departure of the distinguished guests for the Presidential ceremony. Four years ago, Mr. Dawes forgot it, too, and forgot to return to perform that deed.

But Mr. Curtis recalled it today. As soon as Herbert Hoover had concluded his inaugural address, Mr. Curtis rushed back to the Senate. Fortunately there were three or four members present, cleaning up their desks. Janitors were busy stacking the hundreds of extra chairs in the room.

Mr. Curtis went to the dais. Not finding the gavel, he pounded for order. The janitors stopped short. Senator Hale, Republican, Maine, moved that the Senate meet daily at noon, the regular hour. This was approved. Hale then moved adjournment and Mr. Curtis went on his way.

RULERS OF WORLD IN GREETINGS

Congratulatory Messages Received by Hoover from Many Heads of Nations

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Messages of congratulations and felicitations from a score of rulers and presidents of foreign countries upon his inauguration were received today by President Hoover.

President Doumergue of France and the Emperor of Japan both expressed the view that the new President's administration will strengthen the bonds of friendship between their countries and the United States.

Many of the messages came from presidents of South American republics which Mr Hoover visited on his good-will tour. They include President Siles of Bolivia, President Ibanez of Chile, President Machado of Cuba, President Leguia of Peru, former President of Nicaragua Diaz and President Ayora of Ecuador.

The Crown Prince of Sweden, the presidents of Poland and Finland and President Kemal of Turkey, together with the Shah of Persia, are among others who dispatched congratulatory messages.

Miss Billie Burke, Popular American Actress and Star of the Stage.

"To stay slender reach for a Lucky Strike instead of a sweet when your sweet-tooth tempts you. I have practised this for years and find it a most effective way of retaining a trim figure. There is something to the toasting process which develops a flavor in Luckies that completely satisfies the desire for sweets. At the same time, toasting takes out the irritants and Luckies never affect the voice."

Miss Billie Burke, Popular American Actress and Star of the Stage.

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Washington's Shouting and Tumult Dies

NEW PRESIDENT TAKES UP LOAD

Inaugural Pomp Past, Hoover Shoulders Burden

Domestic Problems Impose Heaviest Weight

Foreign Affairs Offer No Present Complications

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—President Hoover, the glamour and glory of inauguration past, looked ahead tonight to tasks that have vexed two administrations and press heavily upon his own for early execution.

Farm relief, tariff revision, more effective prohibition enforcement, disposition of Muscle Shoals and railroad consolidation are foremost among the domestic problems that await solution.

In the field of foreign affairs there are further naval limitations, steps looking to American membership in the World Court; the promotion generally of better relations with the Latin-American republics and the question of American marine occupation of Nicaragua.

FIRST FOR ACTION

Agriculture and tariff are to occupy the attention of a special session of Congress to be called for mid-April, but consideration of other subjects in the domestic field will go over until the regular session, except that the President will appoint a national commission to study prohibition and the processes of general law enforcement.

None of the international questions is pressing at the moment and meantime there is to be a realignment of the diplomatic service, customary with the changes of administrations, but even that will await the arrival here of Henry L. Stimson, new Secretary of State, who is on his way home from Manila.

ON JOB TODAY

Mr. Hoover will take his place at the Presidential desk in executive offices at 9 a.m. tomorrow and immediately will plunge into a mass of work. One of his first tasks will be to transmit the names of his Cabinet selections to the Senate, which will convene at noon tomorrow to receive them.

Whether the President will submit the names of Andrew W. Mellon as Treasury Secretary and James J. Davis as Labor Secretary, who are holdovers from the Coolidge administration, still was undetermined tonight, but with the probabilities that they would not be sent in with the other eight as they once have been confirmed.

As he gathered his family about him at dinner this evening at the White House Mr. Hoover found himself at the end of the most eventful day of even his eventful career. It brought him the plaudits of the multitude, the highest office within the gift of his countrymen and imposed burdens which he shouldered in the full knowledge of their grinding weight.

March 4 began for Mr. Hoover much as any other day. He was up at his usual hour—7 a.m.—and an hour later had breakfast alone, almost before other members of the family were astir. Soon after the meal his neighbor and friend, Harlan F. Stone, called and remained with him for nearly two hours.

The hustle about the household as preparations for the day's events were made appeared to pass Mr. Hoover almost unnoticed. He remained in his study and there received the Congressional committee—Senator Moses of New Hampshire and Representative Snell of New York—who called to escort him to the White House and the Capitol.

There was some bantering between the new President and Senator Moses, whose fortune it had been on last August 11 to carry official tidings to Mr. Hoover at Palo Alto, Cal., that the Republican party had chosen him as its standard bearer.

START TO WHITE HOUSE

A few minutes after 10:30 Mr. Hoover, with Mrs. Hoover and the committee, appeared amid an outburst of applause from the crowd gathered in front of the house. They entered an open automobile and drove slowly over S street to Connecticut avenue and thence over Seventeenth street to the White House.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge received them in the Blue Room and fifteen minutes later the entire party started for the Capitol, arriving a quarter of an hour later after passing through lanes of cheering thousands.

At the Capitol there was a wait of an hour for Mr. Hoover in a small office off the Senate chamber while President Coolidge signed last-minute bills. Soon after noon he was escorted to the Senate chamber for the inauguration of Vice-President Curtis and, that over, proceeded to the platform on the east front of the Capitol for his own induction into office.

"Hoover luck" on weather had failed before he appeared, a light rainfall increased steadily as he spoke and before the end of his address there was almost a downpour. In spite of it the President and Mrs. Hoover elected to ride back to the White House in an open automobile and Mr. Hoover frequently doffed his hat in response to the applause.

There followed a buffet luncheon for several hundred guests, a review of the parade, which required about two hours to pass through the Court of Honor, a reception to the old and new cabinets, Republican National Committeemen and visiting governors and then the quiet of just the family in the great household.

A quiet dinner, a few hours of rest and a new President went to his first sleep in the White House.

WASHINGTON, March 4. The average age of the Hoover Cabinet members is 60 years.

The combined ages of the ten members is 600 years.

To this total Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, the oldest, contributes 74, and Arthur H. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, the youngest, contributes 52.

Coolidge Dig Makes Game of Successor

ST. LOUIS, March 4. (AP)—President Coolidge today telegraphed the editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch:

"A bill appropriating $48,000 to improve Mt. Weather for a Presidential refuge is just being signed by me. I congratulate you on the success of the campaign first broached in your newspaper and almost unanimously approved by the press of the nation. The Congress has shown an inclination to treat a President with the same kind of consideration it extends to our birds and other wild life."

President Coolidge suggested the Presidential retreat in an article in the fiftieth anniversary number of the Post-Dispatch last December.

Student Mob Routed With Tear Bombs

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) March 4. (AP)—Approximately 4000 hilarious students of the University of Michigan, celebrating the basketball victory of Michigan over Wisconsin, were repulsed with tear bombs when they attempted to enter the Michigan Theater, the largest show house in Ann Arbor. They retreated, but about 800 of them returned to the attack and withstood a one-hour battle with the police, who used tear bombs freely.

They were later dispersed by President Clarence Cook Little after $2000 damage had been done to the theater.

Four persons were held by police, but not formally arrested, and their names were not divulged. Three are said to be students.

Chile Sees Hope in Hoover Help

SANTIAGO (Chile) March 4. (AP) El Mercurio, Chilean newspaper, hopes that President Hoover's inauguration will mean a step forward in the solution of the thorny Tacna-Arica question between Chile and Peru.

El Mercurio praises Hoover in an editorial remarking that his friendship for both Chile and Peru will assist him in settlement of their difficulties.

COOLIDGE SIGNS 53 BILLS

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Although confronted by fewer last-minute bills than usual at the end of a session of Congress, President Coolidge today signed fifty-three measures and applied a "pocket" veto to about ten more, which died for lack of his signature.

The bills approved include the first and the second deficiency appropriation measures, amounting together to approximately $212,000,000, and the Interior Department appropriation bill carrying about $285,-000,000. The bills disapproved include that for civil service retirement, providing for increased annuities for government employees, and a bill to establish a national park at Ouachita, Ark.

BILLS APPROVED

The first deficiency bill was the one which caused much controversy in Congress on account of the amendment of Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, to appropriate $24,000,000 for additional prohibition enforcement.

Among the outstanding measures approved by President Coolidge today was one extending the authority of the Radio Commission until next January 1. That body automatically would have ceased to exist on March 16, next, had the bill not been approved, and the commission's work reverted to the Commerce Department.

OTHER MEASURES

Another measure approved authorizes approximately $50,000 to co-operate with Latin American countries in the construction of a system of inter-American highways. Others settle a Civil War claim of the State of Nevada; established a joint commission of insular reorganization; make illegal entry into the United States by aliens equivalent to a felony under certain circumstances and establish Teton National Park in Wyoming.

Three of the approved bills were signed at the Capitol immediately before the close of Congress and the beginning of President Hoover's inaugural ceremonies.

Aunt and Uncle of Hoover Voice Happiness Here

Among those who rejoiced with President Herbert Hoover yesterday were his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Minthorn, 1871 East Adams street. Mr. Minthorn, a Quaker born and reared, is the brother of President Hoover's mother, and a resident of Southern California for the last forty-five years.

"There isn't much to say," Mr. Minthorn declared yesterday. "We are very proud of Herbert, but so much has been said about him I don't think we can add anything to it."

"Of course, we're happy and proud of him," Mrs. Minthorn said. "We knew him well as a child, then we came to California and didn't see much of him. He came to see us when he was 21 years of age, just after his graduation, and we were very proud of him then. He was a dear little boy, and everybody loved him, and we are glad that he has grown into such a fine man."

California Delegation Shows Enthusiasm

GOVERNOR KEPT AWAY BY DUTIES

Young's Congratulations Sent by Radio

Shortridge Entertains Home Folks at Luncheon

Peggy Hamilton Center of Attention at Ball

WASHINGTON, March 4. (Exclusive)—While Gov. Young did not attend nor designate anyone to represent him visitors from California, including the Los Angeles delegation, made up by their enthusiasm for any lack of officia. representation by their State in today's inauguration as Herbert Clark Hoover became California's first President. Even the drenching rain which began as soon as the inaugural party appeared at the east side of the Capitol and continued throughout the rest of the day's program could not dampen the spirit of Californians here for the occasion.

Held in California by State business Gov. Young sent his congratulations by radio from the jubilation at Leland Stanford University The California rejoicing was sent on to Washington by a special hook-up and was received in the White House by President and Mrs. Hoover on their return from the Capitol. They listened to the messages and celebration in the private apartments on the second floor of the White House. Both were extremely pleased by this demonstration of affection and the good wishes from their home State.

SHORTRIDGE GIVES LUNCH

The only official California entertainment today was the luncheon given to Californians by Senator Shortridge. A buffet lunch was served to the Senator's guests in the historic room of the Senate wing now housing the Committee on Privileges and Elections. His secretarial staff, Mrs. May Ronsaville, Ruth Quinn, Edna Schwenk and Roby Purdy, acted as hostesses for the Senator. Before Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Coolidge left the inauguration stand they were served with hot coffee from the luncheon.

Unable to attend personally, because of the minute-scheduled program, both the new First Lady and the former First Lady expressed their thanks for the Senatorial courtesy. Among those present at the Shortridge luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Humphries, Mrs. Dora A. Stears, Mrs. Smith, Everett Swing, Representative and Mrs. Evans and daughter, Representative and Mrs. Swing, Representative and Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Kahn, California's Congresswoman, and son; Representative and Mrs. Englebright, Representative Lea, Representative Barbour, Representative and Mrs. Free, Representative Welch, Forrest Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Avery McCarthy, Gen. Deakyn and R. E. Kelly.

While the California visitors were supposed to be banked in one unit to watch the long and colorful inaugural parade they were split in two groups. One unit sitting opposite the Presidential reviewing stand was much amused and delighted when Peggy Ann Hoover, Herbert Hoover, Jr.'s, small daughter rushed across the reviewing stand and throwing her arms impetuously around her grandfather's neck kissed him on both checks. As the parade swung around the corner the moment she was set down by the President she pressed her nose against the glass of the inclosed stand and unconcernedly forgot her distinguished grandfather in her intent interest in the pageant in his honor.

THOUSANDS PAY RESPECTS

It was reported by White House officials today that more than 450 guests were served a buffet lunch at the White House and that more than a thousand visitors paid their respects to the new President, and First Lady, late this afternoon.

Tonight at the big charity ball Peggy Hamilton of Los Angeles was expected to outshine the collected society beauties of the nation. As style queen of Hollywood and one of the foremost stylists in the country she will wear what is considered by connoiseurs as one of the loveliest gowns ever produced in Hollywood. In the inaugural rush following the arrival of California visitors Miss Hamilton reported the loss by theft of eight of her gowns. She was the official hostess of the special California train, the first office of this type in the country.

Tomorrow at 11 o'clock Representatives Free and Kahn, Mr. Wolf of San Francisco and Miss Hamilton of Los Angeles will present California gifts to the Hoovers at the White House. Mr. Wolf and Mrs. Kahn will give the President the ballot box which contained the California electoral votes, and Representative Free will present the President with a California State flag on behalf of the Sons of the Golden West. Mr. Free is a former grand trustee of the order, and past president of the California society in Washington.

Miss Hamilton's present is for Mrs. Hoover. It is a green, deeply fringed and specially painted shawl designed to set off the First Lady's dignified and quiet beauty, and to remind her of the green hills of California.

Mexican Paper Voices Hope on Hoover Policy

MEXICO CITY, March 4. (AP)—Excelsior today editorially felicitates Herbert Hoover on the occasion of his inauguration. The paper expresses the hope that he will continue the policy of President Coolidge toward Mexico.

The editorial concludes:

"The Hoover administration comes into office during a truce which is doing much for Mexican-American amity. The Hoover government has it in its power to strengthen or destroy the bonds of friendship which Mexico for her part sincerely desires to maintain."

TEACHER SITS NEAR HOOVER

Little Mollie Carran of West Branch Overwhelmed by Honor Shown Her at Inaugural

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Evidence of a deep streak of sentiment in Herbert Hoover showed today in the midst of the most momentous and the busiest time of his life as he thought of his little old school-teacher, Mollie Carran of West Branch, Iowa, and invited her to an honor seat near him for the inauguration ceremonies.

There, tremulous and happy, arrayed in her best black silk, she sat with the notables of the land and watched the man who, as a little boy, she had taught in the classroom, take the oath for the highest office in the land.

Until she got to Washington, Mrs. Carran did not know that she would have a seat on the platform. She made the long trip of a thousand miles content if she even got a glimpse through a spyglass of her idol. Then came word from Representative Cole of Iowa that Mr. Hoover had provided special seats for Mrs. Carran and her husband on the platform at the inauguration ceremonies and close to him in the reviewing stand.

Mrs. Carran was almost too happy to talk.

"I've nothing left to wish for in life now," she said. "I could not be any more pleased if it was a ticket to heaven."

Herbert Hoover has always made known his respect and fondness for his old school-teacher. He has publicly given her credit for "laying the foundation of his knowledge." But that he should have paused to remember her in the most important moment of his career touched Mrs. Carran more than anything he could have done.

Through the soaking rain three loyal sons of West Branch, Hoover's birthplace, W. B. Anderson, F. A. Pearson and Paul Coulter, carried the Iowa banner the length of the parade ahead of Gov. John Hammill and his staff, who rode in cars, and the Coe College Band of seventy pieces from Cedar Rapids. Rain prevented the rest of the 275 Iowans from marching. But in spite of the small showing in the parade Iowa, as the birthplace of the new President, received an ovation all along the line as the band struck up the Iowa corn song.

Young Wires to Hoover State's Congratulation

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—Upon conclusion of President Herbert Hoover's inaugural address today Gov. Young sent California's greetings to the new executive in the following telegram:

"Honorable Herbert Hoover,
"President of the United States,
"Washington, D. C.

"Have just listened to your splendid address. Please accept from your fellow-Californians their most heartfelt congratulations. California at the same time congratulates itself and the entire nation upon your accession to the Presidential chair.

[Signed] "C. C. YOUNG,
"Governor."

Gov. Roosevelt Sends Greetings

ALBANY (N. Y.) March 4. (AP)—Gov. Roosevelt today sent the following congratulatory message to President Hoover:

"Please let me extend to you the felicitations and good wishes of the State of New York on your inauguration. Mrs. Roosevelt and I also wish to send you and Mrs. Hoover our personal congratulations and good wishes."

COOLIDGE GOES AMID PLAUDITS

Serenity Marks Departure from Nation's Capital

Train Scheduled to Reach Northampton Today

distinguished participants in the ceremony the limited roof would protect in part.

And almost before the final applause had died away Mr. Coolidge was on his feet saying his farewells. There was an exchange of handclasps between the new President and his predecessor, and a few smiling words. A general stir of farewell greetings followed, and then the man for whom tomorrow holds no vexing concerns of state, who may tinker about the humble little house in Northampton, Mass., to his heart's content, unfretted by strife or rumors of conflict at home or abroad, passed down with his wife to the car waiting to bear him to his train.

The motor of the great machine purred and the car rolled slowly out for its short run. From it Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge looked up a moment to the high rail of the inaugural stand above them. They saw the broad, smiling face of the new President looking down, and his hand swung out in a wave of parting salute to which both replied with happy, care-free smiles of their own. A ripple of handclapping grew to a dull thunder, the last greeting of the huge crowd to the passing chieftain, and Calvin Coolidge, private citizen, actually was on his way home at last.

A private car, provided by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as a last courtesy, awaited the former President. It was attached to a fast train and will reach Northhampton early in the morning, to be switched to a side track and guarded from anything that might disturb the rest of its occupants.

But even after he had left the Capitol, Mr. Coolidge was to know one more tribute to his national service before he saw the last of Washington.

THRONG AT STATION

A mob of many thousands had packed itself all about the depot and overran the train platforms to bid him farewell. He and Mrs. Coolidge made their way under escort of busy police, and with laughing return of showered greetings, to their private car which Mrs. Coolidge boarded at once. The former President lingered on the station platform to bid crowding old friends farewell.

A radio microphone was taken to him and over it he bade his own adieu to public life, wishing "good-by" to all those who might be listening.

"At the request of my friend, David Lawrence," he said, "I take this occasion to bid bood-by to all those who may be listening and hope they will enjoy the future as much as I have enjoyed the past."

He and Mrs. Coolidge then waved their hands and entered the car amid cheers from the crowds.

Later Mr. Coolidge came out, hatless and coatless, and shook hands with a number of friends crowded around the platform.

Some one called out, "Three cheers for the Coolidges" and they were given with much enthusiasm. As the train pulled farther out, some one cried, "Three cheers for Mrs. Coolidge" and an even more deafening roar went up. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge still were waving their hands as the train disappeared.

STUDENTS PLAN WELCOME PROGRAM

NORTHAMPTON (Mass.) March 4. (AP)—To the throng which will welcome the return of Calvin Coolidge to his old home here was added today 2000 students of Smith College. Announcement was made that chapel services will be conducted before the ex-President's arrival to permit the young women to participate in the ceremonies.

The students will be massed on the campus as the Coolidge party passes. A musical program arranged by the American Legion will be augmented by the college chimes, which will peal out their silver notes from 8:30 a.m. until such time as Mr. Coolidge and his party have passed the college grounds.

Another army truck arrived from Washington last night laden with boxes, barrels and crates. It was unloaded partly at the Coolidge's modest home, at the Forbes Library and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hills, friends and neighbors of the Coolidges. The remainder of the cargo was taken to the warehouse where much of the previous shipments of the former President's accumulation of property has been stored.

Austria Voices Gratitude for Hoover's Help

VIENNA, March 4. (AP)—President Miklas of Austria today sent a warm message of felicitation to Herbert Hoover upon his assumption of the Presidency. The message mentioned Austria's gratitude to Mr. Hoover for his work in feeding 400,000 Austrian children during the terrible post-war famine period. It read:

"On the occasion of your inauguration as President of the United States, Austria sends you her sincerest good wishes for a successful and prosperous tenure of office. We shall remember with everlasting gratitude your generosity and untiring efforts in assuaging our suffering during one of the most critical periods of our national existence."

EX-PRESIDENT TAKES UP PEN

Three Magazines Announce Articles by Coolidge; Encyclopedia's Offer Attracts Him

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Curiosity as to what Calvin Coolidge will do on returning to private life was satisfied, at least partly, today by announcements that contributions from his pen would appear in three magazines and that he had received a request for a conference on an offer of a $25,000 annual retaining fee plus a dollar a word for material for an encyclopedia.

The Ladies' Home Journal in Philadelphia announced that the former President has written three articles on "Promoting Peace," which will appear in the April, May and June issues.

OTHER ENGAGEMENTS

Merle Crowell, editor of the American Magazine, said a series of articles by the ex-President had had been contracted for by that periodical. The articles will neglect diplomacy and politics in favor of the more "human" side of life in the White House, including such matters as maintaining the health of the President, the social life of the White House and domestic happenings in the life of a President.

Ray Long, editor of Hearsts' International Cosmopolitan, announced tonight that Mr. Coolidge already has written the first article of what is to be a series for the magazine. Mr. Coolidge began work on the articles several weeks ago, Mr. Long said.

OFFER INTERESTS

What Mr. Coolidge will receive for these articles was not disclosed, but by the Encyclopedia Americana he has been offered $25,000 annually to act as advisory editor and would receive $1 a word on whatever he chooses to write. He would be restrained from writing for any other encyclopedia, although he would not be prevented from writing books or magazine articles.

Mr. Coolidge has asked for more details on this proposal and Horace L. Hayward, president of Americana, has wired in an effort to arrange a conference after Mr. Coolidge reaches his home at Northampton, Mass.

New Mark Set by Sermon on Inauguration

For the first time in history the inaugural address of a President of the United States, three hours after its delivery at the White House, was employed as a sermon theme in a church 3000 miles from the nation's capital. This was at St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday at noon, when Dr. Walter Mitchell, Episcopal bishop of Arizona, spoke in praise of the moral and spiritual qualities of Herbert Hoover and emphasized the need for cultivating those virtues exemplified in the life of the new Chief Executive.

The address followed a program of devotional and patriotic hymns and a prayer by Dean Harry Beal, who invoked the blessing of God on the new President and those who, under his leadership, will direct the affairs of the nation for the next four years.

"You who listened to the inaugural program must have been struck by the fact that the President warned us that our only hope of continuing in our place of leadership among nations depends not on wealth, nor on the force of our Army and Navy, but on the moral and spiritual character of the people," said Bishop Mitchell. "The point is well taken and the President's atitude worthy of emulation. It is time to return to the fundamentals of the teachings of Jesus and to apply those doctrines in our living as well as in our speech."

Canal's Traffic Declared Far Below Capacity

BALBOA HEIGHTS (Panama) March 4. (Exclusive)—When questioned regarding the resolution appropriating the cost of a survey of the Nicaragua canal, Gov. Col. H. Burgess said the Panama Canal's present capacity, without additions, will not be reached for thirty years, while with completion of the Alhajuela dam and a third set of locks added the capacity will be nearly doubled.

The canal today is handling 30,000,000 tons of shipping annually, which is increasing from 7,000,000 to 10,000,000 tons each decade, and the present capacity is 60,000,000 tons. With the improvements it is anticipated 100,000,000 tons will be reached in from 60 to 100 years' time. The transit today is around twenty ships daily and is dependent on lockages. The present double set of locks can handle forty-eight ships daily, taking as an average size 5000-ton vessels, but when smaller ships are doubled it is possible to handle fifty-four daily.

Why
SPARTON LEADS THE FIELD . . .

TONE . . .

Radio's richest voice . . . full, resonant, individual . . . amplified and enriched by a tone chamber built like a fine old violin . . . assembled by an artist, from choice woods, thoroughly aged and seasoned . . . a design that is exclusively Sparton . . . results that are exclusively Sparton.

SELECTIVITY . . .

A selector unit built according to an entirely new and exclusive principle, which cuts each station in sharply at full volume . . . carries it squarely across the full 10-kilocycle wave channel, and then, as sharply and clearly, cuts out the station. Amplification after the station has been selected, after all interference has been filtered out, building up only the clear, full reception that you want to hear.

DISTANCE . . .

Five stages of radio frequency amplification, each stage capable of increasing a radio impulse 15,000 times instead of the usual 3,000 to 7,500 times . . . plus the revolutionary Equasonne selector unit, which admits for amplification only the channel allotted to the station that is being received. Result . . . distance at satisfying room volume, even during evening hours when the air is busiest.

MODULATION . . .

Throbbing, thrilling harmonies which will flood the largest room for dancing. Or subdued melody which one may enjoy in an apartment, at any hour of the night or day, without disturbing one's neighbors. And, whether played at full volume or the merest whisper, Sparton reception is full, round, true . . . satisfying, because Sparton wave-band tuning, squarely across an entire channel, brings you, always, all that your station puts on the air.

VALUE . . .

The utmost your money can buy in Radio for the price you pay, whether you invest $925 in the magnificent Radio-Phono Ensemble, or $199.50 in the smaller console. True Sparton Equasonne design . . . true Sparton Equasonne construction . . . true Sparton Equasonne service . . . at the price you wish to pay.

Tune in KNX 9:30 Tuesday evening Sparton "Hearts in Dixie Jubilee Program" in co-operation with United Artists Theatre.

FITTS QUESTIONS PRISON INMATE

Jacob Goldstein Interviewed in Bribery Inquiry

Reports Also Heard of Talk With Clara Phillips

District Attorney on Way Back from San Quentin

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Possessed of much definite information regarding reported underworld machinations into the ranks of law enforcement in Los Angeles county but information which he intimated leads to further investigation before it will be in shape to present to the county grand jury, Dist. Atty. Fitts entrained for his home city tonight following an interview with at least one and maybe more prisoners in San Quentin.

Fitts is known to have talked with Jacob Goldstein, serving a terms for the slaying of the late Frederick A. Stern, Los Angeles broker. Goldstein pleaded guilty to the manslaughter charge after it had been substituted for one of murder during the regime of ex-Dist. Atty. Keyes, now under sentence to prison for bribe-taking.

MONEY MENTIONED

Reports have reached Dist. Atty. Fitts, it is said, that between $15,000 and $20,000 figured in the reduction of the murder charge.

Whether Fitts was able to substantiate these reports he refused to state, but it is believed the information obtained from Goldstein is of sufficient importance to justify additional inquiry.

While at the prison the District Attorney is said to have visited the women's quarters and the report gained circulation that he consulted with Clara Phillips, Los Angeles hammer murderess, but if he did he refused to comment on it.

It is understood that any conversation the present District Attorney might have had with Mrs. Phillips would hinge on her escape from the Los Angeles County Jail several years ago. Details of that episode in the flight of the murderer of Alberta Meadows never have become known.

WHAT HE CHARGES

Commenting generally Fitts asserted that disclosures to date coupled with others expected, convince him that the highlights in an apparently organized group of individuals making justice a mockery in Los Angeles county were Asa Keyes, Marco Albori, more familiarly known as Albert Marco, and Charles Crawford.

Crawford, now under indictment for conspiracy, was, Fitts said, "king of underworld gambling and bootlegging" and Marco, under sentence of fifteen years to life for assault to murder, had control of prostitution.

State Senate Votes for Lower Duck Bag Limit

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—The bag limit on ducks will be reduced from twenty-five to fifteen per day and the weekly limit from fifty to thirty if the Assembly follows the action taken today by the Senate in passing a bill authorized by Senator Ralph Swing of San Bernardino.

Senate action on the measure was taken after more than an hour of debate in the upper house. Amendments retaining the daily limit prescribed by the present law, but reducing the weekly limit from fifty to twenty-five were defeated after a strenuous battle by Victor Canepa of San Francisco, who opposed them.

Final action brought a vote of 30 to 8 in favor of Swing's original bill.

Divorce Granted to Mrs. Armsby

REDWOOD CITY, March 4. (Exclusive) — Mrs. Leonora Wood Armsby for many years a figure in peninsula and New York society, today obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from George N. Armsby, vice-president of the international banking house of Blair & Co., New York.

The complaint, charging desertion, was filed with the San Mateo County Clerk at 1 p.m. by Attorney Theodore Roche of San Francisco. The interlocutory decree was granted an hour later by Superior Judge Buck.

Mrs. Armsby is understood to have accepted $1,000,000 in final settlement and the matter was not brought up in court. Armsby is supposed to be in New York.

School Election Pay Bill Passes

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—A bill authorizing school districts to compensate officials acting in school elections was passed by the Assembly today. The measure was introduced by Harry L. Parkman of San Mateo. The bill was sent to the Senate for approval.

Under the existing law, persons acting as officials in school district elections cannot be paid. From remarks made on the floor of the Assembly it is the practice of some districts to either close schools for a day and use teachers as election officials or have persons serve gratis.

WAR GAS VALVES CLOSED

Poland First to Shut Off Death Vapors and Germany Will Follow Suit

GENEVA, March 4. (AP)—The League of Nations has assurance that Germany, mighty in chemistry, will ban the use of poison gas in wartime and that her eastern neighbor, Poland, already has done so.

This dual announcement at the opening of the fifty-fourth session of the Council of the League was the outstanding topic of discussion in Geneva tonight, as indicating a trend of the world away from those forms of warfare which chemists recently have declared not only imply torture for soldiers but suffering and decimation of innocent civilian inhabitants of great cities.

In this connection it was remarked that the United States, which initiated the antigas protocol here and pleaded for its adoption as a great humanitarian measure, has not yet ratified the document.

Over the teacups this afternoon members of the Council privately discussed many matters affecting European collaboration, especially the delicate problem of affording protection to the many racial minorities. The minority question will be debated in public session of the Council beginning tomorrow afternoon.

Yellow Fever Kills Its Foe

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) March 4. (AP) Dr. A. Maurice Wakeman died of yellow fever on Saturday on the this country from Africa. He was sent by the international health board to Lagos, Nigeria, in February, 1928, to investigate the chemical pathology of yellow fever. He ship on which he was returning to contracted the disease.

NEW PLAN GIVEN ON REPARATIONS

Question of Trusteeship Talked at Paris

PARIS, March 4. (AP)—The proceedings of the plenary session of the committee of experts on reparations today revolved around the idea of setting up a trusteeship to carry out the recommendations of the committee.

Such an organism would have a corporate existence. As Lord Revelstoke, British banker who heads the subcommittee determining how Germany can pay annuities without transfer protection, developed the scheme in his report today, it would have its central office in one of the smaller capitals of Europe. This would eliminate any possible influence from propinquity to London, Paris or Berlin, the capitals most directly interested.

CALIFORNIANS GET RECESS JOB

Evans and Lea on Committee to Pick Dirigible Base

WASHINGTON, March 4. (Exclusive)—Two California Representatives, Evans, Republican of Glendale, and Lea, Democrat of Santa Rosa, today were named on a special Congressional committee which, during the recess of Congress, will study Pacific Coast defenses and their needs. One of the principal duties of the committee will be to recommend a location for the proposed dirigible base which the Navy Department wants to establish on the West Coast.

The committee is under instruction to report its findings at the opening of the regular session of Congress next December.

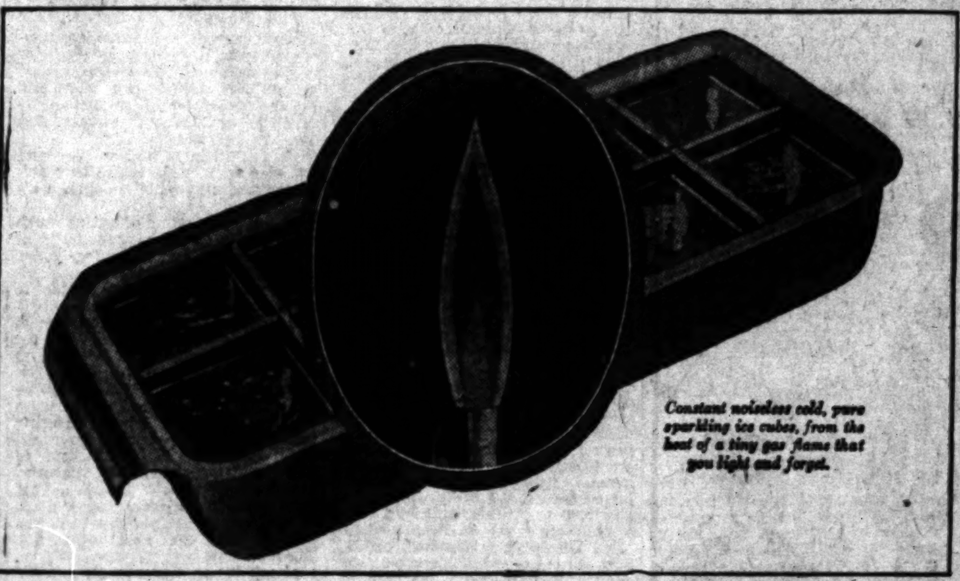
FREEZE WITH HEAT.......The ELECTROLUX Refrigerator



Constant noiseless cold, pure sparkling ice cubes, from the heat of a tiny gas flame that you light and forget.

FREEZE with HEAT
in place of machine power

A tiny gas flame takes the place of all machinery in the Electrolux Refrigerator. There is no noise, no moving parts, no friction or wear, nothing to oil.

LIKE most truly great discoveries the principle of this startling refrigerator is simple—a fundamental law of physics that almost any schoolboy knows.

A tiny gas flame, a trickle of water, a simple refrigerating liquid—that's all there is to the Electrolux. The flame expands the freezing liquid to vapor. The water condenses it back again. This cycle of physical change, which takes place over and over again like perpetual motion, produces intense steady cold.

There is no machinery, not a single moving part, and hence no sound, no vibration, no machinery to oil, to adjust, to cause trouble. All you do is light the flame, which burns continuously. Should the flame ever go out for any reason, no harm is done. The freezing action stops, but the gas automatically shuts off and cannot flow again until you are ready to light it.

Discovered at the Royal University of Technology, Stockholm, Sweden, in 1922, the unique freezing principle of Electrolux has had seven years of thorough practical test. Scientists can find no good reason why it should ever wear out.

There is not a thing anywhere about the Electrolux to need attention, to worry about, or that you have to renew. Even the refrigerating liquid is hermetically sealed for the life of the unit. It will never leak or need replacement.

Experts hail the Electrolux as one of the biggest developments in refrigeration since the invention of the first crude ice machine. They predict that it will revolutionize the industry. Already it is used in tens of thousands of homes. Already it has been specified for the very newest, finest types of apartment buildings all over the country.

If you have not yet seen this marvel, stop in at the nearest display room and view the interesting range of sizes, models and colors.

DIRIGIBLE LEADS CLOUDY PARADE

Roams Like Lost Ship Awaiting Start

Hoover Looks Up When Los Angeles Passes

Air Pageant Described by Participant

BY EDWARD J. DUFFY

ABOARD AIRSHIP LOS ANGELES, March 4. (AP)—One broad flight of clear sky, sandwiched between cloudbanks which cut this giant airship off from the world for long worrisome periods, appeared above Pennsylvania avenue in Washington today to give a brief glimpse of the inaugural parade to the few aboard the airship.

Both immediately before and afterward the Los Angeles seemed a lost craft. At first four blimps—two from the Army and two from the Navy—had bounced capriciously near by as neighbors to the airship as all marked time over Maryland, awaiting radio instructions when to start the first air inaugural parade. Then the beating rain hid the blimps from sight except for fleeting glimpses as they maneuvered around their big sister.

As the white blanket of rain and fog wrapped closer, officers and passengers listened for the humming of the blimp motors and spoke to one another in lowered tones. An occasional remark was addressed generally: "I wonder where we are" . . . "What about those sixty airplanes?" . . . "When you're lost and there are ships around—well, if one of them hits you, it's just too bad."

ORDER COMES

An order was heard from the control car. The Los Angeles propellers spun more rapidly, and the ship banked over in a long curve. Then came the opening in the clouds. Across the Anacostia River the Capitol could be seen, and behind us, swinging into line, the blimps.

Two airplanes darted from a mass of clouds to the right. They swooped down like golden eagles with dripping wings and disappeared in the mist. Nearing Eastern Washington, we saw one wide avenue—flanked by white—stretching to beyond the White House. The city 1200 feet below appeared to be a phantom land at deep twilight. All the streets glistened blackly. The outskirts were deserted; but crowds of individuals swarmed together at its heart. Automobiles shone like so many beetles. Here and there squares were outlined by red or khaki dots—military organizations waiting to parade.

The Capitol loomed large. Before it stood row and row of empty cream-colored chairs looking like thin threads. The time was 2:53, which, officers said, was the exact moment the airship was due at that point. Shortly before, Herbert Hoover had been sworn in there as President, and thoughts of that prompted a glance to the west. There stood dimly outlined reminders of two men who had taken the same oath—the first in 1789 and the second in 1861. These reminders were the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial.

The air parade proceeded slowly, but it seemed that it was only a matter of seconds before we were over the White House. That short time carried an indelible impression, however, which was enhanced by what went on within the cabin. First, a radio brought to those there the story as it unfolded beneath. Music of bandsmen, who could be singled out by dull glints from their instruments as they marched, was heard. Bobbing rows of white dots elicited this comment from an officer: "They are Annapolis cadets or else they are gobs, but one way or another they are Navy men."

HOOVER LOOKS UP

A few persons looking up at the airship could be seen by the white of their faces, especially around the White House. President Hoover also watched the Los Angeles, for just as the craft was turning away the radio announcer said Mr. Hoover's attention had been distracted by the parade by the "airplane" flying overhead. "Airplane?" asked a listening naval officer. "How does he get that way?"

Division of the parade could not be identified from the sky, due to the minimum scale to which everything was reduced by altitude. When the route had been covered, the Los Angeles again was swallowed by the clouds. It turned to get a tail wind and headed for Lakehurst, N. J., at ninety miles an hour. Lieutenant-Commander Charles E. Rosendahl said he had radioed a message to the blimps as soon as they were out of sight. "Well done," it read.

Within less than four hours, during almost all of which time the land remained obscured by the low-ranging clouds, the Los Angeles was back maneuvering to get into the Lakehurst hangar.

Hoover's 'I Do' Heard by Radio Fans of Britain

LONDON, March 4. (AP)—Broadcasting of President Hoover's inauguration for British listeners was spoiled by atmospheric conditions, but the President's "I do" in taking the oath was heard plainly.

The British radio public could not follow the thread of the President's speech. The general idea of the progress of the ceremony, however, as described by the American announcer was well conveyed to the large audience despite interference and fading.

PARADE PICTURED FROM AIR

National Hook-up Linked to Planes Cruising Over Capital by Short Wave Radio

BY MARTIN CODEL

[Copyright, 1929, in all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

WASHINGTON, March 4. (Exclusive)—All North America was able today to listen in on real bird's-eye view descriptions of the inauguration of Herbert Hoover.

This crowning achievement of the nation-wide radio networks was accomplished by means of those much-discussed short waves, connecting airplanes to ground stations. This is the first time that airplane radio observations were ever sent out over coast-to-coast networks.

Much has been written about the value of the short waves, particularly concerning their application to aircraft communication. The public, however, having had little or no experience with those radio channels below zero point on the dial of the average receiving set, has probably been little impressed. The inauguration was the occasion for giving a vivid demonstration of the possibilities of short waves.

I enjoyed the privilege of acting as observer and reporter in one of the broadcast planes, which transmitted via short waves to pick-up stations below for relays to radio stations throughout the country for rebroadcasting. Jammed down in the radio compartment in the fuselage of a Martin bomber of the United States Navy, along with Sam Pickard, the former radio commissioner, who is now vice-president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, I was able to look below and see the maneuvers of the little army of a half million or more marching ant-like humans.

Sam Pickard's impressions and my own were spoken into tiny aircraft hand microphones—spoken almost in yells.

It was not a game of wit as much as it was a championship battle of vocal chords versus motor roars. Fortunately, our periods on the air were short, and we were able to outroar the motor.

One cannot realize just how much he depends upon his own voice for clarity of thought until he tries an airplane radio reporting job. The noise of the motors was deafening and it was impossible to hear one's own voice, even when shouting into the "Mike"—at least, not until Chief Radioman Bill Williamson of the naval air station at Anacostia plugged my lightly fitting helmet with built-in earphones into a receiving set in the plane, which was picking up our own broadcast. Through this set, we were able to hear all other broadcasting efforts.

Speech radio aboard aircraft is still in the development stage with the Army, Navy, Bureau of Standards and commercial radio laboratories all working strenuously to perfect it.

Military aeronautics require the knowledge of code radio, such as the dirigible Los Angeles and the Army and Navy blimps employed as they floated over the inaugural parade.

But the commercial pilot is now demanding voice radio, and the future of air craft radio doubtless rests

Some of the Navy's finest were detailed to aid us in the inaugural feature. The pilots were Lieut. Morton Sterling, chief radio officer at the naval air station, and Chief Aviation Pilot Elmer (Pewee) Payne.

The aforesaid "Bill" Williamson was at the compact seventy-five-watt sending set, and aloft with us also was Charley Francisco, radioman. There were two broadcasts from the plane, Sam Pickard and the writer taking turns.

QUALITY IMPROVED

While the Columbia featured a radio program from a fast single-motor fighting plane, where space considerations were paramount, the National Broadcasting Company employed an army trimotored cabin Fokker for a similar stunt.

The announcer who twice described the scene below, the second time during the driving rain which dampened the latter part of the inaugural ceremony, was William Lynch of the N.B.C. staff. The pilot was Lieut. Leroy Wolfe, who brought the plane through from Wright's Field at Dayton, O.

Lieut. Wolfe and Robert Morris, a development and research engineer of the N.B.C., took turns at the microphone. Aboard the ship also were E. W. Dinga, company engineer, and H. W. Knott, army radio engineer.

The quality of transmission from the army plane, according to reports this observer obtained later, showed a great advance in aircraft radio. Unhandicapped by space restrictions, the army airplane was virtually a flying radio laboratory.

INAUGURAL BALL SCENE OF FASHION

Social Washington Dons Its Best Despite Rain and Merrily Trips to Music

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—While the principals of today's drama were resting, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge on their way home to Northampton, and President and Mrs. Hoover, surrounded by members of their family in the White House, social Washington donned its finest and tripped merrily to the inaugural charity ball tonight.

The brilliance of the affair in the Washington Auditorium entirely dimmed out of the picture the drizzle outside, even though the rain came near to ruining many a rhinestone-studded heel and trailing chiffon drape.

Vice-President Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Edward Gann, were the guests of honor. They paraded across the long floor of the ballroom floor to the tune of "Hail to the Chief," and took their places on the stage at the end of the auditorium, where they were greeted by the governors of many States, here with their families and staffs. Mrs. Gann wore a white-beaded gown with a long train studded with brilliants.

John Coolidge, with his fiancee, Florence Trumbull, daughter of the Governor of Connecticut, on his arm, was among those in attendance. The couple first greeted the the members of the party on the platform and then mingled with the dancers on the floor.

INAUGURAL PLAYED UP IN FRANCE

Newspapers Carry Lengthy Report With Extended Editorial Comment

PARIS, March 4. (AP)—The inauguration of Herbert Hoover has attracted more attention in France than that of any American President since George Washington took office under the seal of Franco-American alliance.

All newspapers printed copious descriptions of the ceremony at Washington today. President Hoover's inaugural speech was reproduced verbatim in several papers while others gave voluminous extracts and supplemented them with lengthy comment.

The French press emphasized Mr. Hoover's firmness against participation in the League of Nations, but found some consolation in the expression of his desire for American entry into the World Court.

References to enforcement of the prohibition amendment were treated with more or less successful attempts at humor, mingled with a tinge of regret that so rich a market for French wines should be closed for another four years.

League Defines 'Kick' in Liquor

GENEVA, March 4. (AP)—A League of Nations committee today decided on a definition classifying wines and spiritous liquors.

The definition said that a beverage which contains up to 20 deg. weight of alcohol, may be classed as a wine, but that above 20 it becomes a spiritous liquor.

"What is back of this investment?"

INVESTORS who buy securities for safety of principal and sustained income naturally want to know what is back of their investments. Most of them believe that they do know; but the history of investments indicates that many of them do not know.

Far too many of them buy on the strength of pleasing generalities. To make a cold, impartial analysis of the conditions surrounding an investment seems to be the exception rather than the rule. The average investor apparently is influenced favorably or adversely by factors that really are not fundamental.

"What is back of this investment?" is a vitally important question to every person whose object is to invest his or her funds with safety, and to obtain therefrom an adequate and dependable income. And unless the investor makes it a point to know, rather than merely to assume, that the proper security and safeguards are back of every investment purchased, serious losses will be suffered sooner or later.

As a general proposition, improved real estate is accepted as the most fundamentally sound of all forms of security, and many investors make the mistake of assuming that any investment which is secured by improved property or by liens thereon, is safe. The fallacy of this is evidenced by the fact that there are a great many properties of all classes which this company could not afford to consider as security for loans—except, perhaps, at a small fraction of the asserted values. And in no instance is a loan executed by this company for more than 50% of a conservatively appraised valuation, notwithstanding the fact that much higher loans are obtainable through other channels.

Then, too, every appraisal of this company is made on a basis which takes into consideration all surrounding conditions, both existing and contingent, in order to establish an actual value which will hold during the entire life of the loan.

Incidentally, the Mortgage Guarantee Company, whose founders sponsored the Mortgage Insurance Act of California in 1913, is one of the few institutions which is definitely committed to an ultra-conservative system of appraisals, and whose loans are, without exception, restricted to 50% of the valuations thus established.

As all loans are secured by first liens on the properties pledged, it is evident that the margin of safety is ample to provide for all contingencies.

These liens are placed in trust, and against them are issued Insured First Mortgage Certificates, which are widely purchased by banks, insurance companies, trust estates, and individuals of exacting requirements.

Not only are the liens back of these Certificates soundly secured by desirably located and well improved real estate, widely diversified territorially, but are also insured by this Company as to both principal and interest, under the Mortgage Insurance Act of California.

This, then, raises the point—equal in importance with that of security—as to what manner of institution is back of these Certificates. In this connection we quote the following from the published records of a nationally-known (Eastern) investment banking house:

THE INSTITUTION

"THE MORTGAGE GUARANTEE COMPANY was a pioneer in group mortgage real estate financing in the West. Its success from the very first year of operation evidenced the thoroughly sound principles upon which this company was founded and upon which its business has been built. It is significant, too, that practically the same men who organized the Company are still members of its Board of Directors and actively developing its present program.

"So widespread has been the public confidence in the management of this Company, that in 15 years the Mortgage Guarantee Company has become one of the largest and soundest concerns of its kind in the United States."

GOING STILL FURTHER

Notwithstanding the exceptional security back of these Insured First Mortgage Certificates, and the guarantee of both principal and interest, every additional safeguard has been provided.

All liens serving as security are placed on deposit with a bank or trust company as trustee, to be held for the protection of Certificate holders. (The security is never held by this Company.) Moreover, every Certificate sold is registered by the trustee against the deposited liens, and under the Mortgage Insurance Act of California, the Company's outstanding guaranties are restricted to twenty times its paid-in capital.

Thus, Certificate holders have four-fold protection, namely: (1) the sound underlying security, (2) the insurance of principal and interest, (3) the trust indenture, and (4) the limitation of guaranties. Without these protections no investor, in the judgment of this Company, can attain his object when seeking safety of principal and certainty of income.

The Insured First Mortgage Certificates of this Company are issued in convenient denominations, in registerable form, in one to five-year maturities, are tax free in California, and are legal investment for banks, insurance companies, trustees, executors and administrators; and are designed for all institutions and individuals who will accept nothing short of the soundest investment obtainable, both from the standpoint of underlying security and the institution back of it.

MEXICO HEARS BATTLES BEGIN

Calles Will Lead in Sonora; Troops Fill Capital

Gov. Rodriguez Wires Offer of Aid to Portes Gil

tecas, has been named commanding officer of the Mexican revolutionary movement, it was announced officially.

Gov. Abelardo Rodrigues of Baja California declared his allegiance to the Federal Mexican government.

Gen. Carillo, Federal army officer in charge of 500 troops in Sinaloa, started a southerly retreat, destroying railroad communications as he fled. It is reported his troops burned seven bridges and tore up a large amount of track near San Blas.

Revolutionary forces in Sonora are reported in charge of twenty-four locomotives and have placed an embargo on transportation.

Seventy-five Mexican rurales connected with the customs service working out of Agua Prieta and Naco surrendered to revolutionists at dawn.

CHURCHES RECPENED

Gen. Ricardo Topete, son of Gov. Fausto Topete of Sonora, issued a manifesto reopening all churches in revolutionary territory.

Mexicans here declared this revolt threatens to become the most serious in twenty-five years, due to the reopening of the churches.

Revolutionists have armed 600 Mayo Indians of Southern Sonora and report they have 1200 troops camped three miles south of the Mexican border.

Gov. Topete having assumed control of the revolutionary movement in this region announced that Gen. Escobar has been named commander-in-chief.

Naco, Son., surrendered without resistance to Gov. Topete's control.

The railroad running from here to Guadalajara is in the hands of the insurgents. They seized the steamship Bolivar at Yavaros, near Navajoa, home of the late President-elect Obregon.

BORQUEZ IN CHARGE

Gen. Francisco Borquez, commander of the Sixty-fourth Cavalry and Eighty-eighth Infantry regiments, tonight relieved Gen. Manuel M. Aguirre as commander of the military district covering all the Northern Sonora border points, of which Nogales is the strategical center.

Gen. Manuel M. Aguirre, brother of Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre, leader of the revolt at Vera Cruz, had been in charge of the border railhead and garrison here since the town was taken over by the revolutionists yesterday afternoon. Gen. Manuel M. Aguirre told the Associated Press tonight that he is leaving at once for the East. While he would not name his destination it is understood he is leaving for Juarez, across the border from El Paso, Tex., or some other border point in Chihuahua.

MANIFESTO ISSUED

The following manifesto was issued by Gov. Topete:

"I declare to the people of Sonora that if we have decided to take up arms against a government which acts illegally and mocks in contemptuous form all of the sacred principles which at the cost of great sacrifices the revolution formerly conquered, citizens and society in general must have confidence in this movement.

"The actual order of happenings will not be private interests and business will have full guarantees that all disorders will be put down with a firm hand and our acts shall be those followed by a government well organized, which will guard all activities according to law.

"The present conditions are due to the Machiavelian interference of the clown, Plutarco Elias Calles, in the present administration. The officials of this administration are nothing but creatures of this man and these conditions cannot and must not exist.

"I invite the citizens who aspire to create a country corresponding to the hope of the first revolution, to join this movement, which will be of short duration and sure results.

EXILES INVITED

"The exiled statesmen of all creeds not having any pending cases with the courts for acts against the common order, will have open doors in Sonora for, as Mexicans, they cannot be deprived of the sacred right of protection of our laws.

"Until the government arising from this revolution is definitely established in Mexico City, I consider that the religious problem can be definitely settled by organized action establishing the liberty of conscience and religion, which is to say, noninterference by the state in religious matters, respecting all beliefs.

"It is therefore made known to all ministers of all religion that they can officiate in their respective churches free from political matters from our government which will be an exclusive civil one.

"Let me hope that the people of Sonora and the rest of the republic will join this movement with patriotic enthusiasm as on former occasions and not allow a failure before the traitors.

"Save the revolution, it is the government of the people and the people themselves.

[Signed] "FAUSTO TOPETE."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC ANNOUNCES EMBARGO

Announcement that embargoes have been placed on movement of freight and passengers over Southern Pacific lines in Mexico was made yesterday from that company's San Francisco offices.

Advices received from Southern Pacific representatives at Nogales state that, while train service has been curtailed, conditions in general are quiet, and it is not anticipated that the present situation will be of long duration.

CALIFORNIA PRESS TRIP TO MEXICO DELAYED

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (AP) Plans of the California Press Association for an eighteen-day excursion by special train to Mexico City have been postponed one week, it was announced here this afternoon by Friend W. Richardson, president of the association, and former Governor of California. Richardson said he expects the "political trouble" in Sonora will be settled by that time.

The publishers' chief earlier had announced the editors would leave for Mexico Wednesday, as had been planned, declaring it is safer in Mexico than in Chicago.

MORROW REPORTS RECEIVED IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—The revolutionary movement in various parts of Mexico was reported fully to the American government today by Ambassador Morrow at Mexico City and by consular officers at various Mexican cities on the border and elsewhere.

Engrossed with the inaugural ceremonies, officials here had little time to devote to the situation, but during the day a survey was made of the information arriving from Mexico. Any action by the United States at this time was felt unnecessary and unless the American towns and cities on the border are threatened there will be no need of stationing American troops in those places.

MASS PLANNED IN NOGALES CATHEDRAL

NOGALES (Son.) March 4. (AP)—Juan Navarette, Catholic bishop in charge of the diocese of Sonora, left tonight for the interior to arrange for the resumption of services in the cathedrals.

For the first time since the churches were ordered closed in 1926, mass will be celebrated in the Nogales (Son.) Cathedral tomorrow.

CALLES ACCUSED IN OBREGON'S DEATH

HERMOSILLO (Son., Mex.) March 4. (AP)—Charging that Portes Gil, Provisional President of Mexico, is but a puppet in the hands of former President P. Elias Calles, Gov. Fausto Topete of Sonora this afternoon issued a manifesto addressed to governors of States, military chiefs and the press, setting forth the position of the revolutionary forces. Gov. Topete asserted that Calles was directly responsible for the death of Gen. Alvaro Obregon.

The proclamation bears more than 3000 signatures, many of them men prominent in civil and military life in Sonora.

The text of the manifesto sets forth that "Plutarco Elias Calles is trying today to continue at all costs on the throne of the Caesars."

NUEVO LAREDO UNITS ORDERED TO MONTERREY

LAREDO (Tex.) March 4. (AP)—Two squadrons of the garrison at Nuevo Laredo, across the border from this city, were ordered to Monterrey, Nuevo Leon, 150 miles south of here, today.

ORTIZ RUBIO NAMED BY REVOLUTIONARY PARTY

MEXICO CITY, March 4. (AP)—Dispatches from Queretaro said that Pascual Ortiz Rubio, former Ambassador to Brazil, was nominated this morning as its Presidential candidate for the election next November by the National Revolutionary party.

Gov. Aaron Saenz of Nuevo Leon had been the chief opponent of Ortiz Rubio. He withdrew from the convention last week because of dissatisfaction with registration methods. He returned to Mexico City, where yesterday he offered his aid to the Federal government and today declared that his candidacy for the Presidency would be held in abeyance during the present emergency.

The avowed purpose of the National Revolutionary party is to perpetuate the principles held by the late Gen. Alvaro Obregon.

WORK ON RODRIGUEZ DAM SUSPENDED

SAN DIEGO, March 4. (AP)—Glass tinkled in Tia Juana cafes today and the merry laughter of American visitors was unchanged by news of the revolution in Mexico, while a few miles below the border town work on the great Rodriguez dam came to a standstill as what Gov. Rodriguez termed precautionary measures were taken.

Americans employed at the dam were laid off until the situation clears, while Mexican workers were "drafted" for duty as guards.

Extra cordons were thrown around the powder storage at the dam as construction work came to a standstill.

PORTES GIL FLAYS REBELS AND PREDICTS DOWNFALL

MEXICO CITY, March 4. (AP)—Mexico City newspapers today published a signed statement from President Portes Gil prophesying the government will make a speedy end to the revolt in Vera Cruz and Sonora.

EMILIO PORTES-GIL.

It will be enabled to do this, he says, because a large part of the army has remained loyal and because of public sympathy in its cause. His statement follows:

"At 7 a.m., yesterday Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre, military commander of the State of Vera Cruz, communicated with the President of the republic stating that Col. Adalberto Tejeda, Governor of Vera Cruz, had assumed a suspicious attitude in the port of Vera Cruz, taking mounted police with him; that a battalion of the garrison of Perote was also thought to be in rebellion, and that the fleet in the gulf was standing off from the port with steam up.

PLOT REVEALED

"The commander of troops in the State of Vera Cruz pretended in this way to be loyal to the government and he used the doubts thus created to facilitate the revolt plotted by him and other military leaders. The interruption of telephonic and telegraphic communication, the seditious reply of the commander of the garrison at Orizaba, the patriotic and decorous attitude of Gen. Jose Maria Dorantes, commander of the Seventh Cavalry Regiment, who immediately announced his loyalty to the government and concentrated his troops at Oriental, and the action of the fleet asking instructions by wireless left no doubt as to the rebellious attitude assumed by Gen. Aguirre.

"At 10 a.m., yesterday, Gen. Francisco R. Manzo, commander of troops in the State of Sonora, also telegraphed saying the Twenty-ninth Batallion in the command of Gen. Antonio Armenta had revolted and stating he was sending troops in pursuit.

"This was another subterfuge, previously agreed upon, for Gen. Manzo like Gen. Aguirre is in open rebellion with part of the troops under his command fighting and pursuing troops that remained loyal.

REBELS ASSAILED

"Although the situation thus developed had been foreseen by the government for some time and although the plans of the revolt of Gens. Aguirre and Manzo had been known publicly for several days, the government did not wish to make any statement which might help precipitate violent action, which it felt ought to be restrained at all costs.

"But in view of the imminence of the struggle the government believes it is unnecessary to continue to keep silence, silence which would in no way serve to avoid the contest. It believes on the contrary that it ought to state the situation clearly to the nation so that the Mexican people may know the situation and the evolution of one of the most unjustified armed unpatriotic movements ever plotted.

"With the beginning of the present political struggle in Mexico there immediately appeared indication of attempts by certain military men to impose candidates on the people. Far from trying to win votes by public appeal they put forth ideas of violence and revolution. Certain military men manifested these views and the government was forced to take action against them.

WRONG CHARGED

"This was the case of Gen. Roberto Cruz, who proclaimed that with forces at his command he was ready to fight to right an imaginary wrong without taking into account that he himself was the real wrongdoer. The government thought it over lengthily before taking action against that commander despite the fact his antecedents were none too good. Because it desired to avoid in every way possible suspicion that the change was made to nominate a commander who might be more pliable (apparently refers to recent removal of Cruz from command of one of the military zones.)

"But his removal was made because the government preferred to accept responsibility for this change rather than to maintain a situation prejudicial to the country, the criminally tolerant attitude of keeping in office a military commander with seditious plans and allowing him to continue at the head of troops. This would have served only to disturb peace and bring new suffering to the country.

"With respect to Gen. Manzo, in order to avoid the policy of changing commanders which was repugnant to ideas of government, the government contented itself with frequent appeals to his loyalty and by explaining to him that whatever might be the outcome of the political struggle the army should not participate in it nor be ashamed of backing 'the institutions' (meaning the system of government) for these, although humanly imperfect would achieve progress because of the President's determination not to participate in any manner in the political struggle.

HOPES FELT

"As for Gen. Aguirre the reports concerning his plans always were received with reserve because his contact with the central government left room for hope he would be convinced the government would not participate in any political struggle. His reiterated professions of loyalty and his personal appearance before the government on several occasions furnished reasons for believing he would live up to his past record as a member of the revolutionary group (meaning the group now in power) and that he might follow the line of duty clear before him.

"The lack of reason for this seditious movement was so great that were it not for indiscretion of the commander of the troops in Orizaba the government would find it difficult to explain to the nation the pretext given by the rebels. This chief stated that Gen. Aguirre with the troops at his command revolted against the position of Pasqual Ortiz Rubio (apparently referring to the activities of the National Revolutionary party at its convention at Queretaro, where Ortiz Rubio and Aaron Saenz were candidates for the nomination until Saenz abandoned the convention on the ground that the committee on registration discriminated against his delegates.)

"FALSE PRETEXT"

"The falseness and inconsistency of this pretext is evident. These candidates and even those of the opposition enjoy in a political campaign every class of guarantees as they themselves have admitted, and the determination of Federal and local authorities not to intervene in the elections has never been deviated from except by the authorities sympathizing with those now in revolt.

"This was the case of Gen. Fausto Topete (Governor of the State of Sonora,) who accompanied his complete Legislature to Nogales recently to receive the Presidential candidate, Gilberto Valenzuela, who apparently did not wish a democratic struggle but rather the participation of the government in an underhanded position. In view of the graveness of the situation the President of the republic believes it his duty to bare his conscience to his fellow-citizens."

CONFIDENCE FELT

The President's statement goes on to say he believes he has put aside as no other Mexican President ever has all passions and prejudices and has remained absolutely outside the political struggle. He continues to explain in detail all the local factors entering into the political equation and then concludes:

"The government is sure it possesses strength sufficient to dominate the revolution in short time not only because the greater part of the army has remained loyal but because in districts where the revolt has broken out there are parts of the army which have not joined the rebels. Moreover, the government is confident the force of public opinion is with it."

of the Mexical and Gulf Railway, approximately thirty miles southwest of Algodones on the American border near Yuma.

This new railroad bridge across the turbulent Colorado River is conceded to be the only possible point of crossing of the insurgents from Sonora to Lower California, although once across the rebels would be faced with the delta wilderness and the guns of the rurales, who are familiar with the country.

LOYALTY PLEDGED

Denouncing the revolution as the "most uncalled-for revolt in the history of the Mexican republic," Gov. Rodriguez, last night forwarded to President Portes Gil at Mexico City a pledge of loyalty to the Federal government and the promise of aid in punishing the rebels.

Rodriguez denied reports that the entire west coast of Mexico is in revolt against the central government. Sonora and Vera Cruz are the only States involved, he said, and in Sonora the trouble is confined to a small group. Rodriguez referred to messages which he has received from Gens. A. R. Armenta and Enrique Leon, both stationed in the Sonora district, in which loyalty to the Federal government is affirmed.

MILITARISTS BLAMED

"This uprising is the work of a small group of military leaders who have broken their vows of allegiance to the constitution and their oaths as members of the military force," Rodriguez said. "They have neither the sympathy nor the support of any large part of the Mexican population and they will pay the penalty of traitors."

His message to President Portes Gil last night follows:

"To the governors and chiefs of military operations in the republic:

"I am wiring today to the President of the republic as follows:

" 'Having been advised of the ignoble and unpatriotic attitude of the chief of operations of the State of Vera Cruz, who broke his oath as a soldier and ignored his obligation to his country, I want you to know that I condemn with all my energy his faithlessness to the legally constituted administration over which you so ably preside. I, with all members of the national army stationed at this operations headquarters, hasten to assure you of our firm and unalterable decision to stand by you and of our earnest desire to co-operate with you to the fullest extent in punishing the group of selfish men who have failed in the performance of their most sacred duty.

" 'ABELARDO RODRIGUEZ,
" 'Division General, second military operations headquarters.' "

PRESIDENT REPLIES

Gov. Rodriguez made public at noon today a message which he had just received from President Portes Gil indicating that Gen. Jesus M Aguirre, rebel leader in Sonora, is losing the support of military subordinates on whom he had depended. The message says:

"I have the pleasure of communicating to you that from the city of Oriental, State of Puebla, Gen. Dorantes, commanding the Seventh Regiment, informs us that he has refused to accept instructions from Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre and sends information that he remains loyal to the Federal government. From San Andres Tuxtla, Col. Guitierrez Caesares, commanding the Sixteenth Regiment, also under orders of Aguirre, sends word to the Secretary of War that he will report to Gen. Alejandro Mange at Tehauntepec, a Federal officer. At the port of Vera Cruz all the officials and soldiers have gone with the revolutionary faction. I think that all of the officials, as soon as they are acquainted with the situation, will report to loyal troops.

"Affectionately yours,
"E. PORTES GIL.
"President of the republic."

SIX-STATE PACT RATIFIED

nia never to receive more than 4,700,000 acre feet.

UTAH SENATE TO TAKE UP RATIFICATION TODAY

SALT LAKE CITY, March 4. (AP) With the Senate scheduled to begin final action on the Boulder dam six-State compact tomorrow at 10 a.m., announcement that the California Legislature had passed two bills ratifying the six-State agreement was read before both houses of the Utah Legislature, which greeted word of California's action with applause.

A number of amendments to the Boulder dam measure will be offered in the Senate tomorrow when debate opens, Senator Knox Patterson and A. B. Irvine declared today. Senate leaders asserted, however, that little time will be lost in approving the measure already passed by the House.

Passage of the Bratton amendment by the California Legislature, limiting that State in the amount of water to be used from the Colorado River, obviates the necessity for pressing an amendment already offered by Senator Irvine.

CALIFORNIA PREPARES COUNTER-PROPOSAL

SANTA FE (N. M.) March 4. (Exclusive)—California will be ready, in all probability, to make counter-proposals tomorrow to the two propositions that have been submitted by Arizona at the Colorado River tri-State compact conference, which is now nearing the end of its third week.

That was the announcement tonight by Commissioner W. B. Mathews of Los Angeles, who has been working with the two other California commissioners all of today, analyzing the Arizona proposals and preparing California's offer of terms on which a tri-State compact will prove satisfactory.

Although the two States are not as far apart as it generally is believed, according to Commissioner Mathews, the signing of a compact undoubtedly will not be accomplished in Santa Fe. It is the feeling among the conferees that the conference should end this week and it is believed improbable any definite result can be obtained in that time.

The plan most likely to be followed, it was understood tonight, will be to adjourn the conference from Santa Fe to some other city, the sessions to be resumed within two or three weeks from the time of adjournment here.

BAY CITY PORT BILL ADOPTED

Governor's Forces Defeated in Assembly Clash

Measure Takes Harbor from State Control

Executive May Not Veto if Senate Concurs

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (Exclusive)—On the first political division of the year, Gov. Young's forces were routed severely late this afternoon when the Assembly voted, 47 to 26, to turn over control of San Francisco. At present the State controls the harbor. In his message in January Gov. Young indicated he will veto the bill if it is placed on his desk.

The fight in the Assembly this afternoon seemed to confirm all the reports that Gov. Young and ex-Sheriff Finn, the San Francisco boss, have reached the parting of the ways. When it became apparent that the Southern California delegation was standing with Finn on this particular measure the administration cohorts appeared to give up hope and made only a formal defense.

VETO BOOMERANG

Their hopes, it is understood, are now centered in the Senate, where a desperate effort will be made to block the bill so it will not be necessary to use the executive veto. A veto of this bill is regarded as a political boomerang and is likely to make the going hard for Gov. Young in San Francisco when he runs for re-election next year.

It was rumored today that should the bill be adopted by the Senate Gov. Young will yield, reverse his attitude and approve it. If so, he will anger the lower Sacramento valleys, who disapprove of San Francisco and San Joaquin valleys, who disapprove of San Francisco's control of the harbor.

As between the Sacramento and

BAY CITY PORT BILL ADOPTED

Governor's Forces Defeated in Assembly Clash

Measure Takes Harbor from State Control

Executive May Not Veto if Senate Concurs

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (Exclusive)—On the first political division of the year, Gov. Young's forces were routed severely late this afternoon when the Assembly voted, 47 [illegible] to turn over control of San Francisco harbor. At present the State controls the harbor. In his message in January Gov. Young indicated he would veto the bill if it is placed on his desk.

The fight in the Assembly this afternoon seemed to confirm all the reports that Gov. Young and ex-Senator Finn, the San Francisco boss, have reached the parting of the ways. When it became apparent that the Southern California delegation was standing with Finn on this particular measure the administration supporters appeared to give up the fight and made only a formal defense.

VETO BOOMERANG

Their hopes, it is understood, are now centered in the Senate, where a desperate effort will be made to defeat the bill so it will not be necessary to use the executive veto. A veto of this bill is regarded as a political boomerang and is likely to make the going hard for Gov. Young in San Francisco when he runs for re-election next year.

It was rumored today that should the bill be adopted by the Senate Gov. Young will yield, reverse his stand and approve it. If so, he will anger the lower Sacramento [illegible] who disapprove of San Fran[illegible] San Joaquin valleys, who dis[illegible] of San Francisco's control of the harbor.

[illegible] between the Sacramento and San Francisco politicians the matter resolves itself into a squabble over patronage, but to the interests of the State which are dependent upon the efficient working of the harbor to get their produce out to markets, it is of serious economic importance.

The San Francisco delegation, in fighting for the bill, brought out that the harbor board is not as able as might be desired, stating that the harbor is "five years behind the times." The first appointment Gov. Young made to the Harbor Commission when he assumed office was Paul Sharrenberg, union-labor lobbyist.

FORMIDABLE BACKING

The bill was introduced by the entire San Francisco delegation. It was handled on the floor by Assemblyman Hornblower. The bill proposes that the bonded indebtedness, now an obligation of the State, which is met from revenues, be assumed by the city. The Mayor of San Francisco, rather than the Governor, will have the power to appoint the commission.

Mr. Hornblower brought out that the citizens of San Francisco have voted overwhelmingly in favor of assuming responsibility. He read editorials from the metropolitan newspapers of San Francisco favoring the bill, in which is was suggested to Gov. Young that if he proposed to maintain control of San Francisco's harbor he might just as well follow the plan to its logical conclusion and take over Los Angeles, Oakland and Richmond harbors.

Assemblymen West and Clowdsley in defending the administration's standpoint remarked that the central part of California has as vital an interest in the harbor as has San Francisco and therefore desires to have a say in running it.

DIVERS SEEK "SILVER FLEET"

Sixteen Great Galleons Sunk by Spanish in Vigo Harbor Now Being Salvaged

VIGO (Spain) March 4. (Exclusive)—Sixteen great Spanish galleons, part of the so-called "silver fleet" sunk by the British and the Dutch 200 years ago in this harbor at the upper end of the Rio De Vigo, are about to yield their treasures, according to officials of an Italian concession company headed by Jose Pino, to whom the salvage job was given a year ago by royal decree of the Spanish government.

Visions of the pomp and power of Spanish supremacy and of the buried gold of the Spanish Main were recalled today when a writer visited the Italian ship anchored in the Rio a mile to the north of Vigo and watched the salvage work. The Italians say their divers have located the sixteen galleons lying under eighty feet of water. The decks and sides of the galleons are much caved in, the divers say. They recount how they stumbled over the old cannons with which the ships were armed. The galleons also are partly covered with a heavy layer of silt.

HALF WAS SAVED

It is estimated that $50,000,000 worth of silver and gold ingots are in the sunken ships. Originally there was $100,000,000 worth of treasure in the ships, but the Spanish managed to save half of it by carting it ashore when they were attacked by the British and Dutch on October 22, 1702, according to the church records of the town of Tuy, which is the seat of this archbishopric.

The story is a thrilling tale of adventure. The great Spanish silver fleet was the first to reach Spain from the Americas in three years and was loaded with treasure gleaned from Cartagena, Venezuela and Vera Cruz. Composed of more than 100 great vessels the fleet arrived off Cadiz at the beginning of the war of the Spanish succession.

FLEE TO VIGO

The Dutch Admiral Rooke and the English Admiral Stanhope were blockading the port of Cadiz so the treasure fleet, learning this, fled to the port of Vigo. Pursued by Dutch and British ships the Spanish vessels took refuge well up in the long harbor and constructed a boom across the entrance to keep out their foes.

After unloading what treasure they could the Spanish fired their galleons to keep them from falling into the hands of their foes.

At the American Consul's office here is a huge piece of oak boarding charred and burned that was once part of the deck of a galleon. It was presented to American Consul Walter H. McKinney of Michigan by one of the Italian divers.

BEATINGS CHARGED BY BEAUTY

Reno Divorce Suit Filed by Fay Lanphier Spiegel for Extreme Cruelty

RENO, March 4. (AP)—Fay Lanphier Spiegel, "Miss America" in 1927, filed suit for divorce here today from Sidney M. Spiegel, Jr., of Chicago, charging extreme cruelty. Mrs. Spiegel declares in her suit that she was treated brutally and inhumanly and on several occasions subjected to severe beatings at the hands of her husband.

She cited incidents when she was hit by electric-light bulbs, books and other articles, and several times was forced to endure beatings administered by her husband with canes and wet towels. She also charged that Spiegel drank to excess and on such occasions used highly abusive language to her and made her life miserable and unendurable.

They were married in Chicago June 7, 1928. The case will come up before Judge George A. Bartlett tomorrow.

BOOTLEG POISON KILLS FOURTEEN

Peoria (Ill.) Death-Liquor Orgies Continuing

Inquest Held Up Until More Expire or Recover

One of Pair Under Arrest Confesses Sales

PEORIA (Ill.) March 4. (AP)—The fourteenth victim of poisonous bootleg liquor distributed in Peoria over the week-end died tonight, and a Coroner's inquest is held in abeyance to await the death or recovery of others who imbibed the tainted alcohol.

Ben Teel, 60 years of age, of Vermont, Ill., was the latest to succumb. He was one of a group of stockmen who became ill after a party at a hotel Thursday night.

State's Attorney Pratt announces tonight that Maurice Mannsfield, arrested as the local distributor of the liquor, has admitted he imported fifty gallons from a Chicago bootleg syndicate, but has refused to name his source.

Reports current on Peoria streets say liquor from the same source that wreaked havoc here has been shipped to Galesburg, Decatur, and possibly several other Illinois cities.

OTHERS WHO DIED

Six other deaths reported today, attributed to the liquor, are: Marsh Easley, 60, and Andrew Heaton, 65, Vermont, Ill., stock-raisers; Mrs. Catherine Garey of Wesley City, a Peoria suburb; Edward Baldwin, Peoria, and Harold Heiple and Charles Holland of Washington, a small town near Peoria.

Edward Bailey of Peoria, believed to have been the companion of Mrs. Garey when she was stricken, himself is in a Peoria hospital, blind and in a critical condition. Edward Hanrahan of Burlington, Iowa, also is in the hospital seriously ill, and several other victims are receiving treatment. Reports say scores of other Peorians are ill at their homes.

Coroner Elliott began an investigation, but postponed the inquest until he receives reports from Prof. George C. Ashland, chemistry expert at Bradley College, Peoria, who is analyzing liquor taken from the vital organs of several of the victims.

TWO UNDER ARREST

Authorities say they learned a soft drink parlor in the Stock Yards Hotel here was one of the distributing points for the poisoned liquor, and say at least five of the victims obtained their liquor at the place. Walter Neibert, bartender, is under arrest, with Maurice Mannsfield, asserted distributor of the liquor. A raid on the place failed to disclose any liquor, however.

The deaths of three persons Saturday, apparently from poisoned liquor, caused the investigation to be opened and were followed Sunday by the deaths of four others, including a woman, Mrs. Ellen McFadden. All of the latter, with the exception of W. A. Sammons of Chicago, were residents of Peoria. Sammons, a stock broker, and two of the others, were stricken after drinking at the Stock Yards Hotel bar, authorities said.

ROCKEFELLER IN CAMP OF ENEMY

Proxies Taken to Chicago Under Armed Guard

Aldrich Opens Headquarters for Fight on Stewart

Ousting of Chairman Will Make Three Vacancies

CHICAGO, March 4. (AP) — The forces of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., with thousands of proxies in metal cases under armed guard, moved into the enemy camp today on one of the last skirmishes of their fight to oust Col. Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

The arrival of the party, headed by Winthrop W. Aldrich of New York as personal representative of the younger Rockefeller, who now is traveling in Egypt, was as quiet as possible under the circumstances. A private car was switched from an early train to a siding where the proxies were held until noon.

LAST DAY TO CHECK IN

Mr. Aldrich, "with no statement to make," went to the Standard Oil offices in the meantime to arrange for a headquarters and the checking in of the proxies. This was the last day, under company rules, for this formality.

While photographers and newspaper men waited about the car at the station, a small hand truck was loaded with twelve metal cases, resembling satchels, three fabric boxes, and two large bundles wrapped in brown paper. Nine men surrounded the truck and accompanied it to the taxicab stand, where the boxes were loaded into four cars, guards in each.

At the Standard Oil offices the boxes were taken to the suite of Felix T. Graham, secretary, where an office force began checking them in. This, it was expected, might take until Wednesday, the day before the stockholders' meeting at Whiting, Ind.

PAPER COMMENT EXPLAINED

The only statement issued from headquarters today was a message received from the Rockefeller proxy committee in New York. It was sent to Col. Stewart's attorneys and explained that newspaper comment sent out to stockholders was "for their information," and was not the comment of the proxy committee, John D. Rockefeller, Jr.; William Roberts and Mr. Aldrich.

"It is self-explanatory," was the comment of Stewart's attorneys on the Rockefeller communication. "The material they used to secure proxies they now disclaim."

"In order to avoid any possible misunderstanding," said the letter from New York, "the proxy committee desires to state that the pamphlets which were mailed to the stockholders of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana . . . contained excerpts from editorial comment from various parts of the country which were sent to such stockholders solely for their information with respect to the trend of newspaper comment.

TWO POSTS VACANT

"The proxy committee have never intended to adopt, and did not and do not adopt, such editorial comment as their own."

There was much speculation among the Standard Oil officials today as to what course the Rockefeller interests would follow if they were found to have the majority of the stockholders' votes, as they assert. If Stewart is ousted, it was explained, there would be three vacancies on the board of directors, the one left by Stewart and those of John D. Clark, resigned, and Beaumont Parks, vice-president in charge of manufacturing, who died.

Their successors might be picked from the ranks of the employees, as has been the custom in the past, or they might be imported.

The only name for chairman of the board, in case Col. Stewart is ousted, was E. G. Seubert, president.

THE PRIVATE LIFE of the PRINCE of WALES

(AS TOLD BY AN INTIMATE)
BY W. T. MARSDON
(Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

IX.—THE PRINCE AND HIS TOURS

When the Prince had moved his establishment to York House, his tours of the British colonies began. They were important episodes in the Prince's life, extending over nearly seven years, and they had considerable influence in shaping his character.

It was no new thing for an heir to the throne to tour the colonies and dominions. Such tours had been made by the Prince's father and grandfather. The interest in the Prince's travels lies in the fact that he made them in a new way.

Theretofore they had been more or less in the nature of royal processions through the colonies, attended with all the elaborate ceremony and splendor then deemed necessary. The present Prince, as far as he could, eliminated all the ceremonials. During his tours he met all kinds and classes of persons, and met them with as little ceremony as possible.

Ceremony, of course, was unavoidable at times. For example, the Prince had to meet governors of colonies, mayors and others, in a formal way, and give them opportunity to wear their gorgeous official uniforms and robes.

BOY TRIES SCARE

But apart from the necessary ceremonials, which he dislikes, the Prince, whenever he could, simply wore tweeds, plus fours or riding breeches, and met everybody with little fuss.

Though, generally speaking, the Prince was extremely well received wherever he went, his tours were not without their awkward occurrences. These naturally were as far as possible kept out of the press.

During his South African tour he visited the house of a farmer whose political sympathies did not incline him to regard kings and princes with much favor, nor had he any violent affection for the country whence the Prince had come.

The farmer, when the Prince called, opened the door and asked him in. But he did not ask his visitor to be seated. Pipe in mouth and hands in breeches pockets the farmer leaned against a table, and all the Prince could get out of him was a surly "yes" or "no."

Presently the farmer's son, a lad about seventeen, asked the Prince if he would like to see a bit of the country in the boy's car, and the Prince at once acquiesced. There was a mischievous gleam in the lad's eye as the two got into the car, a little twoseater.

WILD RIDE STARTS

The driver started with a run up a hilly road; then came a turn and the car roared down an incline at forty miles an hour and turned again almost at right angles into a narrow road with a sheer drop of thirty feet at one side.

The youthful driver had two wheels of the car over the drop as he took a turning at full speed into a road across which lay part of a fallen tree. The car shaved the trunk of the tree and then jumped a gully in the road.

The boy looked at the Prince. He was enjoying the drive obviously and unaffectedly. The boy's little game had failed.

"Well, you are a well-plucked digger," the lad exclaimed. When the drive was over the boy told his father his opinion of the Prince, with the result that the farmer asked his visitor to have some billy-tea. The two parted good enough friends.

During part of his Indian tour there were difficult and trying experiences for the Prince.

He passed through villages in which the inhabitants disappeared into their houses on his approach and pulled down their blinds. Only soldiers and police were left to welcome him.

CALCUTTA PREDICTIONS

In a club at Calcutta they were laying even money that the Prince would be assassinated before the end of the tour. But, viewed as a whole, the Indian tour was a success. This was evident in the reception the Prince had at Poona, then one of the most disaffected places in India.

It originally was planned to rush the Prince through it, but instead he stopped for a night and went to the Poona races, where he was received with great enthusiasm.

Diaries have been kept of all the Prince's tours. These have been printed, but not yet published. However, a diary which was kept on board H.M.S. Renown during the Prince's tour to New Zealand and Australia has been circulated privately and can be quoted.

It was written by two naval officers, and there are characteristic stories of the Prince in it. Here is one extract concerning a dance at Melbourne, attended by the Prince and officers of the Renown:

THE PRINCE ON A PARTY

"There was lot os fun. His Royal Highness and Mountbatten and two of the girls ransacked awardrobe, and the Prince of Wales appeared in a pair of very large tennis boots, the trousers turned up nearly to his knees, an enormous blue-flannel coat that must have belonged to a man weighing about sixteen stone (224 pounds, nd a squash hat, also too large for himh. Mountbatten appeared in a dressing gown and top hat, and the two girls got themselves up very cleverly in gypsy rigs. His Royal Highness 'hoped nobody minded.' This affair ended with a bit of a scrap and at the end our white ties were worse for wear."

NIGHT ON BOARD SHIP

Another extract runs:

"On the last night the ship was in Sydney, His Royal Highness, who had returned from his Queensland tour about four days previously, gave a dance on board and we all were allowed to ask our won partners. It was a splendid wind-up to a glorious month. His Royal Highness was in his usual good spirits, and the last sight Sydney had of him was scrapping on the aft deck with Mountbatten and others of the staff in a very dishevelled condition."

These were the kind of happenings the Prince delighted in, and that made his travels different from all other royal tours.

But he got through his serious work very creditably, and, much as he disliked the ceremonial part of it, he managed to execute it with an outward cheerfulness which impressed members of his staff with the idea that His Royal Highness certainly had in him the making of an actor.

HARDY FRIENDS GIVEN WARNING

Senate Move Starts to Bar Lobbying for Judge

Efforts to Influence Vote Declared Violation

Impeachment Trial Same in Law as Court Case

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—Constituents of State Senators were cautioned today to curb activities in behalf of Judge Carlos S. Hardy in attempting to influence the vote of Senators in the coming impeachment trial "because such attempts constitute contempt of the Senate."

Senator Inman of Sacramento arose to the floor of the Senate today and declared that Senators are receiving "countless letters" from constituents urging them to vote in a certain manner in the Hardy impeachment trial.

"Senators are being bombarded with letters attempting to influence their vote and action in the Hardy case," Inman said. "I do not have to inform Senators of the improprieties of these attempts."

The general public, through the agency of the press, should be informed that it is just as improper to write and attempt to influence the action of a Senator in this case as it would be to attempt to influence the judgment of a justice of the Supreme Court.

"Dire consequences may befall persons who ignore this warning to discourage attempts to influence Senatorial action in behalf of or against Judge Hardy on the ground that it constitutes contempt of the Senate," Inman declared.

Income Report of Guggenheim Concern Issued

NEW YORK, March 4. (Exclusive)—American Smelting and Refining Company and subsidiaries today reported consolidated net income for the year ended December 31, last, of $18,586,203 after United States and Mexican taxes, interest, depreciation, obsolescence and ore depletion. This is equal after preferred dividends to $24.73 a share on 609,998 common shares against $15,477,769 or $19.64 a share in 1927. On the basis of the recent three-for-one split-up 1928 net equals $8.24 a share on common against $6.55 a share in 1927.

Simon Guggenheim, president, in his statement to stockholders, said that the business of the company continues satisfactory. The new lead refinery in Monterey, Mex., is expected to start operation this month and gives promise of substantial profits, Mr. Guggenheim stated, adding that zinc smelters have been greatly improved and should yield increased earnings.

During the year without any additional financing, Mr. Guggenheim said, the company expended for retirement of its 6 per cent "B" bonds $9,943,750; for improvements and betterments on existing plants and for entirely new undertakings, including acquisitions of interest in Republic Brass Corporation, $14,971,900, or a combined total of $24,915,650.

Bituminous Coal Merger Pending

RICHMOND, March 4. (Exclusive)—Formation of the Amalgamated Coal Corporation with authorized capital of $50,000,000 and described as the first step in a movement designed to stabilize the bituminous coal industry has been announced here.

The new corporation, formed under laws of Delaware and under the guidance of Charles B. Flint, plans to organize the soft-coal industry into a few large units to improve production methods, cut overhead costs, eliminate duplication in selling and employ scientists to determine how to convert coal cheaply into manifold by-products.

Paper Company Income Higher

Consolidated net earnings of the Crown Zellerbach Corporation and subsidiaries for the first three-quarters of the current fiscal year, or for the period ended January 31, last, were equivalent to $1.48 on the common stock, or at the annual rate of $1.99 a share, the company reported yesterday. This compares with earnings of $1.16 per share for the same period a year ago, or at the annual rate of $1.55.

Gross profits for the third quarter were $2,910,579, a gain of 13 per cent over the third quarter of last year. After all deductions and reserves the balance available for dividends was $990,654, a gain of 14 per cent over the previous quarter.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Further advances met a good deal of realizing in cotton today, but it was absorbed on moderate setbacks. Active months sold about 12 to 20 points net higher in the early afternoon on covering and some western and Wall street buying, which may have been prompted by complaints of further delays in farm work, reports of good business in cotton goods, and a favorable interpretation of the inaugural address.

Trading was comparatively quiet around 2 o'clock. Prices were steady within 4 or 5 points of the best.

Bell Holders Allowed Regular Privilege to Increase Investment in Expanding Business

BY EARLE E. CROWE

For the small investor in common stocks the annual report of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company is worth a careful study. This is the outstanding illustration of a company in which the stockholders can count upon steady annual increases in the equity behind the common stock, and periodical opportunities to increase their share in the growing investment by exercising rights to subscribe for new stock on favorable terms.

So long as the United States grows the business of American Telephone will grow. Last year the company expended $428,700,000 on construction, or more than $1,000,000 a day. The expenditure for 1929, according to the annual report, is expected to exceed the 1928 budget. For the next five years the total will undoubtedly exceed the $1,900,000,000 spent in the past five years.

POLICIES LIBERAL

And so long as American Telephone increases its property investment, the stockholder, if he wishes, can advantageously increase his investment in the company's business. There is no question, as in many corporations, of building up property investment in which stockholders share only through dividends on the original investment and through appreciation in market price of the stock. The American Telephone stockholder is permitted to buy an increasing number of shares under the market price, through which he participates fully in whatever increase in earnings materializes from the enlargement of the property investment.

Total plant investment of American Telephone is carried at $262,000,000. Only in the last year or so has the stock market fully realized the potential earnings from this tremendous investment. Perhaps earnings from a considerable portion of the new investments will not materialize for some years, but the stock market now appreciates the fact that the telephone business is one in which the earnings trend is steadily upward.

ACTIVE IN RESEARCH

There is also the satisfaction that the management is not only planning ahead in respect to physical development, but is fully alive to the possibilities from scientific research. From the Bell laboratories have come any number of technical improvements and inventions that have reduced the cost of telephone operation, enabled the company to keep abreast of the time, and provided numerous sources of additional revenue from activities not strictly identified with the telephone business.

The report states that during 1928 more than seventy-five major improvements in central office equipment were standardized and made available, including a new manual private branch exchange board, a toll tandem board, an automatic residence private branch exchange and an 1818-pair exchange cable which has 50 per cent more conductors than any previous cable. Moreover, approximately 6000 minor changes, modifications and improvements were perfected to facilitate manufacture, improve operation, or to meet special plant situations.

Through a subsidiary, Electrical Research Products, Inc., nontelephone activities are carried on for the benefit of telephone stockholders. These include the manufacture and operation of modern high-speed submarine telegraph cables, the manufacture of phonographs and records, and the production and reproduction of talking motion pictures.

Engineering Unit Earnings Higher

Southwestern Engineering Corporation yesterday reported net profits for the year ended December 31, last, of $148,610, after all charges including provision for Federal income tax, as compared with $95,323 for 1927. After preferred stock dividend requirements, the net income was equal to $3.70 a share on the common stock outstanding, as against $1.82 a share in 1927.

Net worth as of December 31, last, was $1,606,836, an increase of $101,240 over 1927. Working capital was $629,637, while surplus increased $76,440 to $287,186. Current assets were 2.24 times current liabilities. Sales for 1928 amounted to $2,700,120, an increase of $612,766 over 1927. All directors were re-elected at the annual meeting and no change was made in officers.

Chanslor-Lyon Earnings Gain

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Chanslor & Lyon Stores, operating a chain of automotive equipment stores, today reported net profits for the six months, December 31, last, of $89,039, after all charges, equal to an annual rate of $178,078, which compares with $129,415 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1928. After the deduction of Class A dividend requirements, earnings were equal to $1.42 per share on the Class B stock, or at the annual rate of $2.84 a share.

Net sales for the six months amounted to $2,031,818, compared with $3,635,848 for the year ended June 30, 1928. The company has undertaken a general program of expansion, which, it is expected, will carry it into California cities not already served.

BOARD AUGMENTED

Announcement was made yesterday by John Sandburg, president of the Mineral Mountain Mining Company that a group of financiers and oil men including Hugh E. Stock of Long Beach and A. J. Barton, Oakland capitalist have been elected directors at a meeting held at the offices of the company here today. The company is engaged in developing large tracts of potential oil lands in Kern and Santa Barbara counties.

INCOME OF FINANCIAL UNIT TOLD

Net Earnings for 1928 Reported as $634,914 by Mortgage Guarantee

Net earnings of the Mortgage Guarantee Company for 1928 amounted to $634,914.09, or 12.7 per cent on the capital investment, Morgan Adams, president, announced yesterday in issuing the annual report. Including the earnings of the Mortgage Guarantee Associates, owned by Mortgage Guarantee, of $290,792.28, the total earnings were equivalent to 16.71 per cent on the capital stock of the Mortgage Guarantee Company. This compares with 16.33 per cent in the previous year.

Book value of the Mortgage Guarantee Company, including the capital and undivided profit account of Mortgage Guarantee Associates, was $161.40 per share at the end of the year, according to the report. Combined net earnings on book value were 10.35 per cent.

The report shows that in both 1927 and 1928 the item of "interest received not earned" in the sum of $550,034.27 has been set up as an additional safeguard, it is explained, to the capital structure of the company.

Relative to operations during the year, President Adams comments in the report: "On account of the material lessening in building and real estate operations throughout the State of California during the year, it has been more difficult and more expensive to obtain a satisfactory volume and class of first-mortgage loans. Competition in this connection has, we feel, been more keen than usual, and it is our expectation that this condition will be maintained through the year 1929. It will be noted that the volume of loans and net sales made during 1928 will show only a slight proportional annual increase over the year 1927. In the loan department, $23,698,990 of new loans were made. In the sales department the net increase in outstanding guaranties for the year amounted to $11,611,178.50, thus placing total outstanding guaranties at the end of 1928 at $65,860,230.35."

Fisk Rubber to Act on Capital Boost Proposal

NEW YORK, March 4. (Exclusive)—Stockholders of the Fisk Rubber Company at their annual meeting the 27th inst. will act on the proposal of the directors to increase the authorized common stock from 1,250,000 to 2,000,000 or 2,200,000 shares, the new stock to be offered to common shareholders of record the 15th inst. at $11 a share in the ratio of one new share for each share held.

The right to subscribe will expire April 5 and payment of 50 per cent for stock will be due on April 5 and on May 6. The offering will be underwritten by a banking syndicate. The substantial additional working capital to be made available by the sale of the new stock will enable the company to take advantage of the opportunity now confronting it for sales expansion, according to H. T. Dunn, president.

The company today reported consolidated net loss for the year ended December 31, last, of $8,791,251 after interest and depreciation. The previous report was for fourteen months ended December 31, 1927, and showed consolidated net income of $2,620,722 or $1.36 a share on 840,684 common shares after preferred dividends.

Trading Quiet on London Mart

LONDON, March 4. (Exclusive)—Business on the stock exchange was slow today with price movements uninteresting. The industrial list generally had an easier tone with talking-machine issues quiet. The artificial-silk group moved irregularly with Courtaulds in supply. The oil list had a firm tone and the mining list was irregular, with Rio Tinto lower and International Nickel higher. Electrical and wireless issues were in demand, while textiles, tobaccos and rubbers were quiet.

The gilt-edge division was dull. Foreign issues were quiet. Home and Argentine rails were steady. Canadian Pacific was a strong feature.

ITALIAN INVESTMENT CORPORATION FORMED

Organization of the Continental Credit Company, a $5,000,000 concern, to specialize in the financing of monthly payment obligations arising from sales of motor vehicles and airplanes, was announced yesterday by Henry Girola, president of the Italian Investment Corporation. The new concern also will purchase general commercial paper, the announcement added. The investment concern will own all the stock of the credit company.

Diamond Electric Increases Dividend on Common

Quarterly Raised from 25 to 50 Cents Per Share

Earnings Report Presented at Annual Meeting

Directors of the Diamond Electrical Manufacturing Company, following the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday, declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock for the quarter ending the 31st inst., or at the annual rate of $2, as compared with the previous quarterly dividends of 25 cents, or $1 annually. The regular quarterly of $1.75 on the preferred stock was also declared. Both dividends are payable the 31st inst. to stock of record the 24th inst.

All officers and directors were reelected with the exception of John B. Miller, whose place on the board was taken by his son, Morris B. Miller. Paul D. Howse is president, Vernon Brown, vice-president, and J. H. Pengilly, secretary-treasurer. Other directors besides the officers and Mr. Miller are Luther J. Lee, F. B. Lewis and H. B. Woodill.

EARNINGS REPORTED

Net profits for the year ended December 31, last, were reported at $118,482.42 in the annual statement of President Howse to stockholders, which was released following the meeting. This is equal, after preferred dividends, to $4.19½ cents a share on 19,492 shares of common stock of no par value outstanding.

Preferred dividends paid during 1928 totaled $36,722 and common dividends $19,492. A total of $10,947.21 in deferred expenses due to moving in the consolidation of the Safety Electrical Products Corporation and Brown & Pengilly, Inc., was written off, leaving a balance of $51,321.22 carried to surplus, which on December 31, last, amounted to $72,919.12 as compared to $21,597.90 on December 31, 1927.

ASSETS GAIN

Current assets as of December 31, last, totaled $353,049.85, as against $54,831 in current liabilities, a ratio of 6.44 to 1, as compared to a ratio of 5.07 to 1 for the previous year.

The company began operations in June, 1927, when the consolidation of the Safety Electrical Products Corporation and Brown & Pengilly, Inc., was effected. For the seven months of 1927, it reported a net income of $42,601.97.

Big Board Seat Rights Sell at Sharp Discount

NEW YORK, March 4. (Exclusive) The ups and downs of the stock market are not confined to the listed shares the traders deal in these March days.

The seats of the mighty are getting cheaper, it was revealed today. Just three weeks ago the stock exchange increased its membership from 1100 to 1375 by allotting to each member one-fourth share of a new seat. There was a rush to sell, mostly on the part of traders who had bought their own seat on a shoestring and some of the "quarters" went at bargain prices.

Before the stock-exchange governors adopted a rule that no more prices would be made public until after standardization, 272 members had disposed of their "rights" and anyone with a pencil and a note pad could find there had been a sharp break in the price.

The last reported sale including the "quarter-seat right" was at $625,000. Today it was learned that many of those shopping for "quarters" had been able to buy four of them for approximately $400,000. This would cut down the price of an old seat with rights attached to about $500,000 or more than $100,000 below last month's peak.

Blue Diamond Tells Profits

Earnings of the Blue Diamond Company of California for 1928 totaled $392,109 before depreciation and depletion and interest, W. C. Hay, president, reported yesterday. This amount is approximately 7 1-4 times bond interest requirements, he stated. Ratio of current assets to current liabilities was better than five to one.

Mr. Hay explained in his statement that while gross sales fell off about 23 per cent from the previous year, net income before depreciation, depletion and interest dropped only 13 per cent. Prospects for 1929 are bright, he said.

GASOLINE PRICE CUT IN GEORGIA FIELD

ATLANTA, March 4. (Exclusive) Pan-American Petroleum-Transport Corporation has reduced the filling-station price of ordinary gasoline here 2 cents a gallon to 21 cents excluding State tax of 4 cents. The new price is 17 cents a gallon. This action was taken to meet concessions being granted by other companies. Gulf, Texas Corporation and Standard Oil of Kentucky, followed the cut.

JOINS BROKERAGE HERE

Leib, Keyston & Co., San Francisco brokerage house which is opening extensive offices in this city, yesterday announced that Morris Hole, formerly of Los Angeles, will become associated with the branch here. Mr. Hole was at one time connected with the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, and later became identified with the interests of Willits J. Hole. In 1927 he left the Belridge Oil Company to join the staff of Leib, Keyston & Co. in San Francisco.

NEW CAPITAL ISSUES GAIN

Bank Bulletin Shows Largest Increase Recorded in Stock Offerings During 1928

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1929, in all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—The National Bank of Commerce, which announced recently its consolidation with the Guaranty Trust, making the largest bank in the United States, says that the aggregate amount of capital issues offered within the United States in 1928 was slightly in excess of the amount offered in 1927, the previous record year.

Stock offerings increased very markedly; bond offerings decreased. Stock quotations represented in 1928 about 40 per cent of the total, whereas in 1927 they represented less than 20 per cent.

The bank officials point out that the notable features in the distribution of the new issues in 1928 were: First, the large increase in investment trust financing through stock issues; second, the small decline in municipal financing (it was only $100,000,000 less than 1927;) third, the increase in the real estate bond issues—the only class in the bond market to show an increase over 1927.

Foreign bonds showed a little decline. Europe was the leading borrower in the United States, with Latin America second and Canada third.

Andre Mertzanoff, well-known economist and student of banking credit, whose criticism of Federal Reserve policy has already drawn public attention, has issued another blast dealing with call money.

In a letter to the writer he says that there is no question but what regular business credit will be restricted very seriously if central banking authorities restrict the normal demand for brokers' loans.

Private capital is an increasingly important factor in brokers' loans. In 1926, he asserts, private capital represented 18.3 per cent of total brokers' loans, while bank loans amounted to 81.7 per cent. Last week's Federal Reserve report showed that private capital had increased to 49.5 per cent, while banks were advancing only 50.5 per cent of brokers' loans.

Dr. Mertzanoff believes private and corporate capital will continue to enter the call money market in larger and larger amounts. More probably than "should the financial authorities increase the discount rate and cause the banks to withdraw their present funds and refuse additional call money."

Says this fighting economist of the American Radiator Company: "The flight of private and corporate capital from bank deposits and cash vaults into the more lucrative call loan market will restrict bank credit for normal business needs; for, while such funds in banks permit a sizeable expansion in bank credit when in the hands of individuals this expansion is limited, the amount of credit being represented only by the value of the sum withdrawn from the bank."

Newcomb Carleton, president of the Western Union, has announced a new low cable rate between Great Britain and the United States. Week-end cables of 100 words can now be sent from New York to any part of Great Britain or Ireland and vice-versa for $3, or for 3 cents a word. The Postal has followed suit.

David Sarnoff, vice-president of the Radio Corporation of America, who, by the way, went over on the same ship as Mr. Carleton, must have had some interesting discussions dealing with the subject which is uppermost in the minds of important business interests today—the linking up of the wire and wireless.

At the present time the White Act does not allow it, but should the United States government repeal this particular legislation there is little doubt that a tie-up between Western Union and Radio, including probably others, would be effected quickly.

Bay Market May List Signal Oil

Application has been made by the Signal Oil and Gas Company to list 157,000 shares of Class A stock on the San Francisco Stock Exchange, the company announced yesterday. The stock is already listed on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, where it commands an active market.

In connection with the announcement the company stated that production of casinghead gasoline is on the upward trend in both California and Texas fields. Signal owns the gas contracts on the acreage at Los Cerritos, where wells have just come in from a new sand accompanied by a heavy gas flow. In the Big Lake field in Texas Signal's gas production has increased from 10,000 to about 24,000 gallons daily. It is expected that the annual statement will be released shortly.

REACTION HITS STOCK MARKET

Bearish Tone Rules Trading on Inaugural Day

Message Contains But Little Comfort for Bulls

General Trend of Quotations Sharply Downward

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Inauguration day on the New York Stock Exchange provided little cheer for bull traders today, as the market sold off sharply after several ineffectual attempts to bring about a general rally.

Several reasons were advanced for the reactionary price movement, some observers attributing it to the tradition "selling on the good news" following the publication of the Hoover inaugural address, while others regarded it as reflecting speculative disappointment that the address had failed to come up to earlier forecasts.

Revolutionary disturbances in Mexico and the prospect of a further hardening of money rates before the 15th inst. also were given as adverse market factors. Call money held at 8 per cent all day, with between $15,000,000 and $30,000,000 in loans called. Prime commercial paper was somewhat firmer, reviving fears of an early increase in Federal reserve rediscount rates.

The monthly report of stock exchange member loans, issued after the close of the market, showed a total of $6,678,545,917 at the end of February, a decrease of $56,618,325, compared with the end of the preceding month. At the end of February, 1928, the loan total was $4,322,978,914.

NEWS BULLISH

There was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. Dividends were inaugurated on National Tea new stock at the annual rate of $1.50, equivalent to $6 on the old stock, which paid $4 annually, and on International Nickel, new, at the annual rate of 80 cents, equivalent to $4.80 on the old, which paid $3. Heavy oversubscription was reported for the new Kolster-Brandes, Limited, stock offered here and in London today.

American Express, which established a new high record at 330 last week, broke 25¼ points to 302 on a couple of sales. Allied Chemical

COPPER USURPS MARKET STAGE

Four Successive Advances Scored in Week

Lead Moves Up as Result of London Activity

Zinc Unchanged; Conditions Point to Increase

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS
Editor The Mining Journal, Phoenix

Copper has held the center of the stage this past week with four advances in four successive days bringing the price to 19.12 f.o.b. refinery. The activity of copper has rather obscured another lead advance of 15 points, to 7.10 f.o.b. New York. Zinc has remained quiet at 6.35 f.o.b. St. Louis.

The advanced price of lead is a direct result of an improved London market for the metal. The demand for the metal has been good and the New York market broke away from the Anaconda Smelting and Refinery contract price before the smelting company changed its rate. It is stated that a further improvement in London will bring additional increases in this country, as the domestic situation is sound statistically and justifies higher quotations.

ZINC ORE PRICES UP

Zinc ore prices in the tri-State district have advanced $1 a ton and, as a consequence, the zinc price should advance a little as the smelters are not making a sufficient margin on 6.35 zinc to absorb this increased cost of the ore.

It is interesting to note that the Belgian zinc output for December was 18,820 long tons. By the terms of the cartel agreement there was to be a 7 per cent cut in production. Seven per cent from the December production is 17,503 tons or well over the average monthly production for the year of 17,369 tons.

The average monthly production for the year excluding the high month of December was 17,237 tons. The average monthly production in 1927 was 16,835 tons, and in 1926, 15,860 tons. Thus it may be seen that the cartel agreement must go further than a 7 per cent cut to do much good. The new arrangement calls for a 10 per cent cut in production.

TRY TO STOP OVERBUYING

The rapid rise of the copper price has apparently been an effort on the part of the producers to stop overbuying. Europe has been heavily in the market for metal for near-by months and domestic consumers have been covering their requirements for June, all previous months having been taken care of and almost no copper available.

The fabricators are loud in their protest that they are the ones who are overbuying and that they have orders requiring the amount of metal which they have purchased, but they do admit that the consumers are stocking up ahead to take advantage of the lower prices and that they have probably bought a greater stock of copper and brass fabricated products than the market is in sight for. The producers are frankly concerned over the present price of the metal, feeling that it is too high and that it cannot and should not be maintained.

It is felt that the present runaway copper market is largely a result of stock brokers' propaganda, the bullish attitude on copper securities bringing predictions on shortage, high prices, long period of prosperity, etc., all of which has led the consumer to anticipate beyond his needs, place orders with the fabricators and manufacturers, who, in turn have bought the metal to cover their requirements and each of them buying more than actually required.

NO OVERPRODUCTION

The real element of safety in the present situation is that the producers have not allowed the large sales, the high prices and the low stocks to influence them in getting away from a normal production schedule. They have increased production gradually but not rapidly and they are not going to allow themselves to get into a position which may, when the smoke is cleared away, prove to be overproduction again.

The world production of copper decreased a little in January and was reported at 178,083 tons as against 179,240 tons in December and 183,813 tons in November. January production was 18,377 tons above the monthly average of 1928 and the average rate of production of the past three months of 180,378 tons per month would, if maintained through the year, make a yearly total of 2,164,536 tons, as compared with 1,916,471 tons in 1928 or an increase of 248,000 tons.

This is ample to take care of even an abnormal expansion in demand, as any such increase in consumption could be styled, in view of the increase of apparently 14 per cent in 1928, when a new record for deliveries was established, aided by unprecedented activity in all the chief consuming lines.

It will be some months now before the real extent of the overbuying will be known, summer or even later. If the consumers find that their stocks of fabricated and manufactured products will last them more months than they expected and the fabricators find that they have enough metal to last awhile, buyers will stop. But this will not find the producers in a position where it is difficult to put the brakes on production, if the present sensible program of production is maintained. The real danger will come if the producers also lose their heads and overproduce.

A slower buying period would probably be welcomed by the producer as that would give the opportunity to build up the surplus stocks and shapes. The producer program is not designed with an eye to the profits that can be made right now but to creating stability and a long period of profitable mining.

UTILITY TO REDEEM OUTSTANDING BONDS

People's Light and Power Corporation has called for redemption on July 1, 1929, all of its thirty-five-year 6 per cent convertible gold debentures, series of 1962, then outstanding, at 110 per cent and accrued interest. Holders of the debentures may surrender same to the Central Union Trust Company of New York at any time prior to July 1, 1929, and receive a sum equivalent to the redemption price, together with interest accrued thereon to date of surrender. The debentures are convertible to and including June 21, next, into Class A common stock at the rate of $32.50 per share.

Before the split up the New Jersey Nickel common was on a $3 annual basis.

Net profit for the eleven months' period, after deducting interest, depreciation, amortization of bond discount and expense, was $8157.74.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Signal Oil and Gas Features Irregular Market as Volume of Trading Lags

Signal Oil and Gas Company, carried up to a new peak at 44¼, featured an irregular trend of prices yesterday on resumption of the week's trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. The issue closed at 43, up 2 points on the day after a spirited turnover. The advance follows a 2-point gain scored Friday and Saturday. A very spotty condition prevailed throughout the balance of the market in which prices showed no tendency to move one way or the other.

Standard of California was a strong spot on an advance of 3-8 to 68 7-8. Union of California dropped back 3-4 to 48 3-4, and Union Associates 7-8 to the same price. Richfield slumped a point to 42, and Rio Grande, 1-2 to 36 3-4. Barnsdall eased fractionally to 39 5-8.

Hydraulic Brake, on the announcement of a dividend increase, shot up 2 1-4 points to a new top at 60. Emsco continued active and held firm at 43 1-2. Jantzen Knitting Mills dropped back 3-4 to 45. Other industrials were unchanged.

Pacific Finance continued strong with an advance of 1 1-2 points to 103 1-2. Pacific National Company moved up 1 point to 36. Transamerica added 1-4 to end at 136 1-2. Los Angeles-First National Bank jumped up 1 1-2 points to 136, while the rights fell off 40 cents to 3.00.

FOUR SECURITIES WITH PROFIT POSSIBILITIES

MODERN investors are seeking not only security in making their selections of investments, but also an opportunity to participate in the future success of a company as well.

Issues having convertible features or having warrants attached, offer ample present security and in addition the possibility of further future profit.

Convertible issues may be exchanged at a future date for other securities which at that time offer additional profit . . . warrants permit profitable purchases at some later date if the investor wishes to do so.

We have prepared a memorandum covering three sound securities . . . all offering attractive possibilities of future profit.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, March 4. (P)—Price movements shifted frequently in today's curb market but a pronounced reactionary trend developed in the closing dealings. While there may have been some disappointment that the Hoover inaugural message failed to measure up to some of the earlier forecasts which predicted a sweeping approval of oil conservation and railroad consolidation plans, the tightening credit factor revealed in the further firming up of commercial paper rates, also had a chilling effect in that group. Electric Bond and Share broke nearly 7 points and rallied 1. American Super Power A showed a net loss of 5⅝ points and American Gas and Electric, Eastern States Power B and United Gas Improvement closed 2 to 3⅛ points lower.

Alexander Industries, which opened at 17 when admitted to trading last week, advanced more than 2 points to a new high record at 23⅛ on buying influenced by reports of large orders for the company's new Eaglerock plane. Fokker also attained a new top but the other aviation issues showed little change.

Translux was in brisk demand, duplicating the year's high price of 12½ on buying influenced by the rapid expansion in the company's business. Franklin Manufacturing ran up more than 5 points to a new high at 41.

Other issues to sell at new peak prices for the year were Arcturus Radio Tube, Fashion Park, Inc., the Hayzart issues, Murphy Company, National Family Stores preferred, Republic Brass and Savannah Sugar.

There were several outstanding soft spots. Auburn Auto broke 6 points, Newton Steel 5⅝, Pittney Bowes 5⅛ and Tubize Artificial Silk and Singer Manufacturing 10 each. Associated Rayon, Doehler Diecasting, Midcontinent Laundries, Ruberoid, Southwest Stores and United States Asbestos touched new low prices for the year.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

and Motor Products each lost 10 points, General Electric 8½ and A. M. Byers, Goodyear Tire, Montgomery-Ward, Radio Corporation (old) and Wright Aeronautical closed at net declines of 5 to 7 1-4 points.

Packard Motors turned reactionary on the announcement of a price cut for the company's eight-cylinder cars, but Chrysler was run up more than 5 points at the expense of an overcrowded short interest, but lost nearly half its gain. American Bosch Magneto moved into new high ground. United States Rubber attained a new peak at 64 and then eased to 61, off 2 1-4 net.

MEXICO COPPERS OFF

Stocks of copper companies operating in Mexico, namely, American Smelting, Howe Sound and American Metal, were under pressure, but the losses were held at a point or two. Kennecott changed hands in large volume, touching a new peak at 93½, and then easing to 93, up 1 1-4 net. Such recent pool favorites as Bethlehem Steel, Columbia Graphophone, International Combustion, Spicer Manufacturing and Westinghouse Electric lost 3 points or more.

Rails, which were heavily bought last week on rumors that the Hoover inaugural message would recommend early legislation to facilitate railroad consolidations, fell back when publication of the message disclosed no such reference. Canadian Pacific, New York Central and Atlantic Coast Line each lost 3 points or more, and Atchison, Southern Pacific, Frisco common and a number of others fell back a point or more.

Foreign exchanges moved irregularly lower, Japanese yen breaking nearly 40 points to a new low at 44.28 cents and Spanish pesetas dropping 11 points to a new low at 15.14 cents. Sterling cables held steady around $4.85 1-4.

Except for declines of a cent or so a bushel in grain futures the commodity markets developed little of interest. Cotton futures closed 13 points higher to 5 points lower and coffee dropped 7 to 22 points, with little change in sugar prices.

LASE

Stock Tax Lowered

By legislation just enacted, California now has the lowest personal property tax in the Union on out-of-state stocks, bonds and solvent credits. But to avoid heavy penalties such holdings as of March 4th must be reported. Complete information covering provisions of this new law will be supplied on request.

Ask for it.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Prices in the bond market today slipped downward in sympathy with selling in the stocks and nervousness over the Mexican revolution. More than a dozen issues, including the Mexican bonds, sank to new low levels for the year, and the Associated Press combined averages again fell to the lowest figure in more than two years.

Some of the first-grade rails and a sprinkling of issues in the general list, including Anaconda Copper 7s, displayed independent strength. The Anaconda Copper 7s after getting up to 236, 1 point under its record price, closed at 233 for a net gain of 2½ points. Alleghany Corporation 5s turned heavy after an early exhibition of strength.

New lows for 1929 were established by such industrials as Bethlehem Steel refunding 5s and International Cement 5s, each with a 1½-point drop. Loew's income 6s with warrants fell back 3 points to 118⅛ on traditional selling on good news, on the announcement that Fox had obtained a substantial interest in Loew's and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Truax Traer Coal 6½s, which are convertible into common, advanced more than a point to 99½, the issuing price last year, in face of a smaller earnings report.

Decline in the public utilities was led by Public Service of New Jersey, which sagged more than a point on profit-taking, and International Telephane 4½s, which slumped fractionally. Niagara Power 6s however, gained a point.

Green Bay and Western Railway B debentures, on which the interest rate was increased, featured the rails with a 3-point jump. Chesapeake and Ohio convertible 4½s, Missouri Pacific 5s F and G, and Western Maryland 4s were strong, the latter advancing more than a point. New lows were established by Union Pacific 4½s and Wabash 4½s. An early gain in Atchison 4½s was converted into a loss of more than a point.

Mexican 4s of 1904 to 1945 slumped more than 2 points. New lows in the foreign list also were established by New South Wales 5s, Norway Kingdom 5½s, Canadian Dominion 5s and German 6s of 1938.

United States government issues were irregular.

Associated Gas and Electric 5½s ran up nearly 6 points to establish a new peak at 130 in the irregular trading in curb bonds.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission, the close is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

6% Direct Obligation Gold Notes

Due February 1, 1932

Of greater significance than the ten-times ratio of actual assets to funded debt is the good faith, the integrity, of the Catholic Church—known the world over—for scrupulously paying its financial obligations. ❧ In the Philippines, this has been strikingly true under more than one flag. ❧ The Archdiocese of Manila was established in the 16th Century. ❧ Not only is this issue intrinsically of the highest grade, but it is unusually attractive as to yield, with an excellent prospect of premium retirement.

Price 100 and Interest, to Yield 6%

This loan is specifically approved by the Apostolic Delegate to the Philippine Islands of His Holiness, Pope Pius XI.

Stabilizing Business Through Tourists' Dollars

BY

LEO M. MEEKER, President

PAN AMERICAN BANK OF CALIFORNIA

CASH, annually brought here and left by Tourists, approximately $200,000,000

CASH, transferred here and expended or invested each year by visitors who become residents, an additional $125,000,000

How many business men have fully realized what a tremendous force the tourists' dollars exert in the trade channels of Southern California! Compare the above figures for a moment with the returns from some of our other major industries:

The annual cash return from oil $170,000,000
the cash return from motion pictures . . $132,000,000
the cash return from citrus crop . . . $120,000,000

With $200,000,000, the cash return of the Tourist business, or industry if you call it that, ranks well ahead of oil, motion pictures and the citrus crop.

When you add the $125,000,000 that visitors who remain, transfer here, the significance of Tourists' dollars becomes even more apparent.

And what is still of greater importance, much of this money is now spent here during the summer months—when a lot of businesses need it most, to take up the seasonal slack.

Contrast summer conditions now, with those eight years ago, and it is not hard to see what an important factor tourists have been in stabilizing business conditions in Southern California.

Growth Hastened by Organized Effort

The tourist business did not just grow by accident. It has reached present proportions because of carefully planned organized effort. In 1921, the tourist season was about two months long, January 15 to March 15. Southern California was then known only as a winter resort. Many businesses, depending largely on tourist trade, were hard pressed for three-fourths of the year.

Out of this condition there germinated the idea of capitalizing the summer climate of Southern California as a means of spreading out the tourist season. A non-profit organization of California citizens, the All-Year Club of Southern California, was formed for the purpose of advertising this section to the rest of the country, as a summer vacation land.

The results of nearly eight years persistent effort are evident. From a mere handful of summer tourists in 1921, the number has risen until last season there were over 500,000 summer visitors. Not only has a summer season here been created but the winter season has been materially lengthened. The number of yearly visitors has been raised from 300,000 to 1,000,000.

All-Year Club Has One Objective

The efforts of this organization are concentrated on year round tourist business only—leaving the problems of new industries to other organizations. But the All-Year Club has demonstrated that this one objective—tourist business—is entirely worth while in and of itself.

Bringing outside money here during the quiet months has done much to stabilize yearly business conditions and has enabled Southern California to consistently maintain its position as a 'white spot' of the nation.

There is no constructive activity that deserves support of business interests to any greater extent, than the continual development of tourist business. As bankers, we are in a position to observe the many tangible results of this effort. Through our correspondence with other sections of the country, we have frequently had evidence of the far reaching influence of this sustained drive to attract visitors. And those who remain permanently are usually substantial type of citizens—people whom this bank is glad to welcome and number among its customers.

Grain Reserve Reports Bring Price Setback

CHICAGO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Private reports on farm reserves of grain exceeded the expectations of the trade and led to fairly general selling of futures, with wheat breaking 2⅛@2¼c from the early high. The finish was within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of 1⅝@1⅝c, March being 1.23⅝, May 1.28⅝ and July 1.31⅛@1.31¼. Winnipeg finished 1@1⅝c lower.

Corn showed resistance to selling pressure, but weakened with wheat and was ⅝@1c lower at the last, with March 95¼ and May 99⅝@99½.

Oats finished 1⅛c lower to ⅝c higher, the latter on September at 47⅝, while March was 47⅛ and May 50⅛. Rye lost ⅝@⅞c, with March 1.09½ and May 1.11⅝.

Supplies of wheat in all positions on the 1st inst. this year were unusually heavy, estimates as to the amount in sight ranging from 350,000,000 to 438,000,000 bushels and on the basis of the latter figure suggested around 270,000,000 bushels available for export the balance of the season and for carryover into the new crop. The trade construed the report as bearish, and while there was a sharp rally at one time on President Hoover's speech, a leading local long took advantage of the upturn to sell freely, and the market weakened again. The break was checked by buying against bids. Numerous stop-loss orders were uncovered on the way down.

The general run of comment on the new winter wheat crop by local experts in the main suggested that there had been only moderate damage so far, despite the exceptionally unfavorable weather conditions of the last two months. Liverpool closed ⅛@¼d higher, due to a better continental demand for cash wheat, and had a little effect here early. Houses with northwestern and southwestern connections were on the selling side early, and later there was pressure due to the easiness in Winnipeg. Export demand at the seaboard was again slow, although France and Italy bought a little durum and Manitobas.

An increase of 117,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply brought the total up to 123,432,000 bushels, against 71,357,000 bushels last year. The Buenos Aires market closed unchanged to ⅛c lower.

Disappearance of corn on farms the first four months of the crop year was 1,820,000,000 bushels, or 26,000,000 bushels less than during the same period last year, but was the largest with that exception since 1923-24, and was 5,000,000 bushels in excess of the average of the past ten years.

This showing offset to some extent the bearish construction placed on the farm reserves themselves, with an average of 1,042,000,000 bushels, or 30,000,000 bushels in excess of a year ago. Trade in the aggregate was not large, with the break checked by buying against bids. The visible increased 814,000,000 bushels for the week and is 33,302,000 bushels, against 40,998,000 bushels last year. The local spot basis showed little change.

Liquidation by tired longs had a depressing effect on the near-by deliveries of oats, with farm reserves of 500,000,000, or 127,000,000 bushels more than last year, being the main bearish influence. Cash interests and shorts bought on the break. Trade in rye was not large, with buying by commission houses offsetting to a large extent the weakness in wheat.

Provisions failed to show much change in price and little activity was displayed. Hog arrivals were 67,000 and prices at the yards ruled generally steady.

Cash trade presented no new developments. Deliveries on March contracts were 100,000 pounds of bellies.

For information regarding this issue, we refer to a letter of Mr. Samuel M. Jones, President, from which he summarizes as follows:

History and Business: Arnold Print Works, incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts, is the outgrowth of a business founded 67 years ago and is now one of the leading companies in the United States engaged in the bleaching, dyeing, printing and finishing of cottons, linens, silks and rayons. The Company's customers are the large converters who buy and own the unbleached fabrics known as grey goods, thus eliminating on the Company's part the necessity and risk of an investment in inventories of this type. The Company renders a highly skilled service, and it is noteworthy that irrespective of conditions affecting the textile industry, there has been a continuous and growing demand for this service. Increasing orders have necessitated the recent acquisition of a second plant, thus greatly increasing the Company's capacity and enabling it to render additional and advantageous service to its customers. The two plants are located at Adams and North Adams, Massachusetts.

Financial Statement: The audited balance sheet as of December 31, 1928, adjusted to give effect to the recent recapitalization and to this financing, shows tangible assets applicable to this issue, after bonds and all other liabilities and reserves, of $5,619,009.18, or approximately 280% of the par value of this stock to be outstanding. Current assets total $1,857,675.21, or more than four times current liabilities, including reserves for taxes, of $437,624.71.

Earnings: Earnings have been consistent and substantial. The continuous need for draperies, dress and other wash goods, shirtings and similar textiles, assures the Company of a steady business. Also, the fact that the materials printed by the Company are owned by the customers, eliminates inventory losses due to market fluctuations.

Net earnings, after depreciation, interest charges, and all taxes, according to the audited statements of Patterson, Teele & Dennis, Accountants and Auditors, for years ended December 31, have been as follows:

Net earnings as thus computed for the year 1928, were equivalent to 2.9 times the annual dividend requirements of $140,000 on this issue, and such annual average net earnings for the three years 1926 to 1928 inclusive, were 2.6 times such dividend requirements.

These earnings do not reflect the very substantal increase anticipated through the operations of the newly acquired plant. This added unit which is expected to be in operation about March 1, 1929, will approximately double the Company's productive capacity, and orders on hand, which are currently running in excess of 50% ahead of those during the same period of 1928, indicate a heavy demand for the new facilities. Furthermore, the margin of profit accruing to the Company has been considerably increased, selling prices now in effect being 15% above the 1928 level.

A portion of this offering has been subscribed to by holders of the old Preferred Stock. We recommend the balance for investment and offer it when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of Counsel, Messrs. Miller, Bretzfelder & Boardman for the Company, and Messrs. Van Vorst, Siegel & Smith for the Bankers. It is expected that delivery will be made in the form of temporary certificates on or about March 14, 1929.

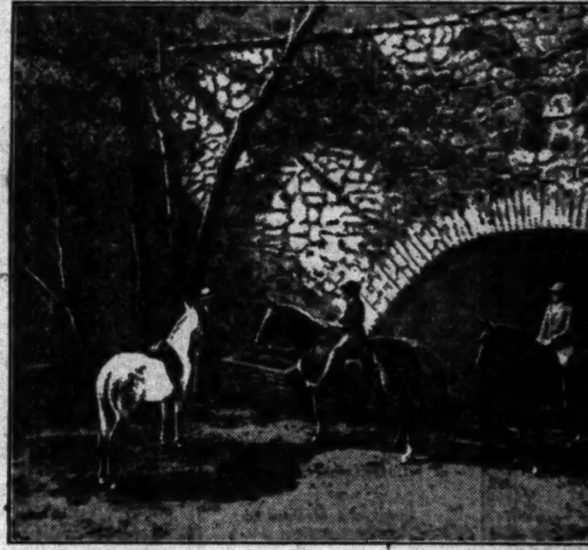
Horseback Riding Popular Sport

In BEL-AIR



The following is taken from a survey made by the Eberle Economic Service, Inc., Economists, Engineers and Statisticians

"THE Bel-Air Stables have a nation-wide reputation. Many prize-winning horses are kept there. It is not the purpose of this report to extol this attribute of the Bel-Air environment, but rather to present the equestrian facilities found in the whole neighborhood. No bridle paths are more inviting and interesting than those of Bel-Air. Since Los Angeles and vicinity is peopled with an unusual proportion of well-to-do families we are interested in presenting the fact that riding is a sport engaged in locally by many, and therefore, there is almost unlimited opportunity for social intercourse in this respect for the lover of horses.

"There are many beautiful bridle paths in the mountains."

RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, March 4. (Exclusive)—A rising market in London was reflected on the local crude rubber market. While not at all exciting, the market was firm and advanced steadily all day. High levels around midday were as much as 80 points advanced over the previous finals, but, while there were no signs of weakening, much of this gain was dropped near the close on last minute profit-taking. The close was up 40 points, with December showing a gain of ½c. Trading was in moderate volume, 933 contracts changing hands for a total of 2332½ long tons.

Some good manufacturing interest featured the market on the outside and the spot price was up ¾c to 26½c. London closed the day quiet but firm and ⅛d higher at 13d.

RESOURCES HIGHER

Pacific States Saving and Loan Reports for February

Although February was a short month with two holidays on which the institution conducted no business, Pacific States Savings and Loan Company, showed a gain of approximately $1,250,000 in resources over its total for January 31, when resources were approximately $32,378,000, Robert S. Odell, president, reported yesterday. He attributes in part the February growth of his institution to the soft and unsatisfactory market conditions with the attendant desire on the part of the public to seek safety for its funds and certainty of yield. The company announced further that its savers now number in excess of 46,000.

SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4 (AP)—Following the precedent that has attended Presidential inaugurals over a period of years, trading on the San Francisco Stock Exchange was inclined to be irregular today. The market as a whole was hesitant, and most sections of the list ranged within narrow price limits.

Langendorf "B" continued its upward trend of the past week and touched a new high for the current year at 32¼ before easing to close up ⅛ at 31⅞. The "A" issue was steady at 34.

Industrials that acted well were California Packing at 76, Illinois Pacific Glass at 42, Oliver "A" at 42, Pacific Lighting at 76½ and Paraffine at 84¾.

Slightly lower levels were shown in Atlas Diesel at 58½, California Copper at 9¼, Clorox at 44¾, Dairy Dale "A" at 29½ and Dairy Dale "B" at 24½. Pacific Gas and Electric declined from 57½ to 57.

He pays all expenses!

FROM THE BORROWER'S POCKETBOOK . . comes each dollar . . of overhead expense . . or dividends . . paid by every financial institution! .

There OUGHT to be a great deal of gratitude displayed by EVERY financial institution to the borrowers who pay all bills. Don't smile so bitterly. Because you have borrowed money directly proportionate to your business success. You know.

WE GET THE BORROWER'S FRIENDSHIP . . here in the old-fashioned Mutual Building and Loan Association of POMONA . . because our expenses are low . . and our dividends moderate.

Sooner or later, every intelligent borrower becomes an investor, and if he has paid all or any of the thirty-two extortionate fees of modern financing, you can hardly blame him for becoming "ungrateful" to the financial institution that "helped" him by bleeding his loans. You've heard financiers cry over that lack of gratitude!

WE ARE GRATEFUL FOR STATE BUILDING-LOAN RECORDS . . to the borrowers . . who have made these records possible . . through thirty-six years . . without loan-loss.

In old-fashioned Pomona Valley we could not have grown to $12,000,000 resources, as the largest financial institution of our community, by any policies which produced enmity among our borrowers. Not among neighbors and friends.

For the same reasons, through Southern California, we have won the respect and co-operation of all realtors who are students of loan methods. For their clients, they resent all the clever ways of shrinking the borrowed dollar by seemingly reasonable requirements. So the MUTUAL Building and Loan Association of POMONA gets GOOD LOANS.

Is a Bear Market in Sight?

Are stocks on the verge of a severe decline? Should you sell your holdings, or is this a time to make additional purchases on any reaction?

These questions can best be answered by considering the 4 principal factors that are influencing the present trend of prices. Any policy that will be successful under today's conditions must be a considered policy, and the fundamentals behind the market must be understood.

Until recently, when rather severe breaks have occurred, prices advanced with sufficient steadiness so that a great many individuals concluded that almost any stock could be bought with safety and the expectation of profit. It is becoming increasingly apparent that this is not the case.

BY C. D. WAIDE

With one well passing the 6000-foot mark without favorable showings, interest in the Lawndale drillings is becoming acute. The Standard Oil Company's Vance No. 1, yesterday afternoon was drilling at 6053 feet, or 400 feet deeper than where oil was found in the discovery well 1000 feet to the west. The Standard well has gone through several streaks and thin bodies of oil sand, but has not discovered a productive zone. Its latest sand was between 6005 and 6025 feet, in which several heavy streaks of sand were cored.

The Smith Development Company's Durand No. 1, was drilling at 5850 feet yesterday and the cores indicated the drill was just entering the Miocene formation. Several fair bodies of sand have been drilled and the operators are optimistic over the outlook. This well is one of the farthest southwest of any of the deep wells in the field and is slightly east of south of the discovery well.

Tubing was being run yesterday in the San Clemente Oil Company's Peck No. 1, offset to the discovery well, and swabbing will be started today. It is expected that it will take two or three days to clean out the mud and water and make a production test.

The Richfield Oil Company is rushing the drilling in its Woods No. 1, an outpost test nearly a mile to the northwest of the discovery well, and it was drilling at 2929 feet yesterday.

Tar Sand Found

The Schwuchow No. 1, of the Petroleum Securities Company has encountered considerable streaks of heavy tar sand between depths of 3500 and 3750 feet. The well was down to the latter depth yesterday and drilling ahead.

This well is near El Nido and is only two miles southwest of the Lawndale field, and operators in the latter field are watching it as a wildcat test that may have a bearing on their operations. The well is not near any production, and is being drilled as a deep test. The oil sand has been cored at frequent intervals during the drilling of the last 250 feet of the hole.

Plymouth Deep Test

The Plymouth Oil Company's Roberts No. 1, the deep test of the southeast part of the Santa Fe Springs field, was drilling at 6940 feet in alternating shale and oil sand yesterday. This well is being watched with interest, for a successful completion of it would prove up the value of much acreage in that section of the field.

The Plymouth well has been in alternating layers of oil sand since the drill was at 5828 feet, or a distance of 112 feet, with the largest single body of sand being fourteen feet thick. However, the hole being drilled is five and five-eighths inches in diameter and the last string that can be set in it is a four and three-quarter-inch combination. Consequently no production test will be made until an entirely satisfactory sand has been found or until possibilities are exhausted. The operators believe that the sand already drilled through would have proven commercially productive.

Other Deep Wells

The Associated Oil Company's Clarke No. 2, at Santa Fe Springs, the deepest well in the field, was drilling at 7890 feet yesterday, the cores indicating presence of oil sand in thin streaks.

The Richfield Oil Company has had considerable mechanical trouble with its Elliott No. 2, near the Associated well, and completed cleaning it to the bottom yesterday. The tubing was removed and will have to be replaced before any effort at production can be made.

The California Eastern's Brunson No. 2, was reaming at 6945 feet yesterday, but it has not been decided if casing will be landed at this depth. This well also has been drilling in alternating oil sand and shale and the bottom is now in shale.

Makes Test Tonight

The Doty No. 3 at Elwood of the Barnsdall-Rio Grande combination had been drilled into 195 feet of oil sand last night and the operators are preparing to make a production test in the well tonight. The sand was found at 3481 feet and the well was drilled to 3676 feet. This is deeper than any of the six wells now on production in the field.

The combination's Luton-Bell No. 6 at the opposite, or west side of the field, was cemented off yesterday at a depth of 3195 feet, at the top of the Vaqueros sand.

The Elwood Community No. 1, one of the earliest wells started in the field, was drilling in shale yesterday at a depth of 4947 feet.

New Deep Test

The Union Oil Company yesterday tested its Howard No. 10 at Santa Fe Springs, in the extreme north edge of the Buckbee zone, and found it too wet to be a commercial producer. The company has decided to kill the well and make a deep test of it, taking it to one of the new deep sands recently discovered in the field. It was tested at a depth of 5775 feet.

Standard Wildcats

The Standard Oil Company's Mascot No. 1, a deep test in the Midway field, being drilled by arrangement with the Mascot Oil Company, was drilling in gray sand and brown shale yesterday at a depth of 3593 feet.

The company KCL-5 No. 2, a wildcat test in the edge of the city of Bakersfield, was down 3957 feet in gray sand yesterday. This well is between the Fruitvale and the Kern River fields.

Signal Hill Well

The D'Angelo No. 4 at Signal Hill was put on production by the D'Angelo Oil Company and developed a flow of 2700 barrels per day of virtually clean oil, testing 29 deg. gravity. The flow was accompanied by a heavy volume of gas. The well is 7069 feet deep.

Uses "Water Bug"

The Bolsa Chica Oil Corporation is using a "water bug" in an effort to ascertain the source of water in its Mutual No. 4 well at Signal Hill. Tests have shown the casing to be satisfactory, but the water pressure holds back the oil flow and it is believed that a faulty shoe is the cause of the trouble.

Recement at Potrero

The Associated Oil Company is recementing its Potrero No. 1 on the property of the Potrero Country Club, after the well came in wet. It is expected that several days will elapse before another production test can be made.

METAL MARKETS

CLEVELAND, March 4. (Exclusive)—Daily Metal Trade today says: The pig-iron melt is steadily gaining in the St. Louis district, but purchasing for second quarter has not yet opened up in the volume expected. Considerable buying activity involving small tonnages for prompt shipment is reported, however.

At Chicago heavy melting steel scrap has been marked down 25 cents a ton as the result of a purchase of several thousands tons at $16 by a large steel works consumer.

At Pittsburgh strip steel producers are finding a continuation of active demand and deferred shipments on both hot and cold rolled. Buying of cold strip is not quite so active as some time ago and delivery can be had within thirty days.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, March 4. (AP)—The sale of some fairly large blocks of fine wools recently has materially improved the market, consisting of fine domestic wools. Reports from members of the wool trade indicate a substantial reduction of stocks since the first of the year, in spite of the regular demand. The supply situation has been helped also by the light receipts of domestic wools. The receipts of domestic wools during the week ending the 2nd inst. amounted to 484,900 pounds, compared with 421,800 pounds the previous week. This was the fourth consecutive week in which receipts were under 500,000 pounds.

FORESIGHT IN THE CHOICE OF PROPERTIES WHICH ARE RIPE FOR DEVELOPMENT IS MORE OFTEN THAN NOT A MATTER OF EXPERIENCE OF THE PAST AND ACCURATE KNOWLEDGE OF THE PRESENT.
Realty Foundation, organized to improve and manage desirable properties with income buildings, is directed by men who have for years been engaged in that activity, who have achieved success for themselves, and profit for their associates.
Realty Foundation is amply financed. Securities of its affiliated, owning-operating companies will never be offered publicly, the shareholders being admitted by invitation only. These securities provide for 6% on the investment "right from the start," and the early return of the principal while retaining ownership of the property itself.

WIFE OF HERO FINDS IT OUT

Awarding of Medal to Him Discloses to Mate His Gallantry in War

CHICAGO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Mrs. John V. Hogan learned for the first time today that her husband is a war hero. For ten years and a half Hogan, a vacuum-cleaner salesman, has kept to himself the story of his gallantry under fire in France. It was revealed today in an announcement from the War Department at Washington that he has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross.

On September 12, 1918, the citation said, Hogan, a private of the Three Hundred and Fifty-Ninth Infantry, Eighty-ninth Division, displayed extraordinary heroism in action near Bois De Mort Mare. The detachment which he commanded encountered an enemy machine-gun crew delivering effective fire. Hogan placed his men under cover, advanced alone without orders, killed the machine gunner and another man and captured the gun with ten prisoners.

Algunas Frases del Discurso de Hoover

WASHINGTON, 4 de Marzo.—En el discurso del presidente Hoover, que hoy tomó posesión de su alto cargo, solemnemente, hubo muchísimas frases felices, de las cuales damos a continuación unas cuantas: "Estamos constantemente formando un nueva raza, una nueva civilización de magnas realizaciones. "Una dispensación de rígida y rápida justicia es la primera salvaguardia de la libertad la base de toda autonomía, la fuerza vital del progreso". "Aquellos que poseen un conocimiento verdadero de los Estados Unidos de Norteamérica, saben que nosotros no queremos ninguna expansión territorial, para fines económicos o de dominación de otros pueblos". "No sólo deseamos estar en paz con todo el mundo sino que quisiéramos que todo el mundo disfrutara de esta paz". "Esa paz nuestra, sólo se alcanzará si logramos infundir respeto a todos por medio de nuestra eficacia de defendernos en caso de agresión". "Nuestra patria es rica en su tierra y en sus productos; de una confortadora hermosura natural; pletórica toda ella de millones de hogares felices; tierra bendita que brinda una satisfacción de todas las necesidades como pocas de las que conocemos en el concierto universal". "Ningún país es tan amado de sus habitantes, como lo es el nuestro. Tengo una gran fe en su capacidad, integridad y alteza de miras".

En Persia se Está Usando el Aeroplano

BUSHIRE (Persia) 4 de Marzo.—En este país lejano se está usando el aeroplano para trasladarse de un modo seguro a varios puntos del país. Se usan máquinas del tipo Junkers, como el Bremen con que los aviadores germanos hicieron el vuelo transatlántico, hace algún tiempo. La gente está encantada con este medio de locomoción pues hasta ahora solo por medio de camellos, caballos, y últimamente automóviles, es como se podía ir de un lado a otro. Las molestias eran enormes, y además los caminos muy inseguros, poblados de audaces bandas de ladrones que hacían depredaciones con todos los viajeros.

Ruso que Confiesa Ser Auto de Una Carta Apócrifa a Borah

BERLIN, de de Marzo.—Vladimir Orloff fué sujeto a un largo interrogatorio acerca del asunto de la supuesta carta de la Comunista Internacional, enviada hace tiempo al senador norteamericano Borah. Como resultado de ello Orloff confesó que era él el autor de la citada carta y que en unión de un compañero suyo llamado Miguel Sumarokov había tratado de venderla a un corresponsal yanki hace poco. La policía declaró que era la primera vez que Orloff confesaba algo y que tenían esperanza en que siguiera declarando más, sobre este asunto. Parece que tanto él, como su compañero, son culpables de la falsificación de gran cantidad de documentos oficial de varias clases. Huberto Knickerbocker, corresponsal el esta ciudad del Evening Post de Nueva York, fue quien proporcionó las informaciones que hicieron que la policía arrestara a los dos individuos.

NOTAS LOCALES

"Vea Primero los Estados Unidos"

"Muchacho, remita estas cosas a San Francisco, aquí no las necesitamos, esta es una tierra escantada". Así ordenaron unas primorosas muchachas de Big Piney, Wyoming, refiriéndose a sus pellizas, que aquí realmente no son necesarias. Las señoritas María y Elena O'Neill, llegaron en el vapor de la línea Dollar, Presidente Monroe, acompañadas de su madre, que suspiraba por que el viaje que han emprendido por toda la Unión, se vea pronto terminado. La idea de las niñas ha sido la de "ver y conocer a su propia patria", y luego irse a recorrer otras tierras.

Folleto Sobre California

La última adición a la ya copiosa colección de folletos y libros sobre California, para uso de los turistas que aquí vienen de paseo, la constituye un primoroso folleto editado por la compañía "Union Pacific". Consta de multitud de grabados, planos y gráficos de los lugares de recreo de toda California. La primera edición de este librillo ha alcanzado la suma de cien mil ejemplares. Estos han sido enviados a todas las librerías del estado, así como a las oficinas de todas las cámaras de comercio de importancia, a las agencias de viajes, en fin, á todos los lugares donde la difusión de su contenido pueda contribuir a prestigiar aun más de lo que está, a esta tierra bendita.

Charlas Infantiles Para Chiquillos de Escuela

IV

En la escuela aprendidó lo que todos los otros niños (At school he learned what other boys did). Pero la diferencia entre él y los otros consistía en ésto: que él no se conformó con aprender sólo lo que los otros (But the difference between him and most other boys was this: he did not stop with knowing just what the other boys knew). La mayoría de los niños solo desean aprender lo que los otros aprenden (Most boys want to know only what the other boys learn).

TWENTY-EIGHT DIE IN BLAST

Score More Seriously Injured When Fire Destroys Bulgaria's Largest Arsenal

SOFIA (Bulgaria) March 4. (AP)—Twenty-eight persons, mostly women, were burned to death and twenty-five were grievously injured in an explosion in the largest military arsenal of Bulgaria here today. Property valued at $1,000,000 was destroyed.

The real cause of the catastrophe which shook the capital to its foundations and created a panic among the population, was not yet determined officially. One theory was that a woman, seeking warmth from a stove, carried fuse signal too close to the hot coals.

EARTHQUAKE FEARED

Within a few minutes the entire building was a roaring furnace. The flames spread rapidly to the adjoining powder depot causing a second and stronger explosion. The terrified people feared a repetition of the calamitous earthquakes which devastated Bulgaria last year. The roof of the second building, in which more than fifty workers had just begun their afternoon labor, crashed with terrific force, cutting off the only retreat of the panic-stricken workmen.

At the risk of their lives the fire brigade erected ladders against the flaming building and smashed in the heavily iron-barred windows. While red-hot steel projectiles rained from the interior they rescued a few of the workers from the asphyxiating fumes and the inferno of exploding shells.

CROWDS ATTRACTED

The disaster, which occurred in the heart of the city at the busiest hour of the day, attracted huge crowds. Groups of hysterical relatives broke through the fire lines to beseech policemen and firemen to save their loved ones who already had perished.

Tonight nothing remained of the two structures except a mass of black and smoldering ruins.

ENGLISH FUSE FACTORY ALSO BURNS

LONDON, March 4. (AP)—The Woolwich arsenal area, close to the heart of London, was alarmed today by a series of heavy explosions in the primer and fuse factory of Britain's greatest munitions-manufacturing center and supply dump. Nineteen persons suffered minor injuries. Flames licked up the arsenal walls and rockets burst high overhead or fell a great distance away in the environs of the metropolis.

Fire engines from many parts of London got the flames under control tonight. The extent of the damage has not yet been estimated.

LINDBERGH IN NEED OF NEW PLANE

He Seeks Craft to Reach Border for Air Mail Trip; Pacheco Congratulated

MEXICO CITY, March 4. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who today hastened back with Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and his family from their curtailed week-end at Cuernavaca, sent a telegram of congratulation to Joaquin Gonzales Pacheco, on his flight from Mexico City to Washington.

The colonel plans to fly back to the United States within a few days, if he can get an airplane in the present emergency. The one in which he came here and which was cracked up has not yet been repaired. Lindbergh intends, he said, to fly the first air mail from Brownville, Tex., to Mexico City Saturday if conditions permit.

Ambassador Morrow, who hurried back from Cuernavaca early this morning and reached his office before 9 o'clock, kept in constant touch through the day with government authorities. He conferred with President Portes Gil, Foreign Minister Estrada and Plutarco Elias Calles, newly created Secretary of War for the emergency.

LODI'S WEDDED FOLK ALL SEEM CONTENTED

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Lodi boasts of having California's most contented married couples. Statistics received at the capital today reveal that not a single suit for divorce was instituted during the entire month of February. Lodi has a population of 10,000.

GRAY HAIR IS EASILY DARKENED
Tells How She Did It With a Home Made Remedy
Mrs. E. M. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:
"Anyone can darken their gray or faded hair, and look twenty years younger with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—[Advertisement.

WEEPING COPS DO THEIR DUTY

Tear Bomb to Rout Belfry Belligerent Backfires; Exit All Sobbing

Five detectives of the Central flying squad were incommunicado for several hours yesterday as the result of efforts to rout a presumably demented man from the belfry of the Church of Our Lady of Loretta, 258 North Union avenue.

The detectives were called to the scene when parishioners complained of the tolling of the bell. The church doors were locked from within and the rector was unable to enter. Just as the squad arrived the tolling of the bell died away and a high, shrill voice cried: "This is station —— Leonard T. Peterman broadcasting."

Through a side window the detectives crawled into the church. Up a narrow stairway they mounted to the belfry. About a small trap door they found Peterman hovering with a potato masher in his hand. When efforts to coax the man down from his perch failed the detectives threw a tear bomb into the small inclosure.

Peterman came down hurriedly, but so did the tear gas, through the opened trap door. Before the detectives could regain the open air with the captured man all were crying profusely. It was several hour before the squad could take up its duties again.

Peterman was held for observation.

DUTY COURT WILL SIT ON EGG YOLKS

Queer Customs Questions to Become Before Tribunal at Its Session Today

Several million dollars in Federal customs fees are at stake in questions that will come before the United States Customs Court which will convene here this forenoon, M. M. Mulling, acting appraiser for the port of Los Angeles, said yesterday. One of the principal issues involved dried egg yolks, received here in enormous quantities from China. Another has to do with rags imported from Japan to wipe machinery.

Justice William J. Tilson, one of nine members of the United States Customs Court, has come from New York to conduct the court. It will be in session for three days, or possibly throughout the week. The justice is accompanied by Special United States Attorney Philip Stein and Reporter Harvey Entrekin. More than 500 cases are on the docket. In each instance the importer has paid a higher duty than he believes is proper and has appealed to the court for a lower duty and for a refund.

The court will sit in Room 353, Courthouse, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Justice Tilson, incidentally, is a brother of Representative Tilson, Republican floor leader in the House of Representatives.

Oldfield Buys Plane for Use on Mexico Run

First steps in making a reality the proposed airline from Los Angeles to Mexico City by Barney Oldfield, veteran automobile racer, and Maj. Monte Stone, sky writer, were indicated yesterday with the purchase by Oldfield of a new $35,000 Bach trimotored transport plane at the Bach headquarters at Metropolitan Airport.

Oldfield and Maj. Stone returned a few days ago from an air-survey trip to Mexico. It is understood the Bach craft is the first of six ships which will be placed in operation on the Mexican route.

A business flight to New York and other eastern cities has been planned by Oldfield for the transport's inaugural cross-country run. Oldfield is not a pilot, but has given up the speed track for the air.

His new plane is powered by a 525-horsepower Pratt-Whitney Hornet motor on its nose and two 150-horsepower Comet motors on the wings.

Wyoming Misses Stop Here on Tour

They were fur coats and their wearers were two lively misses from Big Piney, Wyo., Mary and Ellen O'Neil, out to "see America first."

They arrived on the Dollar liner President Monroe from New York with their mother, who sighed with relief that their trip is nearing an end.

"In the wide-open spaces where we came from one can ride a horse, but this sightseeing with the girls has about fagged me out."

ROSS FIELD WILL KEEP STATUS QUO

Evans's Message Asserts No Change Contemplated by War Department

No plan is under way to dismantle any buildings or make a change at Ross Field in Arcadia, former Pacific Coast center of the Army's lighter-than-air flying craft, it has been reported through the War Department, according to a message received here yesterday from Washington from Representative Evans.

This declaration sets at rest reports that the Army is contemplating razing two huge hangars at Ross Field, or that, on the other hand, the Army may enlarge the hangars and place Ross Field on its wartime basis as a balloon center.

Horse-Riding Hero Repaid With Tumble

Frank T. Price, president of Nelson and Price, Inc. 1025 South Flower street, is wondering today if it pays to be a hero.

Mr. Price, who is an ardent horseman, was riding with a group of friends on Sunday on the bridle trails of North Hollywood, when a boy on a runaway horse dashed by. Mr. Price took after them and succeeded in stopping the animal, but his own horse slipped and went down.

Price received a broken wrist, lacerations and bruises. He is at Hollywood Hospital for several days.

GAS PRICES REMAIN AT LOW FIGURE

Eleven-Cent Charge in Los Angeles Area Not Expected to Change

Gasoline yesterday settled down to an average price of 11 cents a gallon with little change predicted for the next few days by officials of the major oil companies.

Persistent reports that gas is due for a marked upturn in price failed to materialize and wholesale prices continued at 9 and 9½ cents a gallon.

OIL LEADERS DISCUSS REMEDIAL LEGISLATION

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—Coincidentally with a decision on the part of service-station operators to appeal directly to the major oil companies for co-operation in an agreement which it is said will end the protracted price war, it was learned that several men identified with the State's oil industry met in the office of [illegible] Bush, State oil and gas supervisor.

The meeting was surrounded with a certain amount of secrecy, the only information given being that discussion was held and suggestions [illegible] legislation for the oil industry. The nature of the proposed legislation was not disclosed and no comment was made as to whether the gathering had more than coincidental hearing on the gasoline muddle.

Directors of the association drafted a concrete proposal by which gasoline retailers agree to maintain a 6-cent differential above the wholesale price. The oil companies will be asked to instruct stations which they maintain or control through leases to abide by this agreement, and if they will do so, the Garage and Property Owners' Association has expressed its willingness to fall in line.

"If the companies will agree to

BOEING PLANTS' SITE SELECTED

Factory and Airport to be Near Burbank

Tract of 243 Acres Bought for New Venture

Buildings of California Design Planned

A 243-acre tract fronting on Hollywood Way near San Fernando Road, Burbank, is to be the site of the new airport and airplane manufacturing center planned by the United Airplane Transport Company, according to an announcement yesterday by A. K. Humphries, assistant to the president of the Boeing Aircraft and Transport Company. The escrow, it is said, will be consummated within ten days, whereupon construction of the buildings—which are to be in the California style of architecture—will get under way. Approximately $750,000 is being paid for the site, and $500,000 will be expended in building operations.

TWO DECIDE SITE

Announcement of the site selected was given out following a conference between Humphries, lately arrived from Seattle, and C. C. Richards, manager of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce.

Two intersecting runways, 4300 and 4000 feet long and 1000 feet wide, will be built, while in a parked area at their intersecting point the administration building, depot dining-room, hangars and other necessary structures will be grouped. Factory buildings, expected to be the largest in the world, will line the boundaries of the tract.

Humphries already has conferred with Burbank city officials concerning the vacation of one street and the zoning of the site for aviation and allied purposes, while on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce Richards said that body shortly will request the City Park Commission to co-operate with the company in formulating a plan for parking and grouping the buildings.

POWERFUL SPONSORS

The sponsor of the project recently was formed by the Boeing company, the Standard Oil Company, the National City Bank of New York and the Pratt-Whitney Motors Company. It has ample financial resources, Humphries declared, and proposes to make the new airport second to none in the world.

FUNERAL CONDUCTED

Mrs. Ripley's Body to Be Taken to Chicago for Interment

Funeral services for Mrs. Esther Ann Ripley, widow of Herbert Ripley, former Chicago contractor, were conducted yesterday afternoon from the Reed Brothers' funeral parlor. Interment will be in Chicago.

Mrs. Ripley died on February 27, last, of pneumonia at the Chapman Park Hotel. She was 71 years of age. She was born in Yorkshire, Eng., and had spent many winters in Los Angeles.

She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Zoellner, Jr., of Los Angeles, and a son, Herbert Ripley of Chicago.

NATIVE DAUGHTER RETURNS ON VISIT

Mrs. William E. Borah

MRS. BORAH VISITOR TO SOUTHLAND

Wife of Idaho's Senator Here to Avoid Rigors of Winter in Washington

The wife of Idaho's fiery veteran member of the United States Senate, Mrs. William E. Borah, who is a guest at the Ambassador, never has wavered in her loyalty to California. "I am a native daughter of this wonderful State and it shall always come first in my affections," she said yesterday.

Here to escape the rigors of the winter at Washington, Mrs. Borah expressed regret over her inability to attend the ceremony that made Herbert Hoover President.

"Amid the smiles and the cheers there in Washington today, a close observer will detect many a tear, for we women of official life are going to miss Mrs. Coolidge tremendously," Mrs. Borah said. "I have known Mrs. Hoover for many years and she is a delightful woman. I know that the wives of the new Senators and other newcomers to Washington will love her as we do for her many fine traits. But Mrs. Coolidge is also a wonderful woman and we regret her departure from the White House."

TASK FOR WIVES

To be the wife of a Senator or of another occupying a high place in Washington is no sinecure, Mrs. Borah declared. "There are so many duties to perform, so many rounds of visits, so many committees one must serve on that the demands on one's time are enormous. We wives of the Senate are supposed to be helpmeets to our husbands. At least that is the popular theory. Many of the women are. But I sometimes wonder if I am a real help to my husband," she said. "You see, Senator Borah has no social inclinations and he takes his pleasures so seriously. It is difficult for me to be of real assistance to him in his official life."

Only three Senators, Warren, Smoot and Simmons, have been at Washington longer than Senator Borah and his wife, and the latter declared that she and her husband are becoming real "old-timers" in official and social circles there. The Senator is in his twenty-second year at the capital.

SENATOR AS SPEAKER

Senator Borah's ability as a speaker is not newly acquired. "The first time I met my husband he was making a stirring campaign speech in Idaho in behalf of the election of my father as Governor. I was Mary McConnell then and I was

SHULER JURY DEADLOCKED

Reported as Ten to Two for Conviction

Locked Up After Five Hours' Deliberation

Woman Said to Have Been Named Forewoman

Reported deadlocked, ten to two, for conviction after more than five hours' deliberation, the jury of nine men and three women which heard the evidence in the case of Rev. R. P. (Bob) Shuler, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, South, charged with libeling the Knights of Columbus, was ordered locked up at 11:25 o'clock last night by Municipal Judge Sheldon. Deliberations will be resumed at 9:30 a.m. today.

Although no official poll of the jury was taken, courtroom report persisted in the jury's trend toward conviction, and likewise asserted that Mrs. Novella Reynolds had been selected as forewoman. The case was given to the jury at 4:55 p.m. yesterday.

The case has been on trial in Judge Sheldon's courtroom for the past week. Charges against the minister are based on a political tract he published during the last Presidential campaign, in which he discussed Al Smith's connection with the Catholic Church and in which appeared an oath once attributed to the Knights of Columbus, but which later was branded false by investigating bodies. After Shuler reprinted the oath in Los Angeles, Grant V. Jenkins, Knights of Columbus executive, obtained a complaint charging criminal libel against the minister.

GIVEN ADVICE

Before the jurors were intrusted with the case, the court read them general advisory legal instructions covering the libel charge, but the jurors also were informed, as is only the case in trial of libel charges, that they are the judges of both the facts and the law and need not necessarily follow the court's instructions.

In addition to the usual admonitions given a jury covering the theory of reasonable doubt, the arrival of a verdict through pity, passion or prejudice, the court's outstanding advice to the jury might be listed as follows:

(1.) That if they believed the defendant spoke the truth, had good motives and strove for a justifiable end, they must acquit him.

(2.) If, however, they found the matter libelous, good motives and justifiable ends did not constitute a sufficient defense, and they must return a verdict of guilty.

INNUENDO NO SHIELD

(3.) Innuendo and ambiguity should not shield libel, and in considering the assertedly libelous article the language was to be interpreted in the sense the average reader would understand it.

(4.) The jury must not be swayed by the penalty attached to a conviction, but must leave that to the jurisdiction of the court.

(5.) That "tale-bearers are as bad as tale-makers" in the eyes of the law, and to repeat a libelous statement, even if it was not original, is to repeat the libel.

(6.) That a church or religious creed cannot be libeled.

Conviction for criminal libel carries a maximum sentence of one year in jail or a fine of $5000.

Before the judge gave his advice attorneys in the case completed almost a day of argument. Chief Trial Deputy City Prosecutor Eberhard concluded for the prosecution.

FLAYS SHULER

"Shuler recklessly wrote the article about the Knights of Columbus without knowing whether it was true or not," declared Eberhard. "If he didn't intend to cast disrepute on this organization then why did he even mention them in this article? He could have carried on his attack against the Catholic church just as vigorously without including them."

Eberhard declared that he is a Mason but that at the same time honestly convinced that Shuler libeled the Knights of Columbus.

Deputy City Prosecutor Morton preceded Eberhard. He charged Defense Attorney D'Orr with dis-

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

ONE of the most charming women who ever lived in the White House has packed up and left; and her place will be taken by another quite as gracious and of even greater social experience.

Down deep in the American heart is an insistence that the wife of our President be a lady who knows how to give a party without getting the forks mixed up. That feeling played more than a little part in the recent election—in so far as the women vote was concerned.

THE FIRST "MODERN"

I know several women who were in Stanford with Mrs. Hoover—when she was Miss Lou Henry.

They say that she was lovely and popular; but she was one of the first of the new, independent type of girl; one of the first to emerge from the stilted Victorian age.

One of her characteristics was that she liked to roam around the campus in a sweater.

OUR INDIAN

So far as I know, our new Vice-President will be the first Indian to occupy a position of high trust in our civil government. There have been distinguished officers of the Army with Indian blood. The Indians have always shown an instinct for government. Their systems of tribal organization were even copied into the Constitution of the United States. Mr. Curtis has a great inheritance.

COOLIDGE PHILOSOPHY

Calvin Coolidge's philosophy might be summed up by a remark once made by Lord Beaconsfield: "Never complain and never explain, but let events justify themselves."

WORK OF ART

The New York jury struggling with the problem as to whether or not the painting offered for sale by Mrs. Andree Hahn is a genuine Leonardo da Vinci has thrown up its hands and disagreed. Inasmuch as the greatest experts in the world don't agree, it would seem that the public might be pretty well satisfied to like the picture as a genuine da Vinci.

The world is richer for the testimony of one expert—a Frenchman—who said naively that the opinion of no expert counted except his own. That he was the only one qualified to judge. Attaboy! That's the way to talk.

POLA RECOVERS

Pola Negri must have recovered her health and strength. She is breaking contracts again in Paris because the producers wouldn't let her have her own way with her screen stories.

"THE DROWSY ONE"

The wild flowers are coming out and I have never seen California poppies so large or so beautiful. This flower has been given the diabolical name of "Eschscholtzia Californica," but the Spanish-Californians had a charming name for it—"Dormidera"—the drowsy one, because petals fold themselves to sleep at sundown.

ACTION ON LIGHTING

The City Council yesterday adopted ordinances of intention for the lighting installation on Huntington Drive south between Lifur avenue and Eastern avenue, and for the building of sewers in the Westwood Boulevard and Ohio avenue sewer district. Protests against these two ordinances will be heard by the Council on April 11, next.

O'NEILL PLAY EPOCHAL

Los Angeles Premiere of "Strange Interlude" Most Ceremonial Since "Parsifal"

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Dinner coats were au fait before sundown, and business suits were conspicuous by their presence in evening hours at a fashionable premiere. But though "Strange Interlude" began at 5:30 and ended at 11 o'clock, it is not on record that anybody brought his lunch. Nor did anyone age materially during the presentation of one of the longest stage pieces that ever has been given, except the actors, and through demands of the play's test they had a reason to acquire their share of years.

I rather surmise that this disposes of most of the flippant remarks that may be made about the latest Eugene O'Neill creation to reach Los Angeles. "Strange Interlude" had its first production here last night—I should say late yesterday afternoon and last night—at the Biltmore Theater, and it lives up to its reputation of being an event of the make-believe in marathon form.

INTERESTED AUDIENCE

It drew an interested and capacity audience. This had been anticipated through its wide advance heralding. The show started on perfect schedule. Late comers were held in the back of the theater until the first act was over. Dinner time was allowed at 7:45 to 9 o'clock between the fifth and sixth acts. And all else was as promised.

Not since several performances of "Parsifal," now a matter of history, has showgoing here been so much of a ceremonial, and may one add also, if generously, an ordeal.

It is a quaint impression that one derives from entering a theater when homegoing traffic is at its height. Extraneous noises of street cars and automobiles insistently linger in one's ears. The hum of the city even permeates the walls.

It is a stranger impression still when one comes from this clangor to look upon a stage where a single character comes forth, and speaks not words, but thoughts in a modern evolution of the soliloquy.

PLAY IN NINE ACTS

A play in nine acts . . . and most of it from the inner recesses of the soul—that is "Strange Interlude!" A splendid dramatic experi-

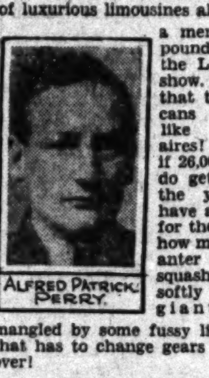
"Only £1000, sir."

"How interesting! Tell me, do you sell bicqcles?

A bulky friend covered my retirement, which was more swift than dignified. And that was my first and last attempt to buy an auto at the great Olympia Motor Show in London.

It was therefore with a watering mouth that I surveyed long lines of luxurious limousines all going for a mere £300 at pounds at the the Los Angeles show. No wonder that the Americans all ride like millionaires! And even if 26,000 of them do get killed in the year, they have a good run for their money; how much pleasanter to be squashed by a softly purring giant than mangled by some fussy little dwarf that has to change gears as it goes over!



ALFRED PATRICK PERRY

PRICE COMPARED

The low prices of autos in this country must strike the English visitor at once. The chief reason is, of course, that the internal market is only a third of the American, a fact which makes it impossible for the various makers to produce on so great a scale as here. At present there is only one auto in the United Kingdom to every forty-one inhabitants, compared with 1 to 5.1 in the United States. The demand in any case probably would be less in proportion, owing to the short distances and good rail communications in England.

Another striking difference is the greater size and power of American autos. The governing factor in British manufacture is the system of taxation, which is $5 per horsepower calculated on the cubic capacity of the cylinder. Thus the old Ford model T is taxed at $100 a year. This, combined with the much higher price of gasoline, makes it hopeless to produce a high-powered machine with a heavy fuel consumption for the popular market. Thus British manufacturers have concentrated their efforts on providing high-revolution engines of low taxable horsepower and fuel consumption.

SHULER BALM GALLS CRYER

Pastor's Attempt to Explain Magazine Attack Will Not Stop Libel Suit, Mayor Says

Mayor Cryer informed Rev. R. P. (Bob) Shuler yesterday that he had not been placated by the apology and explanation offered by Shuler in a personal letter for the attack on him made in the current issue to prove his accusations as a defendant in a libel prosecution.

This information was conveyed in a letter addressed to Shuler by the Mayor, which bristles with indignant comment on the nature of the attack made upon him and tells Shuler that he will be forced to attempt to prove his accusations as a defendant in a libel prosecution.

Meanwhile City Prosecutor Nix has not taken any action yet on the Mayor's submission to him of the offending magazine article as the basis for a complaint and warrant charging criminal libel. The prosecutor said yesterday he had turned the matter over to his investigating department, which is the usual procedure in his office before a complaint is issued.

FEELS DUTY

In talking of the matter yesterday, the Mayor explained that he had always been loath to engage in violent public controversy but that in this particular instance he felt that it is his duty to his family and friends to protect his name and also that he will be rendering a public service by the prosecution "of such a reckless slanderer as Shuler."

The Mayor's letter to Shuler follows:

"Your letter of the 3rd inst. has been carefully considered, and, in my opinion, fails utterly both as an explanation and as an apology for the false and libelous statements of which you have been guilty.

"Your article insists that I went into office a poor man and am now a millionaire whose 'sudden' acquisition of great wealth ought to be investigated.

MUST PROVE IT

"I intend to make it necessary that you undertake such an investigation, for I intend to call upon you to substantiate, if you can, your recklessly false and libelous statements.

TRIAL STARTED IN STREET ROW

Six Suits Seek to Compel Halt in Improvement

Third-Street Opening Held to Be Burdensome

Test Watched Closely Due to Its Later Effect

Six lawsuits, all attacking the major highway traffic plan and the special assessment ordinance for improvement work under it, brought to halt the opening and widening of Third street from Figueroa street to Vermont avenue, went to trial yesterday before Superior Judge Tappaan.

The actions were brought in the name of John P. Allen and other property owners against the City of Los Angeles and others. In their suits the plaintiffs seek to stop the improvement by an injunction and to cancel the assessment made by the city to pay for the work.

REASONS OFFERED

The principal objections set out in the petitions oppose the opening of the street on the grounds that the major traffic plan, under which the work is to be done, was adopted by the City Council without giving the plan proper consideration as to the effect it will have when carried out.

The plaintiffs also assert the assessments made for the work are unfair for the reason that the burden of paying $2,500,000 for the improvement falls on a few property owners who are asked to pay the special assessment when the opening of the street benefits the city generally.

The proceedings in the trial of the six suits are being watched with the keenest interest by Los Angeles property owners and city officials for, it is pointed out, the actions will test the legality of the city's procedure in improvement work pertaining to the opening and widening of streets in the future.

The city asserts that the plan under which the improvement is being made is thorough and complete, that the assessments for it are legal and that it will make every effort to prevent the granting of the injunction to halt the improvement.

CANDIAN MEETING TOMORROW

The Canadian Society will hold its monthly meeting followed by a frolic and dance tomorrow evening at 1040 South Grand avenue. Miss Ka Mullini and her Toronto ladies' orchestra will play the music.

money to be distributed. As the will stands, the jewelry itself may be distributed. It is understood to be worth approximately $1,500,000, and to include mostly diamonds, some of great size.

CODICILS ABOLISHED

The codicil abolishes specifically former codicils which the will says were left with the late Gavin McNab and McGinley. These, the will says, Mrs. Stocker lost. McNab was a San Francisco attorney formerly in her employ, but with whom she had a disagreement and sued for a large sum.

It is provided in the will that Mrs. Stocker's body be cremated. It was. Funeral rites were conducted by a Catholic priest. Mrs. Stocker herself was not a Catholic. Some of her family are. She was the oldest child of the famous California sportsman, "Lucky" Baldwin, and was between 84 and 86 years of age at death, the exact age being unknown to relatives, they said yesterday.

For some years there was an estrangement between Mrs. Stocker and her children, during which time she depended largely on her business manager. A reconciliation later was effected and at the beginning of her last illness she changed her will, giving them, instead of the business manager, control over disposition of her estate.

CASH ON HAND

Representatives of the two interests recently conferred over a large Stocker sum, said to have amounted to about $400,000, which changed hands about Christmas time. At the time of death, about $800,000 cash was on hand, it was said by her attorney.

Calculations on the basis of a $15,000,000 estate place the amount of money available for the proposed home for women at about $2,000,000; the amount for the thirteen present institutions at about $150,000 each; the amount for son and daughter at $3,750,000 each, plus a division between them of several millions of dollars in the residue.

A great part of the Stocker estate consists of open lands in the Baldwin Hills and near Inglewood.

DANCE TO FEATURE FIESTA

Senora Inez Del Valle Kirby, the niece of former Senator Del Valle of California, will appear in a number of Latin dances as a feature of a Spanish fiesta to be held in Bovard Auditorium of the University of Southern California tomorrow evening under the auspices of the department of Spanish. The fiesta is a yearly event on the Trojan campus. This year many prominent Latin-Americans and a number of Spanish motion-picture actors and actresses will be guests of honor.

cussing "every issue except those included in the case" in the hope of misleading the jury.

Morton declared that his late father and mother had been members of Shuler's church during their lifetime, had believed in the minister and that Shuler had conducted funeral services over them and that he (the speaker) sincerely disliked to prosecute the preacher, but that he felt justified because he sincerely believed Shuler had transgressed the laws.

D'ORR'S ARGUMENT

Defense Attorney D'Orr argued for more than two hours. Summed up, his contention was that the jury should consider all of Shuler's publication, "Al Smith," in which the assertedly libelous false oath of the Knights of Columbus appeared, and not only the chapter in which the oath was reproduced. Such a scope, he declared, showed that Shuler's real purpose was to obtain the political defeat of Al Smith, and to that end he attacked the conduct of the Catholic church in politics, particularly the church's activities during the period of the Inquisition. The consideration of the whole pamphlet, the lawyer maintained, showed that the preacher was true in his statement and that he had good motives and sought a justifiable end.

The defense attorney asserted that nowhere in the article did Shuler, directly or indirectly, impute subscription to the false oath by the Knights of Columbus.

"Indeed, he went further and said that he didn't think any American Catholic has ever taken such an oath," said D'Orr.

The attorney spent considerable time arguing that Shuler was justified in his attack on the asserted political activities of the Catholic church, and wound up by declaring that when men are jailed for such a criticism that "we will cease to constitute a State."

CALLED "RADICAL"

Mr. Shuler was described as a "radical," a Bolshevik and a defamer of the reputations of others who defies all law that his malicious utterances may be heard, in the opening address to the jury by Deputy City Prosecutor Hornaday.

As he excoriated the minister in no uncertain terms, Hornaday was interrupted frequently with objections by Defense Counsel D'Orr, who declared the prosecutor was going outside the evidence with his arguments.

One of these interruptions occurred when Hornaday declared that Shuler used his radio to berate the judge and the prosecutors, evidently referring to the minister's Sunday night discussion over the air.

Attorney D'Orr jumped to his feet at this and asserted that the radio was no part of the case at bar, and asked the judge to assign counsel's remarks as prejudicial misconduct. Judge Sheldon upheld the defense attorney's position and admonished the jury to disregard the remarks about the radio talk.

CRITICISM BEGUN

Hornaday began his address to the jury by declaring that as a Protestant preacher's son he dislikes to prosecute Shuler, but that he believes that the law has been violated and he considered his duty higher than any personal feelings.

The prosecutor then began his sharp criticism of the defendant minister.

"Radicals like the defendant, lambasting everybody with false accusations, incite wars," shouted the speaker. "He puts himself in a class with the Bolsheviks. I would not have blamed the Knights of Columbus if they had lambasted him with their fists for the remarks he made about them."

Shuler, the prosecutor asserted, knew that the article he caused to be published was "false and libelous" when he had it printed, he knew that others had been sent to jail for similar publication of it, but Shuler "defied all law" and published it anyway.

"ONLY ONE ISSUE"

Hornaday admonished the jurors that they are not in the jury box to determine whether Shuler libeled or told the truth about Al Smith or the Catholic Church, but that the only issue is whether the Knights of Columbus were libeled, as charged in the complaint.

The speaker recalled to the jury the testimony of United States District Judge McCormick and other outstanding Knights of Columbus who testified that the false oath printed by Shuler is no part of the fraternal order's organization.

"It's a shame that men such as these should have to come into this court and defend their order and themselves against such libel," said Hornaday. "You could see, if you watched them closely, how it affected them."

In conclusion the prosecutor pleaded:

"I ask you as Protestant jurors to show our Catholic brethren that we can be fair."

DEFENSE STARTS

Defense Counsel D'Orr then began his address to the jury.

The Knights of Columbus, he told the jury, is "just a stalking horse behind which religious prejudice seeks to convict Shuler."

The attorney defending the minister launched into a discussion of the development of free speech from its earliest beginnings.

"Before the right of free speech was torn from absolute monarchy there was no democracy," he asserted.

The lawyer painted Shuler as a man of strong convictions and with perhaps some prejudices that D'Orr contended generally accompany strong convictions. He contended, however, that these prejudices should be overlooked when the greater effort of the man is considered.

FAIRNESS URGED

"Lay out of your mind all prejudice," the attorney asked the jurors. "Have no fear of criticism that your verdict may bring on you and give my client the protection he is entitled under the right of free speech granted by the Constitution. I ask not a jot or tittle more.

"The only way my client could have libeled the Knights of Columbus was to have said that they had taken the false oath. Nowhere in the article did he do that."

The defense attorney accused the prosecution of "bad faith and lack of candor" in not putting the entire pamphlet in which the assertedly libelous article appeared before the jury, because, he said, it shows that Shuler's attack was on Al Smith for President and not against the Knights of Columbus.

"The Knights of Columbus probably believe Shuler should be jailed because of his attack on the church they love," said D'Orr. Isn't it natural that they seek to restrain his liberty and close his mouth? But it has nothing to do with the issues of this case."

Man standing beside hull gives idea of vessel's size.

THE largest exclusive lumber-carrying steamer in the world lifted high in the dry dock of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock yards at the harbor was an unusual sight that attracted many spectators yesterday. The steamer Missoula of the Hammond Lumber Company fleet is the vessel.

The Missoula, which plies between Los Angeles and Gray's Harbor and Puget Sound, is capable of carrying 4,300,000 feet of lumber. She has a registered gross tonnage of 4553 tons. On two occasions she has crossed to Japan with capacity cargoes of lumber.

EXTRA GIRL FOUND WITH CUT WRISTS

Trail of Blood Betrays Asserted Efforts of Film Worker to End Life

A trail of blood along the sidewalk at Santa Monica Boulevard and Gardner street early yesterday morning aroused the curiosity of Deputy Sheriffs Packer and Small and resulted in the apprehension of Julia Reynolds, 23-year-old motion-picture extra, who was found walking the streets suffering from deep slashes in both wrists.

The girl was rushed to the Dickey & Cass Hospital in Hollywood for first-aid treatment after which she was placed in the General Hospital for observation.

According to the investigating officers, the girl was apparently a victim of melancholia and had slashed her wrists with a razor blade in an attempt to commit suicide. Efforts to find friends or relatives of the girl failed when residents at 3223 Huron street said that they did not know her. Miss Reynolds declined to give the officers further information about herself.

The City Council is scheduled to hear protests today against the ordinances of intention for the improvement of Orland avenue between Melrose avenue and Beverly Boulevard, Vermont avenue between Hollywood Boulevard and San Marino street and Vermont avenue between Sixth street and a point 335.30 feet south of Third street.

whether I may, with impunity, be branded as 'the chief exploiter among a band of plunderers.

"I intend to call upon you to prove that I went into office a poor man who lived in a modest bungalow, which assertion is false; that I am now a millionaire living in a palace, which is equally false; or that I have acquired any 'sudden or unusual wealth, the acquisition of which requires explanation.

"You will be required, in your own defense, to make an investigation of what most men would regard as my own private affairs, for it is very evident that you have dared to deal with the matter, without ever having made such an investigation.

"It is not a pleasant thing for me to have to prosecute even so persistent a violator of the law against libel and slander as yourself.

"It is distasteful to me to have my personal affairs further paraded before the public.

"But I feel that I must correct the falsehoods you have broadcast to the world.

"Moreover, I feel a duty to this community to teach traducers of the character of men and women, of whom you are a conspicuous example, though by no means the only one in this city, that there are laws on the subject of slander and libel, and lengths to which you cannot go in dealing falsely with the reputation of others."

PASTOR EXPLAINED

Shuler's letter, which he sent to the Mayor on Sunday and broadcast over his radio that evening, is a lengthy document in which he assures the Mayor that he had not made any definite charges that the Mayor ever had been guilty of "accepting bribes or grafting." He assures the Mayor that "I believe you personally honest, though sorely beset by many men of a most selfish and designing character."

He admits that he has no definite knowledge of the fortune which he asserted the Mayor had amassed while in office and, in fact, refers to his own assertions as "supposed facts which have been brought to my attention." He explains in detail how he thinks an office-holder can amass a fortune without accepting bribes or grafting and insists that he considers it his right as a citizen to demand an explanation of all outside sources an office-holder derives income from while in office.

CALLED "DODGE"

The letter attempts to convince the Mayor that the "Out with the Plunderers" article was merely a dispassionate and reasoned demand for information which it is the right of any citizen to request. It even says that the word "plunderers" was used only to mean that the Cryer administration had imposed unfair burdens on the taxpayers in the form of "special assessments, abnormal taxes, appointments of men to commissions who had financial interests to conserve, and letting of contracts for public enterprises."

In discussing the letter yesterday, the Mayor pointed out that the article in Shuler's magazine had not made any reference to these matters, and termed the explanation in the letter "a very unsatisfactory dodge."

ONTARIO, March 4.—Hoping to put a quick end to the gasoline war that has been raging here for several weeks, and incidentally prevent service-station operators from going into bankruptcy, leading gasoline service-station operators today set the price of gasoline at 15 cents a gallon. One or two operators preferred to continue the fray rather than join in the 15-cent majority. Eleven cents has been the popular price for several days.

"I was born at Eureka, in Humboldt county, California," the Senator's wife said in response to a question. "But please do not ask me when," she pleaded.

Ex-Husband of Suicide Located

Disney in Salt Lake City, police said last night that pending his arrival they will hold the dismembered skeleton of his divorced wife, Mrs. Aliene Disney, found by hikers Sunday in Nichols Canyon, five blocks north of Hollywood Boulevard. Children coughing?

In the stillness of the night, the sound of little bodies racked by coughing strikes terror to the hearts of mothers.

Don't wait until the symptoms get serious. Better still, don't even wait for symptoms of any kind. But after every unusual exposure, or if children come home with wet clothes or wet feet, give them GROVE'S BROMO QUININE in the smaller doses prescribed in the directions with each box.

Children do not fuss about taking the tiny tablets, as they do about bad-tasting laxatives. Yet they gently clear the digestive tract, tone the system, and build up the little body's defenses. So children's colds, and parents' too, are nipped while they merely threaten. Or are thrown off quickly.... For your own sake, emphasize GROVE'S, when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

BOY TAKES TRAIN TO AVIATION SCHOOL

NATIONAL SCHOOL

He Just Must Learn About Airplane

Capt. Fred Threader, aviator-instructor of the Los Angeles Times-National Free Aviation School for Boys, meeting Leonard Tanner at the Santa Fe Depot so that he could attend the juvenile aeronautical classes.

IT TAKES more than miles to separate Leonard Tanner, 10-year-old boy of Fullerton, from his ambition to become one of America's future aces of the air.

Leonard stepped off a train at the Santa Fe depot Saturday morning and halted the routine of the station master's office until officials assured him that he would be directed to the Los Angeles Times-National Free Aviation School for Boys.

A representative of the Travelers' Aid Society tried to keep Leonard from striking out alone through the traffic for the National Automotive and Electrical School at Santa Barbara and Figueroa streets, where The Times' juvenile aviation school is conducted. Their entreaties were of no avail. "I've come this far on that train," replied Leonard, "and I've just got to see this thing through. I want to be an aviator, so just tell me those street names again and I'll get to the Los Angeles Times school."

A conference of station and welfare officials was called and it was suggested that a telephone call be made to The Times-National school and Leonard's plight was explained to instructors in charge. "Tell Leonard to wait at the station," was the order of Capt. Fred Threader, aviator-instructor, who hopped immediately into a cab and drove to the depot for the juvenile air man.

Leonard attended the air school and his perseverance won the teaching staff over so completely that from now on the Fullerton boy will have a special automobile meet him every Saturday morning at the Santa Fe depot until he has completed the entire course in aeronautics.

POLICEMAN ARRAIGNED

Police Officer Harry O. Bates was arraigned before Municipal Judge Ambrose yesterday on charges of asking and receiving a bribe and his preliminary hearing set for the 11th inst. The court fixed bail at $5000. Bates, according to the complaint, accepted $100 from Raymond H. Phillips, 1018 Arapahoe street, agreeing not to arrest Edward S. Atkinson on a fraudulent-check charge. The offense, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Burgess, was committed on the 1st inst.

FLEET'S VAN ARRIVES IN PORT HERE

Dreadnaught Mississippi Wins Many Honors in Athletic Contests

As the vanguard of the returning battle fleet, the dreadnaught Mississippi late yesterday arrived at San Pedro from Panama, discharging here a consignment of mail from the fleet in Central American waters. Though the major force of the fleet will not return until the 22nd inst., the Mississippi came home early that she might begin her annual overhaul at the Puget Sound navy yard on the 12th inst.

"The Mississippi brings home the Los Angeles Times sailing regatta trophy, won by her seven times since 1922," said Commander Hickey, executive officer of the Mississippi. "She also won the all-navy, race-boat championship by six lengths. Likewise, the ship has the all-navy bantamweight wrestling champion, a rifle team which won first place in the elimination matches, our long-absent marine detachment and a sun-browned crew all glad to be back in California."

Tomorrow, the naval tanker Neches is due from Panama and on the following day she will depart with a cargo of fuel oil for scouting fleet ships in the Caribbean area. The U.S.S. Texas, flagship of Admiral Henry A. Wiley, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, will sail for San Pedro from Balboa on the 8th inst. and arrive here on the 19th inst. The fleet repair ship Medusa, also departing the canal on the 8th inst., is due on the 20th inst. to prepare anchorages and shore communications for the armada's return, two days later.

During the coming year the Catholic community centers expect to form a league of debating teams.

Open Drinking in Night Clubs Brings Arrests

Continuing a campaign of watchful supervision of Los Angeles night clubs, detectives under Capt. Clyde Plummer, chief of the District Attorney's vice and prohibition enforcement detail, conducted a series of raids over the week-end resulting in the arrest of nearly a dozen offenders, reports at the District Attorney's office stated yesterday.

Three persons drinking openly were taken into custody at the Plantation Cafe, Culver City, and two were arrested at the Cotton Club, the officers reported.

Bach's Mass Will Be Produced by Choral Society

Bach's Mass in B minor, regarded in musical cricles as a colassal work that reaches the pinnacle of the choral art, has been selected as the next production of the Los Angeles Oratorio Society. It will be given, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. J. T. Anderson, president, in the Shrine Auditorium, April 20, with John Smallman conducting the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. Tomorrow morning, in company with Col. Hamilton, Lieut. Walter K. Burgess, commander of Clover Field, and S. C. Hagen, German Consul, he will fly to March Field, near Riverside, in a plane placed at his disposal by Western Air Express.

Before leaving the West Coast Col. Merz will visit Crissy Field and the Presidio at San Francisco.

POLICE ON TRAIL OF 'BLACKJACK BURGLAR'

Fingerprints may lead to capture of a man who Saturday night entered the room of John B. FROM BEEF TO PORK

The country appears to be shifting from beef to bacon. At any rate the per capita consumption of pork and its products was last year the highest in the nation's history. At the same time the use of beef by the average man fell to the bottom point. For one reason pork was proportionately cheaper than beef last year. This may have had something to do with it.

THE DILL PICKLE

Senator Dill sought to operate a little filibuster of his own because he wished to defeat an appropriation of $15,000 to make a preliminary survey for a Nicaragua canal. The canal must be built and the survey made—eventually—why not now? The Washington dilly-dallyer has the aggravated idea that the money would be used to maintain a lot of marines in Nicaragua for an indefinite period and to that he thinks himself opposed. The merits of the canal proposition do not seem to have been taken into consideration.

LOOKS LIKE MUSSOLINI

Nearly forty different parties or groups have nominated candidates for the Italian Chamber of Deputies, although it is generally supposed that outside of the Fascists there was no organization in Italy that counted for aught. But it seems that there are unions, sections, professions and bodies within the ranks of Fascism and these may strive for representation and preferment. It is noted that in most of the divisions Mussolini has been named as first choice, so Il Duce will be elected by a practically unanimous vote. He has a cinch on eight or ten of the highest offices in the kingdom.

HIGH COST OF VOTING

The auditors have made their full confessions and the books are closed. The election last fall cost the national and State committees of the two major parties more than $16,000,000. This seems like a lot of money, but when it is realized that we spend more than that for gum and pretty nearly as much for golf balls it seems perfectly all right. Anyhow, we got the worth of our money whether the Democrats did or not. The Republicans expended $9,433,604 and the Democrats $7,152,511. Now is the time to forgive and forget. The days of cheap campaigning are dead and buried. When it costs a million dollars to send a dinky little circular to every voter nobody can get by at a bargain.

THE MOTIVE BEHIND

There seems to be a difference in kidnapings and it wouldn't be just to apply a uniform punishment. When the crime is inspired by love for the child or a feeling that the home life is unhappy and that pleasanter surroundings can be provided it cannot be asserted that the stealer has an abandoned and malignant heart. If there is no threat or hint of holding for ransom and the child is treated with extraordinary kindness and consideration no one would wish to send the kidnaper to the gallows or to a life term in prison. Usually there is no mitigating circumstance. The crime is inspired by revenge or greed. But when there are extenuating conditions they will necessarily be considered.

HOOVER TAKES HOLD

That sure grasp of administrative problems which his supporters expected him to demonstrate was indeed shown by President Hoover in his very first official activity—the delivery of his inaugural address. In that message to the American people he outlined his platform and his program and gave evidence not only that he knew what he was discussing, but that he understands as few public men do the mind and heart of the nation.

It is plain that President Hoover's administration is not going to be an echo, a copy, or a continuation merely of the admirable administration of his admirable predecessor; but that, conserving its best features, he will not hesitate to strike out boldly along new lines where he conceives that such action will be for the public weal. The Hoover toga is not to be Elijah's mantle; President Hoover now sits in the seat of authority by his own right; his mandate is to be President Hoover and nobody else. His understanding of this simple and basic fact can be read in every line of his brief and limpid speech.

The greatest public interest, perhaps, will be taken in his utterances on prohibition, and there may be some surprise from those who had expected perfunctory references that he exposed his views so fully and freely and disclosed an intention to deal not only with prohibition problems, but with the methods of enforcing all Federal law. He put the prohibition question in its place as part of a much larger problem in the paragraph in which he said:

"To re-establish the vigor and effectiveness of law enforcement we must critically consider the entire Federal machinery of justice, the redistribution of its functions, the simplification of its procedure, the provision of additional special tribunals, the better selection of juries, and the more effective organization of our agencies of investigation and prosecution that justice may be sure and that it may be swift. While the authority of the Federal government extends to but part of our vast system of national, State and local justice, yet the standards which the Federal government establishes have the most profound influence upon the whole structure."

Later he added: "Reform, reorganization and strengthening of our whole judicial and enforcement system both on civil and criminal sides have been advocated for years by statesmen, judges and bar associations. First steps toward that end should no longer be delayed. Rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard of freedom, the basis of all ordered liberty, the vital force of progress . . . Justice must not fail because the agencies of enforcement are either delinquent or inefficiently organized. To consider these evils, to find their remedy, is the most sore necessity of our times."

The words are not those of a lawyer, but of an informed and intelligent layman, spoken to a nation which is getting a bit impatient of the words and the ways of lawyers, and which is beginning to believe there may be short cuts and better methods which lawyers, being so close to the problem, cannot see. It is likely enough the President had in mind the fact that the new British system of justice, which excites the admiration of the world, was devised and put into execution, for the most part, by men not connected with the legal profession, and who approached their work with that scientific spirit which insists that all things must be tested regardless of their age and who had no inherent reverence for any particular custom merely because it was long established.

In the shorter portion of his address devoted wholly to prohibition, the President pointed out that in the nature of things, it cannot be successfully enforced without the co-operation of good citizens—which is to say, that it cannot wholly be imposed from above. After mentioning as one of the causes of such failure as there has been, the nonconcurrence of some States and the failure of "many State and local officials to accept the obligation under their oath of office zealously to enforce the laws," he continued:

"But a large responsibility rests directly upon our citizens. There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. We must awake to the fact that this patronage from large numbers of law-abiding citizens is supplying the rewards and stimulating crime."

The more this idea is pounded home the more good it will do.

No small part of his address was devoted to international peace and to demonstration that the spirit of the United States is little understood by those who call its designs imperialistic. He made a forthright declaration in favor of the World Court, and indicated that he does not consider recommending American membership in the League of Nations. He announced that he will call Congress soon to deal with the related problems of farm relief and the tariff.

As a summation of the mandates he feels were given to the administration by the recent election, he listed "the maintenance of the integrity of the Constitution; the vigorous enforcement of the laws; the continuance of economy in public expenditures; the continued regulation of business to prevent domination in the community; the denial of ownership or operation of business by the government in competition with its citizens; the avoidance of policies which would involve us in the controversies of foreign nations; the more effective reorganization of the departments of the Federal government; the expansion of public works, and the promotion of welfare activities affecting education and the home."

It is a program and a platform worthy of President Hoover's best efforts, and in so far as he is able to realize it the people of the United States will be tremendous gainers. These people, who already have accepted his leadership whole-heartedly, may aid his efforts by insisting that their chosen representatives in Congress co-operate with him to the fullest extent.

That is their part of the job. President Hoover is already at work on his part.

The LEE SIDE O' L.A.

BY Lee Shippey

HAVE you ever been at a dinner costing $5 a plate, and felt that you either had to disregard the doctor's orders about diet or cheat yourself mercilessly? Then surely you have wished that you only had to pay for what you ate, instead of for all the things you declined, but which tempted you like the cup of Tantalus.

CAFETERIA
BANQUET TO-NITE

So hail, all hail, to R. M. Callicott, for he has introduced the cafeteria banquet in Los Angeles, and it is gaining in popularity every week. It is entirely a Los Angeles innovation.

Taking the Bludgeon Out of Club

Callicott is manager of a cafeteria in the 600 block on South Broadway. There are three floors of that establishment, and after the rush was over in the evening the third floor wasn't filled. So Callicott hit on the plan of offering it to clubs and societies after 7 p.m., closing it to the general public if the club was big enough, and permitting the diners to linger around the tables till midnight if they chose.

Now every Tuesday evening the Nature Club of Southern California meets there, and every Friday evening the Sierra Club. There are speeches, illustrated talks and any entertainment features the club members wish to introduce. And after it's all over some of those who enjoyed the meeting pay a 40-cent check, while some pay $2.

Metered Rates

Naturally, this plan appealed to the meter readers' section of our municipal water system, and they hold their annual banquets there. It is said that not even the Sierra Club, which is made up of mountain climbers, can beat the meter readers in the matter of highly imaginative reports.

The mail carriers also hold their annual dinners there. But any man whose daily job is to walk miles and miles with a mail pouch on his back is willing to take his chances on getting his money's worth table d'hote. So that one organization gets a "regular dinner" and leaves all the worry of selection to the management.

Purest Sacrifice

Now you may imagine, from reading this, that we are one of very delicate appetite, and are inspired by selfish motives. On the contrary, after writing the foregoing, we almost felt like nominating ourself for the Pulitzer medal for disinterested public service. We never have had to shrink from anything served or poured at any banquet it was our luck to attend, and our ablest jockeying efforts were directed toward securing a seat between two dyspeptics and across the table from another and bravely removing temptations from their view.

Welcome Jest

We knew some one would do it, and sure enough A. Merton has done it. He calls our attention to the seeming fact that when Lindy did decide to marry he was in an awful hurry—he wanted to marry to Morrow.

It's been a good many years since that song about the fellow who told the ticket agent he wished to go to Morrow, but he wished to go today, was popular, and the idea must have been old then. Certainly, if Tom Hood knew anyone named Morrow he must have used the pun, and if he didn't it probably was because Chaucer had, and he didn't want to copy. It probably was this very pun which gave birth to the idea that the printed word never dies. Yet the idea of Lindy in a hurry gave us quite a kick, and we're grateful to Merton. What is so rare as a faithful friend? And this pun has been a life-saving friend to every colyumist that ever was.

New Interests of Travel

Lee: You're interested in striking week-end trips. Why not drive down to Agua Caliente, Mex., to see something typically Southern Californian, and then back to Old Town, San Diego, U.S.A., to see something typically Mexican?—C. H. O.

Fair enough. We ought to return the compliment, anyhow, now that so many Latin Americans are coming here to study Spanish and Mayan architecture.

Any Contenders?

Of all Southern California towns, we believe Glendora deserves a medal for unsophistication. Asked to name her film favorite, a Glendora girl mentioned a widely advertised brand of tooth paste.

BUT IS IT ARIZONA'S?

Hopes of a tri-State compact that will lead to Arizona's acceptance of the seven-State Colorado River treaty fade before the calm assumption of the Arizona negotiators at Santa Fe, that this great interstate stream is the property of Arizona, to deal with as she sees fit. California is willing to deal with a neighboring State on any reasonable basis, but she can never concede any such basis as that.

The waters of the Colorado come from a thousand mountain slopes far distant from Arizona; the stream itself flows through, or past, six other States. The stream belongs either to the United States, or to the people of its whole basin, and no one State can in equity set up the conditions on which its waters may be used.

Arizona's assertion of ownership is the fundamental absurdity of the twelve paragraphs of her offer. One of these paragraphs insists upon a charge of $2 an acre foot for storage of domestic water for Los Angeles and the other Southern California cities of the Metropolitan Water District—an amount which the California delegates declare ridiculously high. It is declared that the twelve demands would require six different amendments to the Boulder Dam bill. In view of the difficulty of getting the original bill enacted, to require amendements to it means indefinite delay if not virtual abandonment of the whole project.

Fortunately, agreement with Arizona is not the only way out. Utah is on the point of ratifying the six-State compact, which will make the Boulder Dam effective in June. No doubt Arizona will make a fight against the measure in the courts. This also means a delay of some months, but there may be a real advantage in a court decision settling the rights of all the States in the Colorado. At least it will give a basis upon which other legislation may be predicated, if other legislation is necessary.

HAT QUESTION IN PARLIAMENT

If a male member of Congress should rise from his seat with his hat upon his head and proceed to address the Speaker of the House it would astound that dignified body, cause no end of merriment in the gallery and insure the offending legislator a place on the front page.

But if he were a member of the British House of Commons and rose to address the Speaker with no hat on his head his violation of the proprieties would be considered not only a marked example of disrespect to that gentleman, but an affront to the whole British nation. Just how this head-covering rule came to be adopted by the Commons is unknown, but it is said to have originated in the days when tippling was so common among its members that in order to "save the face" of any legislator who, while "under the influence," might forget to remove his hat it was deemed better for the entire body to keep on its "tiles." As time went on the hat wearing became a sort of legislative ceremonial, and as such is dear to the British heart, and on no account to be abandoned.

Women members of the House of Commons have of late insisted upon removing their hats whenever they pleased. This has brought down a flood of criticism upon their unprotected heads. Some of them have worn paper hats in order to make the rule seem ridiculous. The other day the Speaker was called upon to make a decision as to whether the lady Commoners should or should not be allowed to go bareheaded. It was a knotty problem, but the Speaker finally decided that although the rule requires a member rising in "his" place to address the Speaker must keep his hat on, it does not apply to a member rising in "her" place.

So the women have had their way as usual, ancient precedent is preserved and the British ship of state sails serenely on.

A SHOCK INDEED

By James J. Montague

The Turks, we've been wont to suppose,
Having wives in their homes by the swarm,
Are the fierce and implacable foes
Of our modern and moral reform.
We thought that the views that are held in Stamboul
By the folk of this swarthy hued nation
Regarding our strictly held marital rule
Were a blot upon civilization.

But their manners and customs have changed,
The Turks now lead ethical lives,
And most of their men are estranged
From all but just one of their wives.
From the spell of the night club's enticing allure
The Sultan's ex-subjects are freer—
From the blight of the terrible jazz more secure,
Though we hate to admit it, than we are.

The films that we hold over here
To be free from a vestige of harm,
If in Turkey they chance to appear
Are viewed with dismay and alarm.
If the head of a Turkish community learns
That the youth of the city enjoys them,
He goes to the cinema promptly and burns
Or otherwise wholly destroys them.

In our smug and self-satisfied way
We never could doubt in the least
That we're vastly more proper today
Than the people who dwell in the East.
So it gives us a bit of a jolt when we learn
We're regarded as morally murky,
And our movies are viewed with distress and concern
By the high-minded people in Turkey.

GETTING TOGETHER

BY THE CHURCH EDITOR

Roger Babson's idea of the church of tomorrow is one great central broadcasting station and a big auditorium for those who would rather go to church than have church brought to them. Babson not only is a statistician, but a dreamer as well and, although his prophecies, like the weather predictions of Father Ricard, may sometimes miss fire, it is not at all improbable that this particular vision will be realized.

At a recent meeting of the Ministerial Association of Los Angeles (composed of preachers of a score of different denominations) speakers called attention to the merging of the Congregationalists and the New Light Christians and mentioned other proposed denominational mergers which, according to indications, give promise of fulfillment. At the conclusion of the meeting the association adopted a resolution promising stronger support to the accomplishment of greater spiritual and organic unity of various churches and voted to assist in expanding the program and powers of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

The superintendent of the Florence-avenue United Presbyterian Church Sunday school (which boasts 800 members) recently was asked how many members of the school were born and reared in the United Presbyterian church. He answered, "About five families." In other words, according to Dr. H. C. Culbertson, president of the Ministerial Association, "as far as the general public is concerned, denominationalism is dead and it is kept alive only, or mainly, by denominational boards in the East and by denominational invested funds."

Dr. Bruce Brown, in a recent sermon, told his congregation that "the question of the rejection or acceptance of Jesus can be divorced from all theological arguments."

The general "run" of people care little for theology and doctrines. They want religion and life. They do not want controversy, they want hope and faith and love. They are not greatly interested in "osophies" and "isms" of the mind, they seek only solace for the soul—and devotion points the way. It may be a long time before forms and rituals are abolished, and it may be that they never will be entirely eliminated from the church, for a church is itself an organization and a form, but Christendom already has reached the point at which it is replacing toleration with kindness and applying the principle of kindness in a spirit of co-operation that is gratifying to all believers in universal brotherhood.

WHERE CAN I LEARN

To Repair an Auto?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address: Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

A free fix-it-yourself shop is maintained by the Jacob A. Riis Evening High School, Sixty-ninth and Main streets. This is part of the public school class in auto mechanics. Anyone may enroll as a student in the class, drive his own car into the shop, use the school tools, and receive expert advice while he is doing his repair work.

The instructor, Warren West, was for ten years foreman of the Willys-Overland plant in Los Angeles. His course deals with both the theory and practice of auto mechanics. In his lecture room he demonstrates his talks by aid of films. Traffic rules and regulations are taught as part of the class work, putting over the safety idea, with an attempt to curb reckless driving.

After ten weeks of this course, a student should be able to make ordinary small repairs. This ten weeks of instruction forms a discovery course; for, while a man learns to take care of emergencies, he also discovers his own aptitudes. If he finds that he has a knack at mechanics, he can go ahead and prepare for his life work.

After two semesters, or a school year in this course, with two two-hour lessons a week, a diligent student ought to be able to find many positions at $30 a week salary. There are many such positions in and near Los Angeles, and a good mechanic can always get a job, some paying as high as $50 a week.

This class meets Monday and Wednesday evenings, from 7 to 9, in room 306. There is no fee charged, and no text-book is required.

ANTIQUE FACTORIES

Reading in certain eastern magazines about the antique industry makes one wonder why our California promoters have not done more to develop the business here. We understand that there are factories in New England working overtime producing genuine Mayflower pottery and warming pans. Every antique expert knows that Pennsylvania artisans can make wormholes indistinguishable from the natural borings and giving the stamp of genuineness to Duncan Phyfe dropleaf tables or other Colonial wares.

What is the matter with California? With our rich and picturesque history we ought to have humming factories turning out bedsteads that arrived with Coronado and pewter ale mugs left at Point Reyes by Sir Francis Drake. Why let smart Yankees or artful descendants of Penn reap all the profits when we could have a thriving industry of our own?—[San Francisco Chronicle.

A Middle West Farmer

REDLANDS, March 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Would be pleased to have you publish a few lines in relation to farm relief in answer to statements made by William Allen White of Kansas.

Here is the opinion of a farmer of fifty years' experience in the Central West:

(1) In view of the fact that the farmer on an average gets only one-third of the price that the consumer pays—why has not the consumer helped the farmer by better methods of marketing to get a larger share of the cost, which all fair-minded ones must admit he sorely needs? They have plainly left all for the farmer to do and at the same time wish him to buy liberally of their protected goods. Without any help from other classes what progress can he make with labor alone fixing wages and the government allowing the railroad a liberal percentage on investments?

(2) Government credit. This comes near being an insult to every farmer in the land when he is up to his ears in debt, asking him to borrow money instead of getting a fair price for his work as others do.

(3) Cheaper water rates. This is good, but look here! Look at the fine barge canal built by the State of New York costing millions; along side of it is the Central Railroad with its four tracks which carry about 95 per cent of western grain and the canal 5 per cent. Mr. Hoover says the railroads must be protected and what about the State's investments in the canal and the farmers' investment? No one has much to say about that. After you have spent millions on waterways they tell us in fifteen or twenty years there will be no surplus to ship to Europe.

(4) Improved methods of farming. The Middle West has the best lot of farmers on earth with the best lot of machinery. Let me illustrate—in New England you will see one and two-horse plows, one-horse cultivators and two men to load hay in field (this is where President Coolidge learned farming) but in the Middle West they plow with four to six horses or tractors, cultivate two rows at a time with four horses; load hay into basket racks with one man. Most of these machines they have had for years. And now they pick corn two rows at a time by machinery. Hope something will be done this spring, but think President Hoover will need the help of some one other than William Allen White.

What Edison Said

PASADENA, Feb. 26.—[To the Editor of The Times:] May I have space in The Times for a statement made by Thomas A. Edison, "the Wizard of Menlo Park," in an interview which was not carried by the news press wires? Mr. Edison said:

"The prohibition laws are reasonably well enforced. I think we have about 60 per cent enforcement, which is rather higher than the enforcement of many laws. We can never expect a 100 per cent enforcement of any law. It should not be difficult to raise the enforcement to 80 per cent. In that case we should have a sober nation. We have a fairly sober nation today—so much so that the European nations which are not sober are beginning to get very much worried. They already find that they cannot compete with us, and are taking steps to regulate the sale and consumption of liquor. If we get 80 per cent enforcement, no country anywhere can compete with us in anything. We are steadily developing to a point where drinking will not fit into any of our programs, either in or out of the shops."

JACOBSON-CASE CHARGES STAND

Motion to Quash Indictments Overruled

Amendments to True Bills Permitted

Further Argument Set for Next Friday

Motions to set aside indictments against five police officers, a woman and two others on charges of conspiracy to "falsely and maliciously" arrest Councilman Jacobson in a morals raid eighteen months ago were denied yesterday by Superior Judge Shaw, who also allowed three technical amendments to the true bills. The court set next Friday as the date for motions and arguments against the amended indictments.

The defendants in the indictments are Captains of Detectives Wallis and Williams, Detective Cox, former Detective Lieutenant Lucas, former Police Investigator Raymond, Albert Marco, so-called vice ruler; Charles Crawford, politician, and Mrs. Callie Grimes, the asserted "lure."

On the opening of the hearing Dep. Dist.-Attys. Dennison and Bush stated to the court their desire to amend the true bills, to which interposition the defense stoutly objected, but was overruled by the court. Judge Shaw held the proposed amendments to be at his discretion.

COOKE CALLED

After a deal of spirited argument on the proposition of amendments, Attorney White, counsel for Marco, placed Col. Thomas F. Cooke, foreman of the 1928 grand jury, on the witness stand, and attempted to show that by return of the indictments the members of the former jury were "cloaking themselves with privileges" against probable civil suit.

The attorney contended that the grand jury on January 16, last, prior to the return of the true bills, issued a public report on the Jacobson case which severely criticised Raymond and Lucas, recommending their removal from the police force. Raymond immediately sent a letter to the individual jurors threatening suit unless the criticism against him were retracted.

TESTIMONY BARRED

White further asserted to the court that under the threat of civil suit from Raymond the grand jurors immediately cast about for way and means to indict the men "to cloak their report with privileges" and preclude civil damage action.

In support of those contentions White placed Col. Cooke on the stand, but Dep. Dist.-Atty. Dennison set up an insuperable barrier of objections and White failed to elicit from the former foreman any information concerning the grand jury's activities or attitude toward the indictments which were returned.

Attorney Cooper, of the defense counsel also made an ineffectual attempt, because of Dennison's objections, to question Col. Cooke or obtain on demand of the court the minutes of the 1928 grand jury.

With the motions to set aside the true bills and the amendments allowed, the defense attorneys assumed the position that the indictments as they now stand are practically new charges as far as possible motions to set aside are concerned. The court concurred and set Friday, 2 p.m. as the date for further hearing.

JACOBSON IN COURT

During a short recess of the court Councilman Jacobson appeared and shook hands and chatted for a time with Dennison. Then he left the courtroom.

Mrs. Grimes, who has been unaccountably missing for three weeks, failed to appear at the session, although indicted. She is a State's witness, but being missing a bench warrant has been issued for her She testified before the grand jury on an affidavit in which she asserted that she conspired with the others named in the case to "lure" Jacobson into a position for a morals raid in an effort to silence his anti-vice attacks.

TYPIST ACTRESS, BUT FOR ONE DAY

Helen Parker

After playing a one-day ingenue role which never will be seen on the screen, Helen Parker, 19-year-old stenographer, today is back at her desk as secretary at the Paramount studios in Hollywood.

The part of Jean, sweetheart of Neil Hamilton, in "The Woman Who Needed Killing," required a girl's voice on a phonograph record and her photograph remembrances which Hamilton takes into the tropics, according to the plot.

Rowland V. Lee, director, searched the files of the casting office and the entire studio for a suitable voice for the unseen part. Finally the assistant director suggested that Lee give his secretary, Helen Parker, a voice test. It resulted in her playing the ingenue lead in the picture. The two-minute phonograph record was made, she was sent to the portrait studio and her part was completed.

Although she has been employed in the motion-picture studios of Hollywood for three years, this dialogue sequence is the nearest Miss Parker has came to a screen role.

CITY HALL'S LOT LEASE UNDECIDED

Council Finance Group Fails to Agree on Offers Made for Old Site

The question of leasing the site of the old City Hall as a parking station, which was referred by the City Council to its Finance Committee, remained unsettled after the meeting of that committee yesterday afternoon as no two members of the committee could agree on a recommendation. Councilmen Alber, Hall and Randall will each submit a separate report to the Council and the three reports are scheduled to be acted on by the Council next Thursday morning.

Chairman Alber will recommend that the highest bid submitted be accepted, $2875 a month, made by Andrew Pansini. Councilman Randall will recommend that the bid of $2730 a month, made by S. M. Lazarus, who operates the Million Dollar Theater half a block away, be accepted on the condition that the lease restricts him to a charge of not more than 25 cents for parking a car for eight hours.

Councilman Hall is in favor of the city operating the parking station and he will submit a report recommending that the director of the bureau of budget and efficiency be asked to investigate the feasibility of municipal operation and that if his report is favorable the proposition be put to the voters of the city on the May 7 ballot.

Earl Glass, manager of the Auto Park Association, not only presented the objections of his association to municipal operation but also argued for acceptance of a bid which included a stipulation of the fees to be charged.

TAX APPEAL BODY ASKED OF COUNTY

Supervisors Hear Plea for Change in System of Adjusting Disputes

A committee from the Los Angeles branch of the California Taxpayers' Association called on the Board of Supervisors yesterday to ask that a different system of handling Board of Equalization tax matters be adopted. At present the Board of Supervisors sits as an equalization board. The committee suggested that appraisers be employed to hear complaints and advise the Supervisors what action to take.

Supervisor McClellan, chairman of the board, explained that out of more than 2,000,000 assessments made by County Assessor Hopkins's men last year only 1423 cases were appealed to the Board of Equalization and of these nearly 1000 were charity cases.

Deputy Counsel De Coster explained that there are thirty or forty expert appraisers employed by the Supervisors, whose opinions on land values are being accepted by the courts and by court referees on valuation questions. The resolution was ordered filed, no action being taken.

COIN PASSER SENTENCED

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Carrying out a delightful feature of the various junior leagues of the country the Pasadena Junior League is planning its annual play for children to be given at the Pasadena Community Theater Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

The play this year is the dramatization of Frank L. Baum's story, "The Marvelous Land of Oz, which is well known to most little folk and, for that matter, most grownups have at least a bowing acquaintance with W. N. Woggle-Bug, Mombi the Witch, Glenda the Good, the Winking Chamberlain, Tip, Capt. Jinjur and, of course, the Scarecrow and the Woodman.

All of the parts will be taken by members of the Pasadena Junior League under the direction of Mrs. Thomas O'Connor, also a member of the organization.

Among those in the cast are Miss Judith Tilt, Miss Celeste Durand, Miss Tirzah Gates, Mrs. George Rhodes, Mrs. John E. Barber, Mrs. Chandler Barton, Mrs. Victor Forve and Mrs. Pauline Holbert-Garland. The proceeds will be devoted to the Boys and Girls' Aid Society which is the chief charity of the Pasadena Junior League. Tickets which are 25 cents to $1 are on sale at the box office of the theater. From present outlook the affair promises to be an immense success.

Church Ceremony

Announcement is made of the marriage last Friday of Miss Muriel Fagan, daughter of Mrs. Norman Andreess to Donald Ray, son of Mrs. William L. Ray of Hollywood, the ceremony taking place in St. Thomas's church with Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele officiating. The bride was graduated from Vassar College class of 1924. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Ray will make their home in Lancaster where the former is associated with a bank.

New Address

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Garcelon have closed their home at the Garcelon Rancho, Victorville, and are domiciled indefinitely at the lovely new Lake Norconian Club near Norco, where Dr. Garcelon is head of the clinic.

Mrs. Garcelon, formerly Miss Genevieve Smith, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Smith of this city, has a host of friends throughout the Southland who find as much pleasure in motoring down to the club as they did going out to the rancho.

Shakespearean Interest

Now that we have established our grand opera in Los Angeles it looks as though we may have a Shakespearean season as well. The impetus the Fortnightly series have given the Bard of Avon is most gratifying and this evening will be commemorated by an exhibition of a set of rings and an autographed letter of the late Ada Rehan, presented to Thomas G. Patten by the famous actress.

Further interest is being evoked by the fact that Enid Bennett will be seen as Desdemona and R. D. MacLean (R. D. Shepherd) again will portray Othello. Guests of honor of the evening include Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, Alice Gentle and Dr. William Dashiell, while patronesses will be Mrs. Chester Turner Hoag, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Miss Jean Hill and Mrs. Edward A. Dickson. The affair will take place in the Music Room of the Biltmore at 8:30 o'clock.

Invitations Issued

To honor three distinguished visitors to Los Angeles invitations have been issued by a group of Los Angeles and Pasadena men for a dinner at the Biltmore next Monday evening, at which Dr. Rudolf Bolling Teusler, director of St. Luke's International Hospital at Tokio; Charles MacVeagh, American Ambassador to Japan, and Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, will be the guests of honor.

Invitations to this dinner have been sent by a group comprising the following: Henry M. Robinson, Harry Chandler, James R. Page, James R. Martin, G. W. H. Allen, Edward A. Dickson, John McWilliams, Jr., Henry W. O'Melveny, Russell H. Ballard, Andrew M. Chaffey, G. G. Young, H. I. Stuart Rt. Rev. W. Bertrand Stevens and William F. Knight.

Bridge-Luncheon

One of the smart affairs of last week was the bridge-luncheon given by Mrs. E. A. Cudahy of Chicago Thursday at the Hotel Huntington, Pasadena, where she and Mr. Cudahy are annual visitors. The long table, broken by a round section in the middle, was laid in the Crystal Room with baskets of yellow roses, acacia and daffodils placed on a cover of deep yellow chiffon, yellow roses and greenery arranged as if growing from tiny flower pots of Italian faience at each place, and tall tapers set in rows.

Covers were laid for Mmes. Gurdon W. Wattles, George M. Reynolds, John Willis Baer, Thomas H. Wheeler, Alfred Costello, Frank Smith, B. E. Sunny, Henry Faurot, J. Henry Jones, Herman H. Hettler, John T. Kennedy, F. Hoyt Smith, A. D. Bevan, W. L. Shearer, Daniel M. Clemson, Charles H. Hewitt, Frank P. Hixon, Arthur Reynolds, Jay Peirre Graves, William M. Guthrie, M. A. Justis, E. C. Pinkbine, B. H. Conkling, R. W. McElwee, Newman, Searles, Doane and Miller and Miss Barker.

Week-End Outing

Motoring down to the Lake Norconian Club, near Norco, last Friday were Mrs. J. J. Meyler, her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gephard Meyler and their two children Robert G., Jr., and Helen Evadne Meyler. They are returning home today or tomorrow.

CHILD MUST HAVE OUTLET FOR ENERGY

Mrs. R. E. H. writes: "My daughter is eleven months old and just starting to walk. We have a nice new bungalow and new furniture. She is continually pulling at things, banging doors, etc. Is there any way of correcting the child and making her understand that she must leave good furniture alone? I have slapped her hands, but it doesn't seem to do any good. I never feel at ease, and I am sure my friends don't, when I take her out. Also, she acts strange with new people. How can I break her of this?"

ANSWER

You have the traditional attitudes toward childhood. The baby must be prevented from touching anything and if he does he must be punished. He must be "broken" of the habit of feeling strange.

We cannot break the child of touching things, of making use of the furniture in order to learn all about it. He cannot develop physically unless he uses every motor activity of which his body is capable and some of these will be certain to take the form of activities which do not please the mother. He cannot grow mentally if he is prevented from finding out everything he possibly can about all the objects which are within his vision. A child who did not move, and showed no interest in his surroundings would be both a sick and a mentally defective child.

Because there are natural activities engaged in by all healthy children, we must accept them. Naturally, he cannot destroy the furniture, and we must offer him toys that are like the things we have in the house, and when he shows a disposition to "misuse" the furniture in a way that would be truly harmful to it, we must tell him repeatedly, and firmly, that these are mother's things, and then immediately give him something similar that is his own. This takes constant repetition, but the child learns if we substitute an equally pleasurable activity for the one that is being denied him.

Furniture is to be used in normal ways. The home is the child's as well as yours. Furniture isn't set in a home as an exhibit, but to be used. Since it is large, a child has to climb upon it (if he has no furniture of his own,) and he must touch it and handle it in a way to satisfy his curiosity. A good housekeeper resents the mark of a small hand, but that is only your attitude that is making a god of a piece of wood rather than looking upon it only as a useful implement in the home.

If you respect the baby's desire to be "let alone" he will stop being strange. Ignore him and make everyone else ignore him. Then he will cease being self-conscious and crying in the presence of strangers. We demand and expect too much of small babies and we thrust ourselves upon them. When we stop that, they cease fearing us.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped addressed envelope for reply.

HAIR DYES

In spite of the many different colors of the hair found among the races of mankind, it has been determined by science that there are only two kinds of hair pigment, a reddish-yellow and a sepia-brown. All of the variations of color are produced by the varying combinations of these two pigments. The density of the color may be modified by the thickness of the hair, the presence of air cells within the hair shaft and the amount of oil present upon and within the hair cells.

There is no coal black hair pigment. When analyzed, black hair proves to be only a dense sepia-brown. Red hair consists in an abundance of the reddish-yellow pigment, and brown hair of a moderate amount of the sepia-brown color. Light yellow hair has only a small amount of the reddish-yellow pigment to which some air cells may be present, giving a lighter color. Gray and white hair is produced by the presence of air in the hair shaft and the lack of the pigment colors.

We often hear of hair having become gray or white overnight. Many scientific attempts have been made to verify this belief, but to date authentic cases have not been recorded. It is possible for the hair to gray or become white within a short time, however, and one would naturally be surprised at seeing a friend, after not seeing him for several months, appear with white hair.

I frequently receive inquiries as to the effect of dyes upon the system. Those dyes containing lead and possibly gallic acid should be avoided, but most of the other dyes are noninjurious.

The vegetable dyes are not always reliable in their tints and may lead to off colors. For this reason they should be tested upon a small strand of hair before the entire head of hair is dyed. In using the mineral and silver dyes, care must be taken to avoid contact with the skin. Usually vaseline or some such substance is first placed upon the scalp, skin of forehead and ears.

Hair which has been dyed or bleached is sometimes injured by the heating afterward used in producing curls or waves. Water waving seems to be the advisable method in these cases.

Where the hair is partly gray it sometimes is desirable to make it entirely white. Hair cannot be dyed a lighter color, but it may be bleached with ammonia or peroxide of hydrogen. When properly performed this treatment is not injurious and may enhance the appearance.

The question of dying hair is largely a matter of individual preference and can undoubtedly be used to advantage in some cases. However, it should be remembered that the natural color of the hair can often be preserved throughout life if the proper care is taken to conserve the general health and vitality.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Leg Exercise

Question: Mrs. J. A. C. asks: "Will coco butter develop the calves of the legs? If not, is there anything that will?"

Answer: The best method of developing the calves of the legs is through the following exercises: Stand on one foot, balancing the body by placing one hand against the wall and raise and lower your weight on the toes and ball of the foot. When the muscles become tired you should do the same on the other foot.

Diet in Manual Labor

Q.: P. Q. asks: "Do you think that a man working at the machinist trade can get enough nourishment from a diet that consists of one grapefruit, four slices of whole-wheat toast with a handful of dates for breakfast; a handful of peanuts for lunch and a raw vegetable salad for dinner, consisting of carrots, cabbage, celery, beets and parsnips, in all weighing about a pound? Is it right to eat the same diet every day or should it be changed?"

A.: The diet you outline does not seem sufficient for a working man to use for any length of time. The average person doing hard muscular work or taking a proportionate amount of physical culture exercise should use as much protein in one day as that contained in two eggs and about a quarter of a pound of lean meat. My weekly menus appearing in this paper every Friday would be suitable; or, I will be glad to send you some special articles, including a menu which outlines a diet I would recommend for anyone doing manual labor.

Aluminum

Q.: Mrs. J. B. R. asks: "Is there any truth in the reports that foods cooked in aluminum are poisoned?"

A.: I do not believe there is any truth in the recently reported statements about injury from aluminumware. I continue to use this kind of cooking utensil and recommend it to all of my patients.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 1:30 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

OYSTERS AND SPAGHETTI A LA BECHAMEL

Cook two cupfuls of spaghetti that has been broken in small pieces until tender in boiling water, drain and blanche; butter small ramekin dishes or a casserole and line the bottom with a layer of spaghetti, place in a saucepan two dozen oysters, and their liquor, and heat until the oysters curl, place a layer of them on top of the spaghetti, season with salt and pepper, cover with a Bechamel sauce, and repeat until the dish is filled; there should be two layers of oysters. Cover the last layer with sauce, sprinkle thickly with buttered bread crumbs, place in the oven until the mixture is well heated and the crumbs are brown.

BECHAMEL SAUCE

One and one-half cupfuls of chicken stock, one-fourth of a cupful of butter, one-fourth of a cupful of flour, three-fourths of a cupful of scalded thin cream, a seasoning of salt and pepper, an eighth of a teaspoonful of nutmeg, the yolks of three eggs, melt the butter in a saucepan, add the flour, which has been mixed with the seasonings and stir to a smooth paste; allow to cook for one minute. Do not brown, then add the hot stock, stirring constantly, slowly add the hot cream and continue the stirring. Beat the yolks of the eggs slightly, dilute with a little of the hot sauce, combine the mixtures, beat again, but do not allow the sauce to boil.

LUNCHEON FRUIT ROLL

Sift two cupfuls of flour with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, add one-half a cupful sugar, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one well-beaten egg, and two-thirds of a cupful of milk. Mix all to a smooth dough, roll out on a well-floured board one-fourth of an inch thick, spread with half a cupful of soft butter and half a cupful of chopped, blanched almonds, three peeled apples, chopped, sprinkle over the ingredients one teaspoonful of cinnamon, roll up lightly as for a jelly roll, place in an oiled baking pan, brush with milk and melted butter, and bake in a quick oven. Serve with a thin custard sauce.

SAUTED ARTICHOKES

Trim six medium-sized artichokes, cut into quarters and remove the choke. Parboil for ten minutes, in salted water, drain well, place in a saute pan three tablespoonfuls of butter or shortening, add the artichokes, and fry until tender, add to the pan the juice of one lemon, a seasoning of salt and pepper, one-fourth of a cupful of cooking sherry, one-fourth of a cupful of meat stock or all meat stock can be used. Cover and simmer for ten minutes. Place on a hot platter, rounds of buttered toast, covered with the cooked artichokes. Thicken the stock remaining in the pan with the yolk of one egg slightly beaten, pour the sauce over the artichokes and serve.

Amaranth Order Gathers Today for Convention

Playing host this week to several hundred delegates of the Order of the Amaranth, Hollywood today will welcome the thirty-second annual assembly of the Masonic auxiliary, which opens at the Roosevelt Hotel. Four days will be given over to business.

Set originally for Pasadena, the convention was moved to Hollywood, according to Frank C. Reed, arrangements chairman, because of the many attractions offered visitors by the film city.

In an effort to make this year's assembly, presided over by Grand Royal Matron Elka Liberman, outstanding, Chairman Reed and his assistants have prepared an elaborate schedule of events. Friday evening will be dedicated to the installation of officers.

"BROTHER IVAN" ROLE GIVEN LOCAL ACTOR

An invitation to play the title role in "Brother Ivan," a Slavic play to be presented by Slavs of San Francisco next May, has been received by Voya George, young actor of Los Angeles, it was made known yesterday. George, who has lived in Los Angeles for the last three years, is a former member of the Jugo-Slavia diplomatic corps, and on several other occasions has portrayed the part of Brother Ivan. The play was written by N. Simic Nazor. George, incidentally, is a direct descendant of Sindjelic, right-hand man of George the Black, leader of the Serbian uprising against the Turks in 1804, and founder of the present Jugo-Slavic dynasty.

AIR GROUP TO MEET

"Development of Aeronautics in Germany and America" will be discussed by Dr. Hirschberger of Koenigsberg, Germany, at the luncheon of the Women's Aeronautic Association of California at the Biltmore tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock. Another guest will be Dick Myhres, race winner at the national air meet last fall. The meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Edna-Covert Plummer.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

A Suggestion

If you are making curtains for your home, using the same material all over the house, it is a good idea to make an extra pair at the same time. Then, as necessary, the extra pair can be hung and a soiled pair taken down and laundered. It would mean very little work and one would always have immaculate curtains. This would be particularly practical in districts where soft coal is used for heating purposes.

Perhaps You Don't Know That

A tar shampoo will give a delightful gloss to the hair.

A coat of flat oil paint will prolong the life of window shades.

A sharp knife, day-old bread and softened butter makes sandwich making easy.

Rice flour and water simmered until they are thick made an excellent cement for china.

The market basket is most attractive to roaches unless kept exceedingly clean. Scrub it frequently and dry in the sun.

A Strain on the Buttons

When sewing on buttons that will have a great strain on them, it is wise to put a piece of old kid glove under the material to which the button is sewn. This will prevent the cloth tearing away.

Lace Repairs

If the lace is getting thin in a favorite negligee or dress, use footing under the lace insertion and mend the breaks on to this foundation. Footing is so sheer that it acts as a basis for mending without altering the open effect.

Bedtime

If you hesitate about going to bed and leaving a large log still burning in the fireplace, stand it on end in the back corner of the fireplace away from the fire and yet in a perfectly safe place for it to die out.

A Good Investment

An electric iron will pay for itself in energy saved by the steps to and from the stove to change irons. Small articles may be ironed just as readily seated. And besides the saving of energy there is the undeniable fact of its perfect cleanliness. There is no such thing as "dirt from the iron" with an electric iron.

Less Tiring

Use a chair with a high seat when stitching on the machine. You will find it much less fatiguing than one with a lower seat.

To Clean Felt

The delicate-hued hats so popular these days will clean beautifully if the soiled parts are rubbed with fine sandpaper and then the entire hat rubbed with French chalk and magnesia.

A Worn Lining

If the coat lining is worn under the arms, do not mend it like an ordinary patch but cover dress shields with silk and sew them in over the worn lining. Frequently a patch pocket on the inside of the lining will solve the problem of matching the silk.

Fat Comes at Forty

Fat Need Not Come

Science has found the reason why people grow fat. That reason lies largely in a defective gland. To some that trouble comes in early years, but to most people after 40.

A certain gland, which largely controls nutrition, becomes weak. Then food, which should go into fuel and energy, deposits itself in fat.

No starvation, no over-work, can rectify that condition. Both are harmful. The right remedy is to activate an under-active gland. Physicians the world over now employ it.

That is the method employed in Marmola prescription tablets. They are based on scientific research on the causes of excess fat. A famous medical laboratory perfected them. People have used them for more than 20 years—millions of boxes of them. You can see the results in every circle—in new youth and beauty, new health and vitality.

Do what your friends are doing. Correct the cause of excess fat. Don't starve, don't over-work. Take four Marmola tablets daily and watch the delightful results. You must correct the cause.

Do this, because this is the scientific way. Results you get without it cannot last. Do it because multitudes of people, all about you, have proved its efficiency. Do it now. Every day of delay means that your life is not being lived at its full.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

"Hard to say, but I often have to warn the girls"

—Says a woman athletic director in discussing woman's oldest hygienic problem

When they learn of this new process* which neutralizes all odor in sanitary pads, they no longer fear offending others—self-consciousness disappears entirely

NO woman, from girlhood on, is free from the possibility of offending others at times. Often she is not even aware of it. When she learns, doubt and worry make light-heartedness impossible. Now a discovery of Kotex scientists overcomes this fear; each pad is scientifically treated to end all odor. The process is patented. No other pad offers such security.

No evidence of sanitary protection

That other fear—the feeling of being conspicuous—is also eliminated. Corners of the Kotex pad are scientifically rounded and tapered so as to leave no evidence of sanitary protection.

Yet every advantage remains

You can so easily adjust layers of filler. It is, as always, absorbent to an amazing degree. And the remarkable absorbency is still one of the most important advantages of Kotex. Cellucotton absorbent wadding takes up 16 times its own weight in moisture—5 times more than cotton itself. The fact that you can so easily dispose of it makes a great difference to women. And a new treatment renders it softer, fluffier, than you thought possible.

Won't you try the Improved Kotex—buy a box this very day. It is 45c for a box of twelve, at any drug, dry goods or department store; also obtained through vending cabinets in rest-rooms.

*Kotex is the only sanitary pad that deodorizes by patented process. (Patented No. 1,670,587.)

Mrs. Dan Jones of the Brentwood Country Club, former California State champion, yesterday set out to repeat a victory of a year ago, when she shot an 87 to win low gross for the first eighteen holes of the annual fifty-four-hole medal-play tournament of the woman's auxiliary, played at the Lakeside Country Club.

MRS. DAN JONES

Brentwood's leading feminine star established a record last year to win the tournament with a fifty-four-hole total of 266 strokes, which is an average of eighty-two strokes a round. From yesterday's results it appears that the record will stand for this year at least.

Mrs. Mark Steele of the San Gabriel Country Club registered an 89 to finish in second place, two strokes back of Mrs. Jones. Her net score of 89-6-83 gave Mrs. Steele a tie with Mrs. H. R. Erkes of Brentwood, 93-10-83, and Mrs. C. A. Raysor of Chevy Chase, 93-10-83, for low net in Class A.

The San Gabriel golfer who, with Mrs. Harry Pressler and Miss Marjorie Kirkham, completes the "big three" of the Mission club, appears to be the contestant most capable of giving Mrs. Jones a battle. The leaders scored the only 80's turned

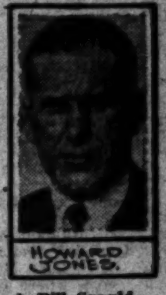
S.C. and U.C.L.A. Footballers in Spring Drill

Dye and Moses Behemoths of Trojan Squad

Capt. Barragar Goes to Guard in First Workout

BY BRAVEN DYER

Football busted into the sports picture again yesterday and, as usual, it was one of the hottest days of the year. All you have to do to insure scorching weather locally is to order grid practice.



HOWARD JONES.

The Trojans of Southern California, sixty strong, did their stuff at Bovard Field, while the Bruins of U.C.L.A. went through the lightest of workouts at Moore Field. Coach Bill Spaulding had thirty-seven athletes under his wing, but expects this number to increase slightly despite the fact that many of his boys are busy with track or baseball.

When Howard Jones called his Trojan footballers about him his practiced eye lit on the bulky forms of Donald Moses and George Dye, a couple of young behemoths. It was the first day of spring drill and there were other young men on hand, but Messrs. Moses and Dye attracted the most attention.

STAGGERING FIGURE

Moses, who is likely to fall heir to the sobriquet of "Dynamic Don" now that Don Williams has graduated, reported weighing 204 pounds on the hoof. Dye made this figure look positively puny when he boosted the Fairbanks to the staggering total of 236.

For those who don't remember, Moses was a rip-snorting fullback on the 1927 varsity. He got a late start and began coming into his own at Chicago when the Trojans dropped that 7-to-6 encounter to Notre Dame. Returning here for the Washington struggle, Don was a positive riot, his work being overshadowed only by that of Morley Drury, and nobody could equal or eclipse the Trojan all-American on that day.

Dye hails from Alabama where he played center and tackle. He registered at Southern California a year

ANGELS PICK PITCHERS

Walsh, Barfoot and Holling Will Hurl for Locals When They Face Cubs Friday

BY BOB RAY

Augie Walsh, Clyde Barfoot and Carl Holling will get the assignment to hurl for the Angels in the first exhibition game of the season against the Chicago Cubs next Friday at Wrigley Field.

Marty Krug made this announcement yesterday, when he also gave out the probable line-up that will represent the Seraphs in the first clash of the Wrigley series. Young Dallas Warren will handle the shoots of the three twirlers, while the rest of the starting squad will find "Slug" Tolson at first base, Ray Jacobs at second, Carl Dittmar at short, Bobby Jones at third, Earl Webb in left and Jigger Statz in center. The Stuttgart Strategist then hit a snag in his opening line-up plans. Marty has both Walter Berger and Wes Schulmerich, two darn good fly-chasers, available for the right-field job and he hasn't yet decided which one will get the call.

MARTY KRUG

"It's tough to have to put either Berger or Schulmerich on the bench, but then I guess that's better than not having enough capable outfield talent," mused Skipper Krug following yesterday's workout.

The Cherub pilot says he intends to use three hurlers in all three of the games with the Cubs over the week-end so that he will be able to get a line on his mound talent under the fire of the booming bats of Joe McCarthy's performers. Aside from Walsh, Barfoot and Holling, Krug wants to use Russ Miller, Sheriff Peters, Harry Chesley, Tex Weathersby, Deacon Plitt and Red Roberts on the mound against the Cub clouters.

From the present outlook, the Angels have lost the services of

More Than 850 High School Athletes to Compete in Annual A.A.U. Relays Saturday

HUGE TURNOUT FOR PREP MEET

Close Competition Expected in Unlimited Class

Six Open Field Events Are on Program

Four Lads Doped to Clear Twelve Feet in Pole

More than 850 entries are expected in the fourth annual A.A.U. high school relays, scheduled for the Coliseum this Saturday. To date forty-five Southland prep schools have signified their intention of entering teams in the meet. This is the largest turnout for this meet in its history. Schools have been divided into four sections according to enrollment.

Interest for the most part centers around the unlimited class, in which division Poly, Fairfax, Los Angeles High, Manual Arts, Glendale, Pasadena and possibly Long Beach Poly and San Diego will vie for honors. Two other contenders, Fremont and Belmont, have a meet scheduled for this Friday, and may not enter teams in the relays.

Six open field events are on the program, pole vault, high jump, broad jump, discus throw, shot put and the javelin throw. A great deal of interest is being shown in the shot put. Big Dick Leslie of Los Angeles High has been established as favorite due to his strong showing last Friday when he defeated "Swede" Carlson of Manual. Leslie tossed the iron pellet out 48ft. 1in.

In the pole vault, Reeves Limeburner, star Roman jumper, will fight it out for first with Billy Pazdra of Lincoln, Harry Brosnan of Poly, Creswell of South Pasadena, and Miller of San Diego. If Saunders and Brooks of Belmont compete, fans can exect at least four athletes to clear 12ft.

Break Ground Today for Big Sports Event

Ground-breaking ceremonies for the first Pacific Coast indoor track and field championships to be held here in conjunction with the First National Sportsmen's Exposition May 9 to 19, will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Wilshire Boulevard and Fairfax-avenue site.

Leading athletes and business men in Southern California will be present at the exercises which will begin the construction of the largest indoor stadium ever erected on the Pacific Coast. Jack Doyle, Exalted Ruler of local Elks' Lodge No. 99, sponsor of the event, and Charley Borah, University of Southern California's national sprint champion, will turn the first shovelful of earth.

City playground officials have also planned to take part in the ceremonies. George Hjelte, superintendent of playgrounds; J. C. Henderson, in charge of playground activities, and B. W. Lopp, municipal sports leader, will bring boys who will give airplane demonstrations.

COURTNEY FINISHES TASSI IN RING GO

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—George Courtney, the Oklahoma cowboy, knocked out Nando Tassi, Italian light-heavyweight, in the fourth round of their ten-round match at the St. Nicholas arena tonight.

Tassi was unable to answer the bell at the start of the fourth round. The referee awarded the fight to Courtney on a technical knockout. Tassi protested that the blow had been foul.

UPLIFTERS PLAN BIG RACE MEETING SOON

The Uplifters Club will stage the largest amateur race meeting ever held on the Santa Monica ranch on the 24th inst., according to the announcement made last night by Snowy Baker, Australian sportsman. All of the leading riding clubs in Southern California have been invited to attend. Entries from Flintridge, Santa Barbara, San Diego and Los Angeles riding organizations have already been received. Baker will stage seven events and a series of whippet races on the program.

JAP LOSES AT NETS

PAL BEACH (Fla.) March 4. (AP) But one upset was registered in the two opening rounds of the annual Florida championship tennis tournament here today. W. H. Storey, Freeport, L. I., turned back Tamio Abe, Japanese Davis Cup performer.

WASHBURN WINS TITLE

TOPEKA (Kan.) March 4. (AP)—Washburn College won the Central Conference basketball championship here tonight by defeating the Emporia Teachers' College team, 25 to 20.

LAYON BEATS PECK

LITTLE ROCK (Ark.) March 4. (AP)—Dougan Layon, Springfield (Mo.) lightweight, won from Joe (Kid) Peck of Kansas City on a foul in the third round of their ten-round bout here tonight.

WATER POLOISTS MINGLE

Two Southern California A.A.U. water polo games are on tap for the Los Angeles Athletic Club tank tonight with Hollywood and L.A.A.C. swimmers meeting in the feature game. The opening contest will be between U.S.C. and the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach.

TRAINING CAMP GOSSIP

McMILLAN SHOWS LOTS OF PEP

AVALON (Catalina Island) March 4. (Exclusive)—While the mainland was appropriately and properly celebrating the inauguration of its adopted son, Herbert Hoover, the present occupants of this magic isle had to go right on with their practice work without pausing for any flag waving or firing of any salutes. Twenty-six miles of ocean make a difference.

The two practice sessions today were the usual routine affairs, however, giving McCarthy a chance to reflect on the conduct of his charges in the exhibition games played Saturday and Sunday.

The manager and his two assistants, Burke and Land, as well as all other observers seem surprised at the increased progressiveness of Norm McMillan, whose placidity more than anything else netted him the puny batting average of .250 in 1928. Norm seems to put everything he has in his work with impressive results.

It is held probable he will be given a good workout to establish whether, in his rejuvenated state, he is a better third baseman than Clyde Beck and it would not be surprising to see him in a majority of the Cubs' thirty-two inter-club exhibition games, the first of which will be played in Los Angeles next Friday afternoon.

Clarence Vick Blair, rookie infield candidate, has been coming along nicely, at bat and afield, and no longer is being scorned as a possibility for a more or less regular job in the Cub infield.

It appears that if either McMillan or Blair supplants Beck he will have to do it with the bat, which probably will solve the mystery of the Cub batting order for if either can sock enough to get the job, the odds are he will get in the number two spot in the batting order. On the other hand if Beck holds onto his job and does improve his hitting, he will not bat second and the whole thing will be up in the air again.

Gabby Hartnett's sore arm is getting no better fast, as the wags say, and Hornsby confessed he felt a little down today. Nothing serious though and all the rest of the club is in swell shape.

ROY JOHNSON TO REPORT TO TIGERS

PHOENIX, March 4. (AP)—The last of "Bucky" Harris's worries was erased today when Roy Johnson, $75,000 outfielder, gave the Detroit Tiger pilot assurance that he will report for work on the Phoenix field.

Johnson, who was purchased from the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League, was holding out for a cut of the purchase price paid by the Tigers for him. In holding out, the flychaser disrupted Manager Harris's plans of a revamped outfield for the 1929 American League race.

Working in shifts in order to get in better shape for the long trek through the playing season that is ahead, the Tigers today were split into two divisions, one working out in the morning, and the other going on training duty in the afternoon.

The Tigers now are complete as a club. All of the players are here.

PIRATE LINE-UP DEFINITELY FORMED

PASO ROBLES (Cal.) March 4. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirate line-up has taken definite shape and the following players are performing in the outfield and infield positions: Earl Sheely, first base; Sparky Adams, second base; Capt. Pie Traynor, shortstop; Jim Stroner and Harry Riconda, third base. George Grantham, Fred Brickell and Adam Comorosky are holding down the outfield berths, but the latter two likely will be displaced if Paul and Lloyd Waner, brothers and stars, decide to abandon their hold-out roles.

Manager Donie Bush sent the boys through a sliding practice today, the first of the season. A double workout was the order of the day. Lee Meadows, spectacled pitcher, who went on the voluntary retired list last midseason when his arm failed, was in good form today and gave evidence that he will be ready this year.

SEALS PLAN NEW COMBINATION

MONTEREY (Cal.) March 4. (AP)—Having decided to use Hollis Thurston as a regular pitcher this season Manager Nick Williams of the San Francisco Seals is working on a combination to use Gussie Suhr at first base and either Frank Crosetti or Loris Baker at at shortstop. Thurston filled in at first a good deal last year and helped out with the mound work frequently. Suhr has been the second sacker for several seasons but has the ideal build for a first baseman.

The regulars defeated the yannigans in today's practice game, 8-3.

SEATTLE DROPS PAIR OF PLAYERS

SAN CLEMENTE, March 4. (AP)—Enar Starr, outfielder from Canada, and Frank Dobranski, San Diego pitcher, were released by the Seattle club in spring training here.

Clarence Hetherly, first baseman from Omaha, who was expected by club officials to be a regular, was sent to Los Angeles today to have his throwing arm treated by a specialist. Hetherly since his arrival here has had trouble with his forearm.

MARBERRY REPORTS TO SENATORS

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Fred Marberry, big right-handed pitcher, reported at the Tampa (Fla.) training camp of the Washington Nationals yesterday and after a conference with President Griffith it was announced that he would sign his contract today.

The team did no work yesterday but several players drifted into camp. Catcher Ed Kenna and Infielder Joe Cronin arrived from California. Harley Boss, first baseman, came from Louisiana and "Stuffy" Stewart, second base candidate, also reported.

Manager Walter Johnson and coaches Clyde Milan and Pat Charrity held conferences during the day working out training plans.

PORTLAND LOPS OFF TWO YOUNGSTERS

ANAHEIM, March 4. (AP)—Two youngsters, Ray Woodruff, outfielder from Sawtelle, and Hal Swain, catcher from Long Beach, had their names erased from the Portland club's roster today. Neither displayed the necessary ability to be kept on the squad longer.

After the Beavers had gone through their customary two and a half hour workout, Tom Turner, president, announced that he would leave for Paso Robles in a couple of days to visit the Pittsburgh Pirates spring training camp. Turner has two players coming from the Pirates in the French deal, one outright and the other on option.

OLD SOL STOPS OAK ATHLETES

BAKERSFIELD (Cal.) March 4. (AP)—Hot weather cut today's workout of the Oakland baseball team to less than two hours. The players went through light fielding and batting practice.

Mandy Brooks, Ray Frazier and Ray Brubaker, the last trio of Oaks to report, are fast rounding into shape, and were the last to leave the diamond today. Blue envelopes will be handed to many of the rookies tomorrow morning.

A regular and yannigan game will be played tomorrow afternoon.

SAN GABRIEL INVITATION GOLF PLAY STARTS TODAY

San Gabriel's invitation golf tournament begins today with an eighteen-hole qualifying round. More than 100 prominent Southland golfers are expected to tee off today, but those who are unable to play their eighteen-hole test this morning or afternoon may qualify tomorrow.

A field of 160 golfers will qualify for the ten flights. One round of match play is scheduled each day starting on Thursday with the finals scheduled for Sunday. Finalists in the championship flight will play thirty-six holes and all other finalists, eighteen holes.

A brilliant field, led by Fay Coleman, Southern California amateur champion, and one of the three scratch golfers in Southern California, has entered the tourney. Among the well-known entrants are E. B. Yoakum of Flintridge, C. K. Manhart of Fox Hills, Nat Deverich of Riviera, Huntley Gordon of Lakeside, George Cornes of Lakeside, W. G. Hinnau of Hollywood, Hunter Robbins of Flintridge, L. Perry Ferguson of Girard, Weller Noble of San Gabriel, Web Hanson of Wilshire, and E. S. "Eddie" Browne of Los Angeles.

SEALS DOWN RICHFIELDS IN OVERTIME ICE HOCKEY GAME

The fleeting form of Art Giroux, spectacular Seal hockey star, whizzed past the Los Angeles Richfield defense men last night to score the winning goal of an overtime puck contest at the Winter Garden Ice Palace. The San Francisco skaters won the game by a 3-to-2 margin on the goal scored by Giroux.

The game was one of the roughest staged this season at the Winter Garden. The play was halted throughout by the numerous penalties slapped on by officials for rough tactics used by both teams. Thirteen penalties in all were handed out by the referee.

The opening goal of the game was scored by Sammy Larkin of the Richfield team on a pass from Rickey. This score came in the first minute of play. Ten minutes later the Seals scored on Tommy Westwick's shot into the net. Gaston Scott passed the puck up to Westwick for the score.

Neither team scored in the second session although the Seals were on the defensive during most of the period.

In the third period Guy Pool came through with a goal for the Los Angeles skaters. "Smoky" Harris tied the score on a pass from Scott and the players were forced into an overtime session.

LEFTY COMBER ON HOSPITAL COT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Lefty Comber, star defense man for the Hollywood hockey squad, was reported "resting easily," but in an admittedly serious condition tonight at the Sutter-street Hospital following injuries received in a game here yesterday between Hollywood and Oakland. The contest was one of the most viciously fought ever witnessed here and Comber was jammed into a fence with such force he is believed to have suffered a fractured skull. He is under observation for that injury.

UNION OIL PUCK TEAM DEFEATS CLAN SCOTS

The Union Oil ice-hockey team skated to a 7-to-3 victory last night over the Clan Scots at the Palais de Glace rink. Wasp Simmington was the star of the game. Simmington scored three goals for the winners and was responsible for another one made by the Oilers.

BUFFALO (N. Y.) March 4. (AP)—Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo, tonight won a decisive victory over Ben Darcy, Michigan light-heavyweight champion, in a six-round bout here.

SAGEHENS OPEN CONFERENCE IN TRACKFEST WITH CALTECH

CLAREMONT, March 4. (Exclusive)—The last important factor in the 1929 Southern California Conference track equation enters the problem next Saturday at Pasadena. Pomona College, generally conceded to be one of the three possible contenders, makes a belated entry into the fray, with the Caltech Engineers as the opposition on their own field. Occidental and San Diego State, the other two principal powers have already seen action and are undefeated.

Saturday's meet will probably be less important intrinsically than potentially. Unless things go badly for them at all points, the Sagehens should sweep their rivals into a decisive defeat. What is more important, however, is the comparison between the results of this meet and with the Occidental-Caltech battle. Occidental handed the Engineers a terrible licking and, although it is improbable that Pomona will do the same, unless the Sagehens win convincingly, their chances for victory against Oxy are worse than poor.

Caltech's strongest citadels will be in the hurdles and weights. Capt. Doug Perry, the former Los Angeles High School boy, should run away with both timber-topping races. It is entirely possible that he will also win the high jump. Lufkin and Shields figure to make plenty of points for Tech in the piano-moving department. Tech probably will score a clean sweep in the hammer.

The sprints loom as a duel between Harvey Bear, the Pomona flash, and Ayers of Tech. Bear will be favored to win in both races. The distances, middle distances, and most of the field events should find Pomona outscoring the Engineers.

Coach Bob Strehle plans a fairly strenuous week of work for his men. He had them in action twice last week, running the reserves against San Bernardino Junior College and saving the regulars for the meet with the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

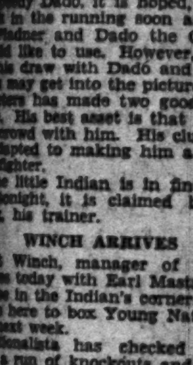
Doyle Seeks European Star for Local Battle

BY KAY OWE

Bias Rodriguez, tiny Mexican champion, will carry the favorite's colors tonight when he meets Ernie Peters, Duluth Indian, at the Olympic.



ERNIE PETERS.

Little Mexico has lined up solidly back of Rodriguez. He is held in high esteem by his countrymen.

And coupled with this Rodrigues appears to be every inch a fighter. He has boxed in Madison Square Garden, really beating Izzy Schwartz but not getting the decision.

MANY KNOCKOUTS

Rodriguez is a two-handed gunner. He has knocked a lot of his opponents out in one round.

The Olympic has already started the wheels turning in an effort to bring Emile (Spider) Pladner here. Pladner stopped Frankie Genaro in round over in Paris Monday night. Word that Pladner was a little thunderbolt has been coming over the waters for some time.

Promoter Jack Doyle would like particularly to stage the next flyweight championship of the world battle here since Fidel La Barba won his crown in Los Angeles.

Speedy Dado, it is hoped, will be back in the running soon again. It is Pladner and Dado the Olympic would like to use. However, Peters by his draw with Dado and Rodriguez may get into the picture.

Peters has made two good fights here. His best asset is that he gets the crowd with him. His club style is adapted to making him a pleasing fighter.

The little Indian is in fine form for tonight, it is claimed by Al Long, his trainer.

WINCH ARRIVES

Art Winch, manager of Peters, arrives today with Earl Mastro and will be in the Indian's corner. Mastro is here to box Young Nationalista next week.

Nationalista has checked back with a run of knockouts and when he is hitting he is the most sensational of all the Pilipino fighters.

Larry Cappo, Kansas City welter, and Gilbert Attell box another ten-round bout under Rodriguez and Peters.

Johnny Torres, Mexican bantam, and Rosalia Caballero meet in the ten-round special. The two fours are Phil Blood vs. Leo Hernandes and Fred Hawkins vs. George

Two of them in a different role—the Messrs. Charles Traung (left) and James Woods. On the eve of Mr. Traung's departure for Europe on a five months' trip this noble pair engaged in a bitter battle on the links at the Los Angeles Country Club Sunday. History does not record the score, but John Tait, the referee, swears the argument was terrific over whether Traung took three or four strokes coming out of a sand gorge. Traung promises a hot reply from Europe to Mr. Woods's contention that it was the higher figure. A braw Scotchman, D. S. Chisholm, took the photo.

TROJANS LOSE TWO TRACKMEN

one time last year, was doped to nick Stanford for three digits in the javelin. Cromwell has no other wand wafters capable of extending Leo Kibby, Bill Sparling and Perrelli-Minetti of the Cardinals.

Stewart, it seems, still has trouble because of his entrance credits. He has not been eligible for competition at all, although this is his third year as a student at S.C. Needham failed to pass in the required number of hours and that sank him.

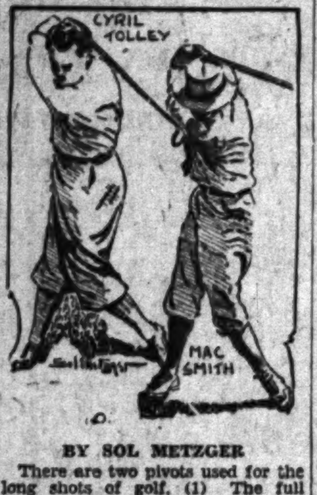
From a mathematical standpoint, the Trojans face a herculean task in trying to defeat Stanford. The Cards have to dig up only 17 points to add to what they have left over from last year, while Cromwell must develop men capable of scoring 31 additional digits if the sons of Troy are to be returned victorious. That makes Stanford a 2-to-1 shot.

The annual interclass meet for varsity runners, which will be the last tough workout for the Trojans before their dual meet with the Olympic Club on the 16th inst., will be held Friday in the Coliseum.

ALLAN HALL TRIUMPHS

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Allan Hall of St. Louis won both of today's blocks of his 600-point three-cushion billiards match with the world's champion, Johnny Layton. At the end of the first two blocks Hall was leading, 100 to 68.

Full Shoulder Pivot Used by Smith



BY SOL METZGER

There are two pivots used for the long shots of golf. (1) The full pivot employed by players like Tolley, who hit for prodigious distances and not always too straight. (2) The half-pivot used by Mac Smith, Jones, Hagen, Farrell and most stars. It permits of better control. When properly timed it will give distances as great.

The defining line is the hips. The hips do the turning or pivoting within their own limits, following the taking back of the club with the straight left to the point where the left can no longer move it back. Then, as the weight is automatically shifted to the right leg, the hips are turned. Tolley turns them until the line through them points at the ball. Smith until the line through them points ahead of the ball. His hips turn about half the distance that Tolley's do.

But notice this point about the half-pivot. Smith's shoulders, like Tolley's, point to the ball. In other words Smith turns the shoulders also to get his final leverage. This half-hip and full-shoulder pivot is less of a strain, insures better balance and results in more of a whip at contact. The full pivot depends on physical force for distance, a punch of body and arms at contact. Tomorrow—let us look at the various finishes with different clubs.

The commonest of all faults of the average golfer is slicing. Sol Metzger has analysed these faults and suggests ways of curing the habit in a fine illustrated leaflet. Send stamped, addressed envelope to Sol Metzger and request this leaflet on "Slicing."

LET HERMAN DO IT

IT LOOKS as if big Herman Brix, the former Washington strong boy, is going to do things to Mr. John Kuck's shot-put record—the record that John so carefully and tenderly reared at the Olympic Games in Amsterdam last summer.

Two weeks in a row now big Herman has stepped into the seven-foot circle—first at the Coliseum and then at Claremont—and chucked the sixteen-pound pill out over the fifty-foot mark.

Of course, this is still some shy of John's world mark of 52ft. 11-16in., but on the other hand the season is still very green—in its infancy, as it were.

At this time last year I understand big Herman was tossing the pill in the neighborhood of forty-four feet up there around the Seattle campus, where Baggy Bagshaw recently won a decisive victory against overwhelming numbers.

Naturally, the comparison starts from there. If big Herman could increase his mark from forty-four feet in early spring to fifty-one feet eight inches by the time the Olympic Games rolled around last year, what can he add this year when he has already opened with putts well over the fifty-foot mark?

If competition is what the corn-fed Mr. Kuck needs, I suspect that his bulky team-mate on the L.A.A.C. team this year will furnish it in large quantities, Mr. Brix looks that capable.

A MEXICAN IDOL

THE Main-street club is nurturing a gent named Mexican Jack Dempsey who threatens to outdo Bert Colima as a drawing card.

He is a light heavyweight, weighs 175 pounds, and has a sock like the old Manassa Mauler.

Mr. Francis Perritt, one of the chief operators of the Main-street club, vouches for the story about a fight in which Mexican Jack was the big star two weeks ago.

It seems that Jack got much the worse of it in the first round, wasn't doing so well in the second, and was taking a shellacking on the ropes in the third.

As a sort of last desperate measure Mexican Jack brought his burly right forearm up in the clinches and caught his rival flush on the chin.

The boys wrestled out into the center of the ring. Suddenly Mexican Jack's foe pitched forward on his face, and was counted out. That short upward pitch had turned the trick.

Mr. Perritt is authority for the statement that Mexican Jack was a former worker in the stockyards, and as such became famous for his skill with a sledgehammer.

Mr. Perritt claims for Mexican Jack that he is the only man in Los Angeles who can kill a steer wielding the sledgehammer with one hand—and has over 100,000 kills to his credit.

However, Mexican Jack is now a total loss to the steer-killing profession. Mr. Perritt says he has consecrated his soul to the slaying of pugilists.

BACK AT TOP

JIMMY MALONEY, the Boston strong boy, seems to have got back into the sacred circle again as the result of his victory over Thomas Heeney, the Rock of Down Under, the other night.

Although he gained prominence about the same time as Jack Sharkey, who also hails from Boston, Maloney faded a a year and a half ago when Sharkey was sharing the spotlight with Jack Dempsey for a crack at Tunney.

Maloney was successively knocked in a round by George Godfrey and Tom Heeney.

That seemed to have finished the big boy, but gradually he has fought his way back up again, and his decisive victory over Heeney—the man who knocked him out eighteen months ago—is convincing evidence of his rearrival.

COLIMA TRIES LAS VEGAS

BERT COLIMA takes a flyer over to Las Vegas this week to test his hands against a little easy opposition.

In the meantime matches hang fire for the Whittier Mexican—Emmanuel, DeVos, Sheridan, and others.

The Emmanuel match seems to have cooled, but the other two are strong possibilities.

DeVos fights Jock Malone in San Francisco next Friday, and is likely to be steered south.

Sheridan has been built up into quite a card at Hollywood, and the Olympic is anxious to steal him for a Colima bout.

A CLEVER TRAINER

ART WINCH is back in the city with Earl Mastro for that Young Nationalista match next week.

Incidentally, Winch will be on deck tonight to second Ernie Peters, also of his stable, against Blas Rodriguez, at the Olympic.

Winch went East after the Mastro-Kid Francis bout to train Joey Sangor for his last bout—the one in which Canzoneri finished him.

Winch is rated as one of the best trainers in the business and is in big demand whenever his own boys aren't under eagle observation.

In Mastro he hopes to develop the next featherweight champion of the world.

HEENEY MAY FACE EMANUEL

good by boxing Larry Seratti last week as an attraction.

Paulino is still booked here for early April if Promoter Jack Doyle and Wadhams can produce the right opponent for an outdoor shot.

Rene DeVos is also one of the probable headliners at the Grand-avenue club on the 19th. It is possible he will box Bert Colima, although it is said the Mexican thinks his hands are too sore for such an important bout.

Homer Sheridan is an alternate opponent for the Belgian. DeVos would be quite an attraction here, due to his fight with Ace Hudkins in New York. Hudkins won by sheer main strength and endurance.

Hudkins is training again. After DeVos shows here he might make a ball park shot with Hudkins. New York has asked for the rematch, but the New York Boxing Commissions has also told Hudkins not to fight there any more.

Benny Kid Carter is being mentioned as Baby Sal Sorio's opponent on March 26. Carter fought in Paris not long ago.

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) March 4. (AP)—Michigan's big Maize and Blue machine won at least a tie for the Big Ten basketball championship tonight by lambasting Wisconsin, 37 to 22.

ANGELS SELECT THREE HURLERS

Glenn Gabler for this year. Krug took Gabler over to Catalina to help the Cubs in batting practice and as soon as young Glenn started warming up Joe McCarthy got excited. McCarthy likes Gabler's smooth delivery and believes the youngster from Long Beach has the possibilities of becoming another Alexander. That's quite a compliment, especially since it comes from such a great judge of pitchers as McCarthy. The Cub chieftain plans to take Gabler back east with him and farm him out for a year's experience in some Class A league.

Skipper Krug put the Seraphs through their customary three-hour workout yesterday and the tremendous clouting of Tolson continued to be the outstanding feature of the session. Tolson manages to hit at least four over the wall in batting practice every day and appears to be in for a whale of a season, for the big fellow is showing all kinds of hustle.

Webb, Jacobs, Schulmerich and Berger also sent the ball on several speedy and lengthy rides and appear to have their batting eyes primed to greet the offerings of the Cub chuckers Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Reservations are piling in for the exhibition games out at Wrigley Field and some large crowds are expected by the Angel officials. A capacity gathering is being predicted for the Cub-Detroit Sunday game, with record turnouts for the other four tussles.

TROJANS, BRUINS IN GRID DRILL

Jones Picks Two Teams for First Practice

Dye and Moses Behemoths of S.C. Outfit

ago and was a member of the Spartan squad last year, putting in a full season of vigorous work. He is one of the fastest big men in captivity and handles his weight with ease. Jones put him at center yesterday. This moved Capt. Nathan Barragar to running guard. Jones plans to give this combination a thorough trial in the fall. It ought to provide the opposition with plenty of trouble for both Barragar and Dye are fighting fools.

All in all it was a typical Jones workout. With his characteristic decisiveness the Trojan coach lined up two teams and had them running plays before the afternoon was over.

DUFFIELD AT QUARTER

Capt. Barragar's team lined up as follows: Duffield, quarterback; Edelson, inside halfback; Pinckert, outside halfback; Musick, fullback; Dye center; Barragar and Holloway, guards; Antony and Hoff, tackles; Steponovitch and Durkee, ends.

Pinckert, Musick and Holloway are up from the frosh. Hoff was Capt. Hibbs's understudy last year and the season before that. Steponovitch, after starting at end, was a guard last year and will be tried at the wing berth again this season inasmuch as Jones is none too well fixed on the extremities. Durkee was a sub end last year and a good one.

Of course, as time goes on Tappaan will fill in at one wing, and Chick Galloway, now out with a broken ankle, will probably get his guard position back. Tappaan is not in school this semester.

Jones plans to use Pinckert at outside halfback for the time being, also giving him a chance at quarterback. Later on he may be employed at end, depending on how the wingmen shape up in practice.

The "other" team included Moses at fullback; Shaver at quarter; Apsit and Hammock as halfbacks; Beardsley and Clark as ends; Ward and Bond at the tackle posts; Shaw and Baker as guards and Williamson at center.

Shaver was quarterback with Pinckert on the frosh last year. Hammock played a smashing halfback with the same outfit. Beardsley and Clark performed with the Spartans. Ward and Bond were sub varsity tackles. Shaw, starting as a varsity tackle, was being converted into a center when the season closed. Baker captained the frosh team last season.

NINE CAN'T MISS

You can name nine men right now who will be hard to keep off the 1929 varsity. They are Barragar, Tappaan, Anthony, Edelson, Galloway and Saunders from the 1928 team and Dye, Moses and Pinckert. Saunders, incidentally, was not out yesterday. He is not in school this semester, but plans to report for practice anyway during part of the spring.

If you take those nine it leaves only two spots to fill—an end position and one tackle post. Hoff, at this writing, is virtually a cinch due to his experience, but he will get plenty of opposition.

Jones plans daily workouts for the next month, with occasional let-ups on Fridays and Saturdays.

The early part of yesterday's workout was given over to stunts for the Fox Movietone news, with Major Domo Willis O. Hunter putting the boys through their sprouts.

THIRTY-SEVEN IN SPRING FOOTBALL AT U.C.L.A.

Spring football practice was ushered into the athletic picture at U.C.L.A. yesterday afternoon. Bill Spaulding, Bruin coach, had thirty-seven perspiring athletes toting the pigskin around Moore Field in the initial workout. A number of the Bruin regulars failed to put in an appearance yesterday because of pressing business in other lines of athletic endeavor. Carl Brown, captain of the team, who is a member of the Bruin track team, laid aside his spikes yesterday and turned out for the workout. Buddy oFrester, who is expected to be one of the mainstays of the backfield next season, passed up the call for gridiron warriors.

Forrester, Cliff Simpson and Ted Dennis are members of the Bruin baseball team and they were busy there with diamond work yesterday. The regulars who showed up for suits were: Brown, Goodstein, Thoe, Rasmus, Huse, Adkins and Gibson.

The leading prospects among last year's freshmen who stuck their nose into the practice session were Duncan, Lyons, Roberts, Stoffenn, Grossman, Haydis, Cooper and Gilbert. Bergdahl, who starred at quarterback on the frosh eleven, will not be with the Bruins this season. Bergdahl pulled out for New York recently. It was said he was dissatisfied with his U.C.L.A. athletic chances.

Spaulding gave the grid candidates a short talk and then sent them through a short drill. The boys tossed and kicked the pigskin around for about an hour and the coach called it a day.

POMONA BASEBALL NINE TO BATTLE MERCURIES

CLAREMONT, March 4. (Exclusive)—Fuzz Merritt's newly formed Pomona baseball squad tangles with the strong Los Angeles Athletic Club nine in the first practice game of the season here Saturday. The Sagehens are still pretty wobbly, lack of practice combining with insufficient previous experience to make a more or less ragged machine. It was originally planned to pit the Blue horse-hiders against U.C.L.A. last week but the boys failed to show much stuff and Merritt called off the tilt. With an extra week's work in their hands they will doubtless be a much-improved team.

STASIAK BOASTS KAYOE OVER STRANGLER LEWIS

Stanley Stasiak, the gorilla of the mat game and European heavyweight champion, who is scheduled to clash with Pete Sauer, reverse headlock expert from Glendale, in the best two out of three fall feature event of "Carnation" Lou Daro's wrestling show at the Olympic tomorrow night, is about the only wrestler in the game who has a knockout to his credit over Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former champion.

Stasiak proved his right to the title of the roughest wrestler in the game when he outroughed and outslugged Lewis in a match about a year ago. The two had wrestled to a knock-down and drag-out draw in 1927. Several months later they were re-matched, and Lewis tried to put away the 240-pound giant with headlocks. When the hold failed to turn the trick, several who witnessed the match declare, Lewis attempted to strangle the Pole into submission. Stasiak warned him to stop, but Lewis refused. Stasiak swung his right hand and his fist stopped at a point off Lewis's chin. That ended the bout.

Promoter Lou Daro already has Champion Gus Sonnenberg signed to defend his title here April 3. The winner of tomorrow night's feature and special events will clash the 20th mat. for the right to meet the champion. Dick Daviscourt and Paul Jones will furnish the excitement in the one-fall finish special event.

Daro returned from Chicago yesterday where he had gone to get Sonnenberg's signature to a contract. While there he completed several of the biggest matches to be had in the mat game at the present time. He stated he would announce the big bouts he had made at a later date.

Y. Fujita, Japanese jiu-jitsu expert, will tangle with Alex Aberg, young Russian heavyweight, in the opening event of the card.

Speed Demons to Take Tests

Due to the large number of entries being received at race headquarters of the American Legion Speedway, formerly Ascot, for their initial meet next Sunday, A. C. Pillsbury, local member of the contest board of the American Automobile Association, notified the Legion that all entrants will be subjected to tests as to their driving skill and that speed eliminations will be held for three days in advance of the race. This notification is in accordance with the rules of the A.A.A. under whose supervision the five events will be run off, as the rules plainly recite that only a limited number of drivers will be permitted to start in each event.

Fred J. Wagner, dean of American race starters, has been engaged to officiate as starter at the coming event and will be in charge of the elimination trials.

CHUCKLES from LIFE

The Feature Picture

My dear, I do not mind your telling folks
How I, your boorish husband, soundly snore;
I do not mind your spoiling all my jokes
By shouting you have heard the gags before.
But, woman, here my saintly patience e-'s:
Don't show my baby pictures to your friends.

A husband is a harmless sort of oaf,
A money-digging bird who feathers nests,
A wife's a lovely creature made to loaf
And tell her husband's failing to her guests.
On you, my love, domestic peace depends:
Don't show my baby pictures to your friends!

Mistreating of Young Boys Laid to Kidnap Suspect

Accusation of Child Stealing Also Faced by Suspect

Five charges of mistreatment of young Los Angeles boys were filed yesterday by the District Attorney's office against Henry Palmer, asserted abductor of Richard Grant, 11 years of age, who disappeared from his parents' home at 312 South San Fernando Road December 22, 1928, and was not returned until Saturday.

In addition to these five felony counts, Palmer faces trial on a charge of child-stealing filed by the District Attorney December 26.

Palmer and the Grant boy were apprehended by Capt. Allen of the police missing persons detail and F. Phillips, special agent for the Santa Fe Railway Company, at Roswell, N. M., ten days ago. They had been traced from Los Angeles to Vancouver and back into New Mexico by officers who had worked on the case since the lad disappeared.

UNIFIED HARBOR APPEALS GROW

Concerted Demands Urged at Washington Hearing

Civic Leaders Stress Need of Combined Port

Breakwater Aid Contingent on Cities' Agreement

BY CHARLES C. COHAN

Representations to be made to the Federal Army Board of Engineers at Washington on April 16, next, will seek to keep the Los Angeles-Long Beach port-unity project from going into the discard. And that is where it may go if the board passes along an adverse recommendation made by a recent board of review here. If that kind of recommendation gets into Congress and the latter withdraws its proffered subsidy of $7,000,000 for breakwater construction on the basis of requisite port unity, years of earnest effort in behalf of the plan will go for nothing.

Presumably those representations will not include a positive plan for meeting all the governmental stipulations. But it is understood to be a part of the activity furthering the showing before the board, to present sufficient plan outlines to demonstrate that every point at issue can and will be met successfully.

SENTIMENT FAVORABLE

Indicative of the feeling here in connection with the project and realization of the importance of the representations before the Federal army board is the following expression by Marco H. Hellman, vice-president of the Bank of America of California, a director of the Downtown Association of Los Angeles and otherwise active in civic affairs:

"It is my belief that the port-unification plan materially would benefit Los Angeles and Long Beach; in fact, would be of enormous importance in furthering the welfare of all Southern California and would be a national asset of incalculable value.

"If the two cities make opportune representations to the Federal Army Board of Engineers I feel sure that the result will be conducive to the materialization. of the project. Popular sentiment out here unquestionably is overwhelmingly in favor of such a national port. That sort of port is required in order to keep pace with the constantly expanding commerce via the Pacific and to provide an important locale for various requisite governmental activities."

BREAKWATER IMPORTANT

Governmental aid in the breakwater extension is contingent on unification of the two harbors under a unfied control. The value of the breakwater is well recognized.

Walter Horne of the Walter Horne Company, Long Beach, and who has handled considerable industrial and harbor property, not only views the proposed unification from the realty angle, but also from its shipping significance. During the war he was traffic manager at Seattle for the Robert Dollar and Mitsui trans-Pacific Ocean fleets. His statement is:

"The benefit derivable from the extension of the breakwater on the forty-eight-foot contour would be reflected, for example, in furthering the welfare of Southern California realty, I believe. A great seaport unquestionably is a mighty asset and such a national port as it is proposed to create of the two harbors would be of outstanding value.

"We are moving into a wonderful new era of trans-Pacific commerce and unification of the harbors would be an effectual way of preparing for the greater business certain to flow through them if the facilities are adequate. The governmental activities forecast for such a port also should be taken into consideration. This is the time for arranging to impress on the Washington authorities that port unification is wanted and that we are determined to and can solve all points at issue pertaining to it which must of necessity include equal representation on the part of Long Beach and Los Angeles in joint management and control. Long Beach is spending over $8,000,000 in outer harbor development and additional needed breakwater construction must of necessity be financed by the government as Long Beach and Los Angeles already have done their part in outer harbor construction."

GREATER COMMERCE

R. E. Dorton, manager of the international banking department of the Bank of Italy at Los Angeles and president of the Foreign Trade Club of Southern California, stresses the world commerce phase in his advocacy of the project as follows:

"For many years, this fair city has been the Mecca for the tourist; her fame as a vacation land of enchantment is worldwide. This very fact has prevented us from realizing the steady growth of our industries. Suddenly we find ourselves a great manufacturing center, with millions of dollars being invested in new enterprises. During this unprecedented growth of our city we have developed as our front door the second greatest port in the United States, the Los Angeles harbor, from the standpoint of tonnage, second only to New York.

"The growth of the population of Southern California and the increase of tonnage passing through the Los Angeles harbor, which has in a few years placed it at the head of the Pacific Coast ports, are definite indications that the center of world commerce is moving westward and that, in years to come, Southern California will dominate the international commerce of the world. Theodore Roosevelt once wrote, 'The Mediterranean era died with the discovery of America; the Atlantic era has reached the height of its development; the Pacific era, destined to be the greatest, is just at its dawn.'

"If the great Southwest plays a part in our world commerce, which it is destined to do at this time, it is essential that Long Beach and Los Angeles unite in creating a greater harbor district. Many advantages would accrue from a unified harbor of Long Beach and Los Angeles under one board of control with the resultant economies of administration as well as assistance from the Federal government in the construction of the breakwater."

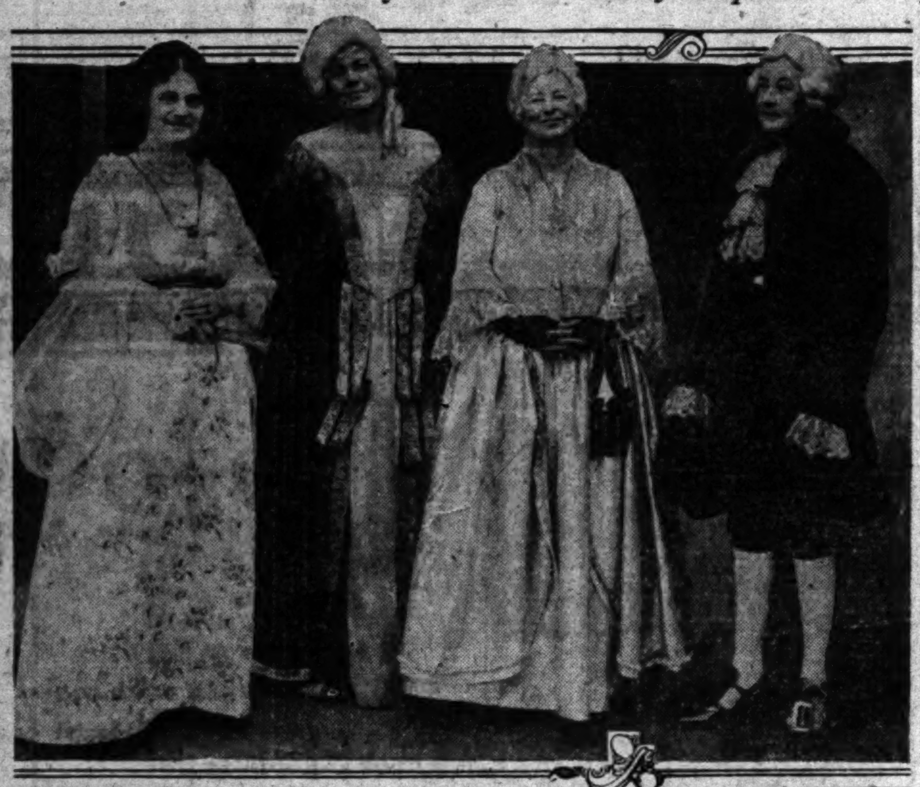
Modern Fashion Revue and Bridge Also Enjoyed

BY MYRA NYE

From this modern day of an inaugural over the radio back to the inauguration of Washington, Jefferson and Adams, then down the line to Lincoln, McKinley and again to Coolidge and Hoover, the Friday Morning Club in their brilliant celebration yesterday brought out the sentiment of long ago, the capability of leaders today and the continued patriotism of its citizens since the founding of the republic.

Thirty-one prominent women of the club wearing the gowns of the periods became, for the hour, wives of Presidents of the United States of America. They made an historic pageant as they were introduced by Mrs. Sarah Bixby Smith, president of the club. There were gowns actually worn at the inaugural celebrations of Lincoln, Garfield, Grant and McKinley. A shawl worn by Mrs. Dan B. Miner representing Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes belonged to one of the maternal ancestors of President Hayes and which came over in the Mayflower. It soon is to be sent to the Colonial Museum in Boston.

Here's How They Looked to Early Capital



In Times of Other Presidents

STYLES OF OTHER DAYS

The dress of Mrs. Fletcher Ford (Dolly Madison) who was chairman for the party, was made from a piece of gorgeous pompadour silk bought nearly 100 years ago. It was patterned exactly after a famous painting of the beautiful Miss Madison who was a hostess in Washington for forty years. Mrs. W. R. Updegraff wore her mother's wedding gown made in 1860 and her aunt's bonnet made in 1850, both worn in the Capital City. She was dressed as in the days of the Presidency of Grant. Her train was a yard long. The butternut brown, moire silk was furbelowed, draped, boned and basqued while her bonnet was a coquettish creation of natural straw, pale pink-ribbon and hand-made flowers of a century ago, cherished in her family that long without change.

Mrs. John H. Shewry, another chairman, wore a gown made in the year President McKinley was inaugurated and represented Mrs. McKinley. Mrs. Holmes Ellis was a charming replica of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, Abigail Adams, famous in her own right.

Mrs. W. K. Chambers, whose husband's mother was a cousin of Grover Cleveland was Rose Cleveland of beauty and delight as a hostess. Mrs. C. H. Ellison was Mrs. W. H. Harrison. Mrs. C. C. Noble and Mrs. Elmer Green both appeared as Mrs. Grant and the gown of the latter was perhaps the most interesting and authentic of the group. It was plum colored and silk trimmed with velvet the same color. It was worn at the Grant inaugural. Mrs. Viola Cash not only worn a gown of Lincoln's time, but carried the same handkerchief, fan and bag that were the accessories worn in the White House.

FASHION REVIEW GIVEN

Mrs. Linda Scott, whose father, James Henry Rollins, was the first child born outside the fort at San Bernardino and the first merchant outside of Los Angeles wore a "tea gown" of the seventies of the last century, fashioned from material on the shelves of the first store in San Bernardino. Mrs. George Baker Anderson as Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, wore a gown of green flowered foulard made with immense sleeves and studded over here and there with knots of ribbon, a gown made for her mother in the gay nineties. Mrs. Carl A. Bundy was Mrs. John Adams. Mrs. W. A. Paxton was Mrs. Lincoln.

The modern group included Mrs. O. P. Clark as Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Mrs. J. F. Waterman as Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. W. H. Joplin as Mrs. Herbert Hoover. Mrs. Herbert Cornish, the efficient chairman-in-chief, was gowned as a Quaker.

Mrs. Clark, a friend of President and Mrs. Hoover, related in a charmingly informal way some of the characteristics of the new dwellers in the White House, and told of her visits with them both in their Washington home on S street and their home in Palo Alto.

A stunning style parade and revue was staged during the luncheon hour by Jewetts of Hollywood, with eighteen pretty models appearing in the newest spring styles.

Bridge was enjoyed in the afternoon with nearly 100 tables occupied by the enthusiasts of the game. A prize was given for the one holding the high score at each table.

BUNKO CASE FEATURED BY CLASH

Wickersham Has Warm Session With Attorney; Continuance Granted

Motion for another continuance in the trial of Sam Wickersham, asserted bunko artist, yesterday resulted in a series of hot exchanges between Wickersham and his attorney, Paul Schenck, and finally led to Judge Bishop delaying the trial to next Monday.

Wickersham is charged with bilking Mrs. Frank E. Neumann, 77 years of age, a widow, out of a large sum of money in connection with his asserted promotions of a gold mine and an optical-machinery factory.

The fireworks started yesterday when Wickersham filed an affidavit asking a continuance on the ground that his attorney, Schenck, had neglected the case and had failed to prepare for trial.

Wickersham asserted in his affidavit that he could not get Schenck to visit him in the County Jail, where he was confined until last Friday pending appeal from his conviction on a previous charge of defrauding Mrs. Neumann of $70,000.

Schenck was in court, announced himself as ready to go to trial and hotly denied all the assertions made against him by his client.

Schenck declared he would like to be relieved of the case, but that if the court wishes to have him remain as counsel he will see that Wickersham receives the best representation he is capable of giving.

Judge Bishop cleared Schenck of all the charges of negligence made by Wickersham and finally consented to a continuance to next Monday.

Wickersham was convicted in the first case last August, and remained in jail until last Friday, when he was released on $25,000 bond pending decision on his appeal.

Father and Son Deny Banditry

Jacob Prettyman, 62 years of age, and Delbert Prettyman, 22, asserted "father and son" bandits who terrorized Los Angeles motorists for several weeks, pleaded not guilty to robbery charges when brought before Superior Judge Shaw yesterday. Judge Shaw fixed the trial for the 11th inst. in Department Twenty-six of Superior Court.

According to officers, the Prettymans have been identified as the bandits who held up and robbed W. B. Love, a Ralph's grocery clerk, of $24 January 28, last. Both are residents of Pomona.

ALIENATION CHARGED TO WIFE'S PARENTS

Charging his parents-in-law with alienating the affections of his wife, Frank C. George, reputedly wealthy rancher, yesterday filed suit for $100,000 damages against Mr. and Mrs. William Hileman. The complaint charges the Hilemans worked on their daughter's emotions to such an extent she feared they would disown her and refuse to see her unless she left her husband.

ALBERT RUSSELL SUCCUMBS

Brother of Film Actor Who Died Two Weeks Ago from Pneumonia Expires from Same Ailment

Striking twice within the same household in two weeks, pneumonia yesterday caused the death of Albert Russell, 38 years of age, brother of the late William Russell, well-known actor. William Russell died two weeks ago yesterday from the same ailment.

ALBERT RUSSELL

Funeral services for Albert Russell, who at one time was well known as a motion-picture director, will be conducted tomorrow from the Le Roy Bagley funeral parlors, Hollywood Boulevard. Details of the funeral will be announced today.

His three sisters, two of whom came here from New York to attend William's funeral, as well as his fiancee, Miss Dorothea Tank; with his brother's widow, Miss Helen Ferguson, and his cousin, William Beaudine, director, were at his bedside when Albert Russell passed away at 5:45 a.m. yesterday. He was to have been married within two weeks.

He contracted pneumonia four days ago and up until 10 p.m. Sunday it was believed he had won the battle. He went to sleep at 10 p.m., however, never to awaken.

His two sisters from New York are Mrs. William Miller and Mrs. Nicholas Peterson and a third sister, Mrs. Charles Schaffer, lives in this city. Albert also leaves a ten-year-old son, Albert Russell, Jr. His former wife is Vola Vale, actress.

Albert Russell began his career as a director with the old Biograph Company at the same time William Russell started as a screen actor. Later Albert became affiliated with the Balboa company and up until two or three years ago was with Universal directing serials and westerns. He left the profession to start the Russell Construction Company, which built many Hollywood homes. With his brother and several others Albert started the Pacific Auto Laundry, of which he was secretary-treasurer at the time of his death.

CROWDS AT GALLERY SHOW INCREASE

ATTENDANCE IN FEBRUARY MADE LARGER THROUGH DEFERRED TICKETS

Officials of the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery, San Marino, yesterday announced that 13,192 visitors attended its public exhibitions during February. This is an average of 600 a day, compared with 460 a day during January.

The increase was made possible by use of deferred tickets, admitting visitors to the gardens at the usual time but not to the galleries until 3:30 p.m., when the regular ticket holders make room for late comers. The library officials repeat that a stamped, addressed envelope must be inclosed with all requests for tickets.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company

EVERY business day in 1928, the 26 million policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, who are its sole owners, added a million dollars to the great reserve fund needed for their protection against the hazards of life and business—present and future.

Happily, more and more persons have a new understanding of what life insurance promises, what it can do and what it does do. They are learning that it does many different things equally well.

While the original purpose—to take care of the bread-winner's dependents in event of untimely death—has never been lost sight of, today life insurance is largely and directly concerned with the business of living.

ONE form of life insurance provides education for children at the very time when their education costs most... Another kind of policy tides over enforced idleness because of accident or sickness. Another form of policy, paid for in regular installments, is a sound financial investment, as well as a protection.

Employers and employees join together in buying another kind of insurance which provides leisure and freedom from financial worry in later years.

Business men build needed credit for business with life insurance policies... Final payments on homes are made certain by insurance.

About one person in every five in the United States and Canada shared in the Metropolitan's greatest year of service.

Cases Dropped Against Victim of Jail Battle

Charges of robbery, assault with a deadly weapon, assault with intent to commit murder and kidnaping pending against Jack Hawkins, who was killed several weeks ago in a gun fight in the County Jail elevator, were dismissed yesterday by Judge Bishop of Superior Court.

Trial of Robert (Zeke) Hayes, codefendant with Hawkins, who was wounded in the elevator shooting, was continued to April 1, on motion of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clarke, who told the court an investigation of the shooting is under way. It was intimated that the District Attorney's office may delay prosecution of the charges against Hayes with the hope of using him as a witness in any case that might grow out of the shooting.

Investigation of where and how Hawkins obtained the pistol he used in the shooting still is under way in the District Attorney's office.

Rats Chase Her Out and Snakes Run Her Back In

"Oh, bury me not on the lone prairie," runs the old song, continuing like this: "Where the rattalesnakes hiss and the wind blows free—

Mrs. Vivian P. Bayne didn't even want to live on the "lone prairee," which is euphonious for the desert county around Trona. In her petition, she says that whenever the rats drove her out of the cabin where her husband compelled her to live, the rattlesnakes chased her back in.

But sharper than a rattle-serpent's tooth it is to have a loveless husband, Mrs. Bayne went on, referring to Gerald Bayne, the defendant. She affixed to her petition two letters from him, which stated he was more interested in one "Ethel" than he was in his wife.

Mrs. Bayne identified this "Ethel" as Ethel Mertes, who in a letter, also on exhibit, said Bayne promised to "put on a girl show" in which he promised she should have the leading part.

Temple Radio Row Re-echoes

H. P. Rockwell, who quarreled with his wife because he wouldn't listen to Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson on the radio, and subsequently was sued for divorce, was sentenced to five days in jail yesterday because he wouldn't pay his wife's alimony.

Superior Judge Schauer suspended the sentence on Rockwell's promise to pay. Mrs. Rockwell is employed as a stenographer at Angelus Temple.

SUSPECTS IN DEATH FRAY SENT NORTH

Rocco and Leo Given Into Custody of Venturans as Sequel to Brady Killing

Frank Rocco and Dominic Leo, arrested in Los Angeles as the suspected slayers of James Brady, asserted gangster, were turned over yesterday to Ventura county officers, who announced their intention of obtaining a complaint at once charging the men with murder. Brady's bullet-riddled body was found near the State highway two miles east of Cantarillo last Friday morning.

The evidence indicated that Brady was killed in Ventura county, where the body was found, because the gun was discovered near by, and witness say they heard the shots.

Geraldine Forrester and Audrey Morosco, who were taken into custody with Rocco and Leo, still are being held in the County Jail for further questioning and probably will be released to Ventura officers today.

It also was revealed yesterday that Officer Romero of the police department and Deputy Sheriff Hackett have recovered the automobile said to have been used by Rocco and Leo on the night Brady was killed. The automobile is marred with two bullet holes and spots which the officers believe were made by blood. Fingerprints were found in the car and they have been photographed by experts for identification. The car was stored in a garage at 1507 Echo Park avenue.

SUSPECTED SLAYER OF TWO HELD

Formal Murder Charges Made Against De Toro for Shooting of Women

Alfonso V. De Toro, accused of murdering Mrs. Delores Campo and her daughter, Mrs. Anita Beltran, in his home at 806½ South San Pedro street February 27, last, yesterday was charged with two counts of murder in a complaint filed by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Bonner Richardson.

Officers charge that De Toro drew a gun from his pocket and killed both Mrs. Campo and her daughter following a heated argument.

Immediately after the crime De Toro disappeared. After officers had sought him for twelve hours De Toro appeared in the office of Capt. William J. Bright, chief of Sheriff Traeger's homicide investigation detail, and surrendered.

De Toro later was arraigned before Municipal Judge Ambrose and his preliminary hearing on the two charges was set for the 12th inst. He was ordered held without bail.

INQUEST TODAY OVER GRID STAR

Former Alhambra Player Dies from Injury

Fall from Roof of Building Held Cause of Hurts

Found Near Apartment Here After Co-ed's Party

A Coroner's inquest will be conducted this afternoon over the body of Harry Rugh, 20-year-old former Alhambra High School football player, following an investigation by police of Rugh's death yesterday.

Rugh died in the White Memorial Hospital of injuries asserted to have been sustained when he fell from the roof of a five-story apartment building at 746 South Coronado street, early Sunday evening.

Investigation of Rugh's fall, under the direction of Detective-Lieutenant Sterritt, disclosed that Rugh went to the apartment of Miss Peggy Richardson at the Coronado-street address in company with Paul and Wayne Williams, and Ed Clark, all of Alhambra.

RUGH LEAVES PARTY

There, according to police, Miss Richardson was entertaining several sorority friends when the Alhambra boys arrived.

Rugh, according to the police report, had been drinking earlier in the day, and left the party, saying he was going to return to Alhambra on a street car.

More than an hour after the apartment party had broken up a resident on the fifth floor of the building heard Rugh walking on the roof and an instant later heard the boy strike the front sidewalk.

Miss Richardson said she knew nothing of the fatality until informed by police yesterday. She said that everyone at the party believed Rugh had carried out his intentions of going to Alhambra and that the rest of the party left for the evening in automobiles.

Rugh was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Rugh, 311 North Alhambra avenue, Monterey Park. Besides his parents he leaves a brother, Jack, who also was a member of last year's champion high school grid team, on which Harry played halfback. He was president of the special students' class at Alhambra High School. He left school at the close of the football season and went to work for an oil well supply company.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of F. A. Utter & Son of Alhambra.

JAPANESE-AMERICAN SOCIETY HAS BANQUET

One hundred members of the Japanese-American Society of Los Angeles met last evening for their twentieth annual banquet at the Cherry Inn, 5817 West Washington Boulevard. The courses consisted of native Japanese dishes. President William I. Clendenon presided and introduced as the speakers K. Midzusawa, Japanese Consul in Los Angeles; Dr. Kayazaki, Dr. W. C. Pettit, Dr. Julius Soper, widely known missionary, and Dr. John F. Fisher of U.C.L.A. During the evening a congratulatory telegram was dispatched to President Hoover.

PECULIAR QUEST TAKES HIM AFAR

Dr. Robert DeC. Ward

STUDENT OF WEATHER ON GLOBE TOUR

School Meteorologist Says He Can't Stay Here Where There's Only Climate

Weather is the peculiar quest which is sending around the world Robert DeC. Ward, professor of meteorology at Harvard University. He came in from New York Sunday on the Dollar globe-girdling liner President Monroe and remained aboard as the ship sailed yesterday for San Francisco and the Orient.

Urged to stop here for his studies he insisted there is no material.

"You know," he smiled, "there is a difference between weather and climate. Southern California has climate; the other countries just weather."

The vagaries of the rushing air off the Indian Ocean hold the greatest enticement for him, although the whole world will be his laboratory. He is passing his first vacation in thirty-two years observing first-hand what he has taught in classroom. Incidentally, he will write his observations for technical magazines.

Eggless Chocolate Cake

With the present price of eggs as incentive, an eggless cake is a happy suggestion. One cupful sugar, one and one-half cupfuls flour, one cupful sour milk, one teaspoonful cinnamon, one teaspoonful nutmeg, two squares grated chocolate, two tablespoonfuls butter. Mix dry ingredients, then add milk into which has been dissolved one teaspoonful soda. Bake in larded tins from fifteen to twenty minutes.

Coolidge and Hoover Cited as True Christians

Patriotic songs and addresses in which the devotional attitude and life of Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover were held up as an example of true Christian living featured the session of the Methodist preachers' meeting at the First Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday.

Quoting from an address by Mr. Coolidge in which he declared that "cultural growth unaccompanied by spiritual growth only adds to our confusion," Dr. E. D. Kohlstedt, corresponding secretary of the board of home missions and church extension of the Methodist church, told his audience that the hope of the church lies in the positively voiced convictions of ministers of the gospel. "It makes me sad to hear so much argument about matters of secondary importance. If the church is to be of real service to the world it must get down to real fundamentals."

DON'T FORGET TO PUT OUT ARM!

Safety Conference Urges Autoists to Signal and Save Lives

Use of proper arm signals to cut down the toll of automobile accidents on California's streets and highways, which last year claimed 1800 lives, is urged by the safety conference of the California Development Association as part of its all-year educational campaign. Nearly 20 per cent of all automobile accidents are caused by improper arm signals, according to the conference.

MYSTERY IN BLAZE DEATH

George Orme, 54 years of age, of 1413 North Sierra Bonita avenue, Pasadena, died in Angelus Hospital yesterday as the result of second-degree burns suffered under unknown circumstances, according to police, while he was alone in his garage.

He was discovered in an unconscious condition by his wife and daughter, who advance the theory that in lighting a cigarette he probably ignited a pool of gasoline on the floor. The garage itself was undamaged.

Orme's body was removed to the morgue.

FEMININE AIR "COP" ON JOB

Mrs. McQueen of Beverly Hills Has Distinction of Being First Woman Sky Policeman and Her New Duties Will be to Chase Stunt Flyers

HEY! PULL OVER TO THAT CLOUD!

The world's first woman air traffic officer belongs to the Beverly Hills Police Department and her name is Mrs. Ulysses Grant McQueen of 114 LaPere Drive, Beverly Hills.

Mrs. McQueen, who began her work last Wednesday, following her deputization by Chief of Police Blair, is president of the California Women's Aeronautical Association and prominent in social and civic affairs of the community. Ceremonies marked the presentation of her badge, immediately following which she was given her first assignment.

She succeeds Paul Whittier, former air policeman, and her duties will be to chase aviators who have a weakness for flying too near the ground. Numerous complaints filed by Beverly Hills residents recently led to passage of a city ordinance which specifies a minimum altitude of 1000 feet and also prohibits stunt flying above the city.

It will be Mrs. McQueen's duty to get the numbers of such offending flyers and locate the landing field where the planes are stationed.

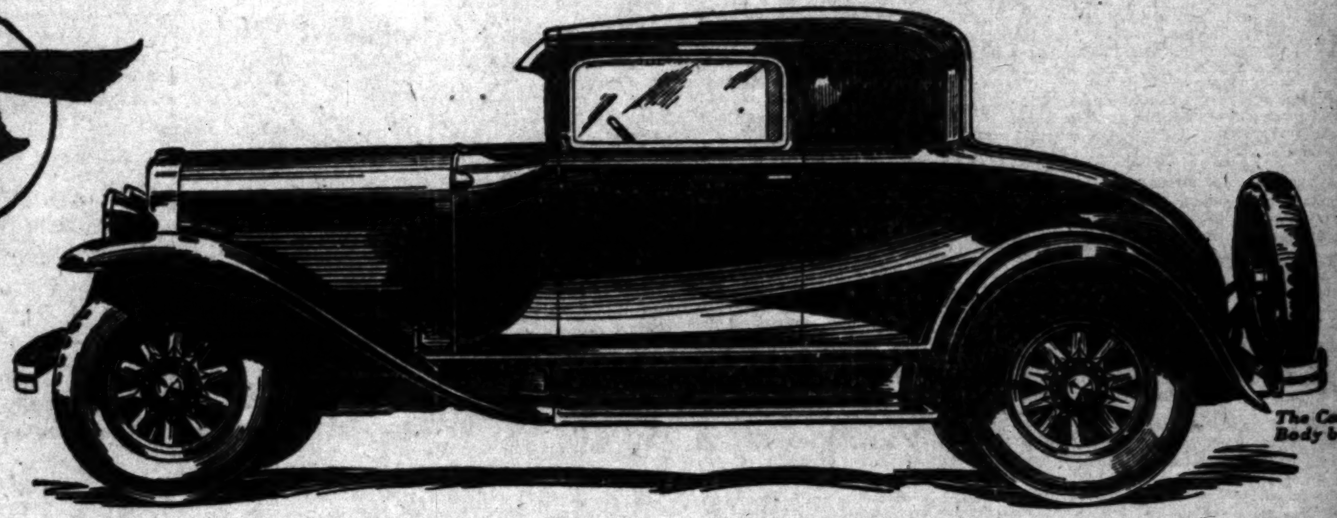
Big Car Power, Speed and Smoothness at a price you're glad to pay



The Coupe, $745 Body by Fisher

Today thousands of motor car owners have an opportunity to realize an ambition of long standing. We refer to those who have wanted the kind of performance once available only in a big car of higher price. And if you are among those thousands, come see and drive the New Pontiac Big Six. It offers big car power, speed and smoothness at a price you're glad to pay.

This great new six displays big car performance because it is powered by a big, new L-head engine of advanced design. Its smoothness results from a counter-weighted crankshaft, the Harmonic Balancer, the G-M-R cylinder head, and accurately balanced rotating parts throughout its chassis.

Many other fine car features indicate the thorough-going quality of the New Pontiac Big Six. Among these are the cross-flow radiator and new, noiseless internal four-wheel brakes. And, of course, the New Pontiac provides big car beauty and style. For Fisher created the Pontiac Big Six bodies and endowed them with all the luxury, quality and inherent value which Fisher craftsmanship implies.

Here, truly, is a new idea in low cost motoring luxury! A car conceived, designed and built for those who want something more than the cheapest—and who choose to reveal their progressive ideas in better cars as well as better homes and better furniture. What a reception these buyers are giving the New Pontiac Big Six! For they've sensed that it gives them a new opportunity to step up in motor car quality without stepping out of the low-priced field!

ORATORS HEAR HOOVER SPEECH

Many Schools Hold Tryouts Following Inaugural

Private Institutions Also Listen to President

New Executive Adds Interest to Constitution Study

The inauguration of President Hoover yesterday marked a fitting opportunity in many of the secondary schools to hold preliminary contests of the Sixth National and Fourth International Oratorical Contest on the Constitution. After hearing Mr. Hoover's stentorian "I do," in taking the oath of office, the inaugural address was listened to and then groups of orators delivered their tryout orations.

In some of the schools the trial orations were limited to three or four minutes, while in others the full time of ten minutes was allowed the five or six students who were selected for the event. It was devoted to governmental affairs and keen enthusiasm was shown in the procedure of the oratorical contest.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS LISTEN

The attention of the day was centered in many of the private schools and academies. At the Los Angeles Catholic Girls' High School special attention was given to the inaugural address by the twenty students who are preparing for the constitutional contest.

Capt. Thomas A. Davis, principal of the San Diego Army and Navy Academy of Pacific Beach, and Maj. Peterson, who has charge of the academy orators grouped together in the student body and ceremonies were listened to. The sixty Constitutional essayists at the Cathedral High School who are training for the contest under Brother Vincent and the Convent, Alhambra seven students in charge of Sister N. Raphael listened to the new President.

POINT TO THE POINT

"Because of the inauguration of the new Executive and the expectancy of the public this will be a big year in the study of the Constitution and development of the oratorical contest," said Prof. Alan Nichols, director for the Pacific Coast, yesterday.

"Through the reach of radio the students were today given an intimate understanding of the seating of a President at the White House. The oath of office, as printed, accentuated as nothing else could the duty of all citizens to protect the Constitution, which is a principal object of the oratorical contest."

She is making a prenuptial voyage alone from New York to San Francisco on the Dollar liner President Monroe, in yesterday. When she returns to the national capital she will become the bride of A. G. Duffy, attorney there for the Dollar liner, but there will be no honeymoon voyage.

She missed her first Presidential inauguration yesterday, consoling herself, however, with the thought that "there will be other inaugurations, but only one prenuptial trip for me."

New Cable Rate to Great Britain Put Into Effect

W. R. Williams, city superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company, yesterday announced that night letter and cable week-end letter rates now are extended to messages of twenty-five words minimum length addressed to Great Britain and Ireland.

The new cable night-letter rate is 8 cents a word and the cable and week-end letter 7 cents a word for messages as short as twenty-five words. These rates will be extended to other countries as soon as arrangements can be made. Messages at these new rates for points on the continent of Europe will be posted from London if so marked.

To brighten the evensong service recently, a Lanercost (Eng.) church had phonograph records played.

Protect Yourself when driving at night

This remarkable new lamp lights the turns before you make them

AUTO ACCIDENTS are so common that we give them hardly more than a passing thought...until they touch our own lives. Then it is too late for prevention.

Most of these accidents, statistics show, happen at night...a large percentage on curves. Many of them, authorities say, can now be prevented by a new lighting device called Pilot-Ray.

This lamp turns automatically with the wheels of your car and lights the turns before you make them.

This reduces nerve strain. It enables you to drive at least ten miles an hour faster ...yet with more security than before.

Cuts Fog

In fog, also, you see the advantage of Pilot-Ray. Set lower than your headlights, it casts a beam along the ground where fog is thinnest and there is less reflected glare.

The Modern Light for Night

Once you have driven with Pilot-Ray we believe you will never consent to go back to the old unsafe way of night driving.

If you are buying a new car, you can include the price of Pilot-Ray in your contract. Or you can have your dealer install it on your present car. Pilot-Ray's brilliant chromium finish adds beauty to any automobile. See your car dealer today or send coupon.

HELP PLEA BY MISSION BRINGS ROW

Social Service Commission Scored for Action Against Request for Blankets

There were several minutes of acrimonious discussion at the meeting of the Finance Committee yesterday afternoon when the request of the Midnight Mission for the donation of 2000 blankets by the city to the mission came before the committee.

On the basis of a report of one of its investigators the Social Service Commission had recommended to the committee that the request should not be granted. Col. William E. Fowler, vice-president of the mission, appeared before the committee and heatedly denounced the report of the commission's investigator as a "scurrilous attack" on the prominent citizens who comprise the mission's board of directors.

Rev. E. E. Herring, president of the commission, and Mrs. Charles H. Richmond, another member, replied that in essence the report merely pointed out that the executives of the mission had refused to give pertinent information concerning its operation and the disbursement of funds it obtains by public solicitation.

Chairman Alber o. the Finance Committee halted the argument by suggesting that the commission invite the mission's directors to appear before it and give the information requested and also to discuss the appropriation for the blankets. The members of the commission and Col. Fowler both agreed to adopt the suggestion.

CRANE SAYS BUSINESS IMPROVING

Annual Visitor Asserts Conditions Better in Nation Than Year Ago

Business throughout the nation is better than fair and considerably better than last year, says Charles R. Crane, II, assistant vice-president and director of the sales department of Crane Company, of Chicago, who arrived here yesterday to spend a month in Southern California on his annual business and inspection trip to the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Crane is a nephew of R. D. Crane, Jr., president of the organization, and spends a great part of his time in visiting the various establishments in focal business centers of the country. The Chicago business man, who has been making annual trips to California since 1913, says that every year marks changes in Coast conditions and that the advancement is very noticeable during the last twelve months.

The Pacific Coast trip is always a combination, says Mr. Crane, of a winter vacation and business. He is accompanied by Mrs. Crane and family. At the end of March he expects to start the return trip to Chicago. He will visit northern points at that time.

Radio Wedding Pair 'Sign Off' on Court Order

The first radio wedding recorded in Los Angeles went to smash yesterday when Municipal Judge McConnell suspended a sixty-day jail sentence imposed on the husband, Dock White, Jr., on condition that he stay away from his wife for two years.

White was accused by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Penney of beating his diminutive wife, Lyric White, at their Hermosa Beach home. The technical charge was assault by means and force likely to cause great bodily harm, a felony. After Mrs. White had testified that her husband struck her in the mouth with his fist, knocking several teeth loose, Judge McConnell reduced the charge to simple assault and imposed the sentence on the testimony already introduced.

The couple were married four years ago at the Ambassador. Lew Cody as best man and Katherine MacDonald as maid of honor, together with numerou other film celebrities, sponsored the wedding.

Divorce Given to Mrs. Wold After Contest

After hearing testimony for several days Superior Judge Frederickson yesterday granted Mrs. Della Wold, beauty parlor owner, a divorce from Theodore Wold, retired bed manufacturer, on the grounds of extreme cruelty. With the decree Mrs. Wold was given all the community property, amounting to $100,000.

Represented by Attorney S. S. Hahn, Mrs. Wold came into court with accusations against her husband in which another woman and a cabin at Big Bear Lake were involved. Wold contested the action.

At the close of most of the testimony it was agreed by both sides that a new complaint should be filed by the wife simply asserting cruelty. This was done. The husband withdrew his opposition to the action and the wife was given an interlocutory decree and the community property.

Woman Reports Being Attacked

Patrolmen throughout the city were instructed late yesterday to broadcast in all rooming-houses on their beats the description of the young man who is reported to have attacked Miss May Somers, 72 years of age, in her home at 724 1-2 South San Pedro street.

She described him as being about 25 years of age, 5 feet 11 inches in height, weight about 160 pounds and speaks with a slight accent.

Sanborn Plans Race Again for Council Seat

Win J. Sanborn, for nearly ten years representative of the citizens of the Ninth Councilmanic District, yesterday anounced he will be a candidate to succeed himself in the spring elections.

In announcing his candidacy, Councilman Sanborn reviewed his service as a public official and assured the residents of his district a continuation of the "open-minded, fair and industrious activity in behalf of his constituency."

His decision to enter the race for re-election followed his indorsement by various church, civic and taxpayers' groups of the east side, it was announced.

"I appeal to the voters for re-election to the Council on a platform which has stood the acid test of use for ten years," he said.

Shrine Event Tickets Go Fast

More than one-third of the Coliseum capacity, represented by nearly 25,000 seats, has bee sold or reserved for the Shrine convention events there in June. This unprecedented response to the first two weeks of public sale was announced last night by W. P. Jeffries, chairman of the finance committee for the fifty-fifth annual Shrine conclave.

The early demand for season tickets is indicative of a sell-out well in advance of the convention festivities, Jeffries declared. This will mean that no seats will be available in June for single performances of the Coliseum events. The season tickets reserve seats for the motion-picture electrical pageant, for four performances of the Circus Maximus, and for two colorful dress parades. Applications ae being received by mail and in person at Al Malaikah Temple.

Graves Ready to Return Home, Near Recovery

Jackson A. Graves, president of the Farmers and Merchants National Bank, probably will return to his home from Arrowhead Hot Springs the last of this week, his physician, Dr. P. S. Modern, announced yesterday.

Mr. Graves has been seriously ill for three weeks, but is now allowed to sit up in bed and is eating heartily, Dr. Modern stated.

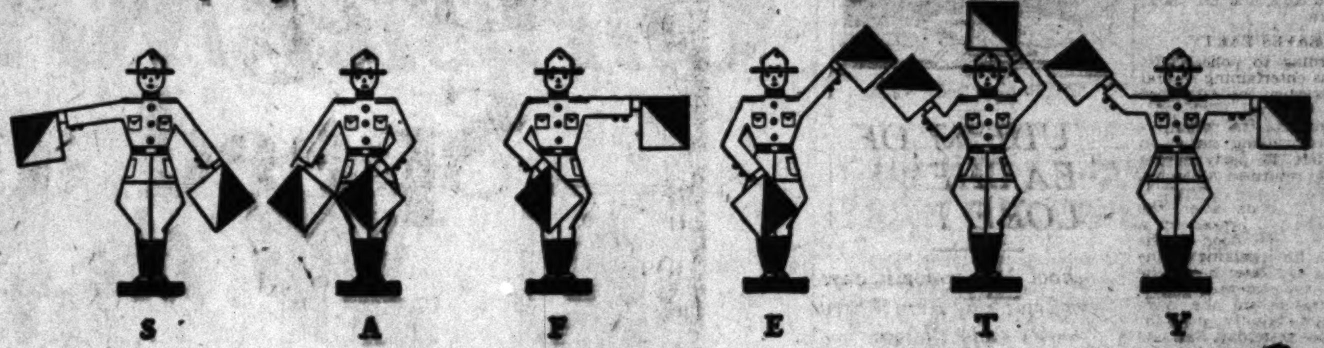
STATE SUPERVISED :-: RESOURCES NOW OVER 30 MILLION DOLLARS :-: ESTABLISHED 1889

1929 is rewarding careful savers



Signals of safety

LOANS: Pacific States Savings' funds are loaned in accordance with the strict provisions of the law and the even more rigid restrictions of the company itself. Loans are secured by thoroughly protected first liens on improved real estate in 75 California cities. The aggregate appraisal value of this real estate as determined by the company's ultra-conservative policy exceeds 2¼ times the amount of the loans. Regular installment payments are required on all loans as a further safety factor.

ASSETS LIQUID: In order to maintain assets at the maximum of liquidity we have written down furniture and fixtures and real estate out of surplus to one dollar each.

STRONG CASH POSITION: Pacific States Savings' strong cash position is evidenced by the fact that in addition to its other cash on hand and liquid securities it maintains a voluntary cash reserve in excess of $1,800,000 in interest bearing certificates of deposit in 75 California banks.

BANK CREDIT, FREE: Since bank loans would be an obligation coming before its obligation to savers, it is Pacific States Savings' policy not to avail itself of its bank credit. It has no bank indebtedness.

CONSERVED EARNINGS: That Pacific States Savings conserves its earnings is demonstrated by the fact that its surplus, reserves and undivided profits are over twice its guarantee capital stock.

A statement of condition is the most conclusive evidence that a financial institution can submit as to its fitness to safeguard your savings. Yet a statement of condition is a complicated mass of figures to many people, and so is disregarded.

To keep its savers informed at all times as to its position, Pacific States Savings publishes its statement of condition each month, interpreting its salient factors of strength, liquidity and stability so that every reader can easily appraise them.

We suggest that you study this statement of condition in the light of the Five Signals of Safety explained on this page.

He Had Won Recognition in Radio World as Pianist

John D. Martin, president of the Martin Music Company, died unexpectedly at 9:30 a.m. yesterday from heart attack at the home of his brother-in-law, J. O. Adams, of 632 Highland avenue.

Mr. Martin broke his leg about ten days ago while trying to escape being run down by an automobile. He had been in the hospital until Saturday when he was removed to the Adams home.

RELATIVES CALLED

Apparently he was in good health generally, so much so that just prior to being stricken he had talked to his office over the telephone. When he was stricken his relatives were summoned quickly. His wife and his brother, M. F. Martin, and the latter's wife, arrived at his bedside just before he died.

Funeral services will be announced later.

Mr. Martin was a well-known figure in the business world of music and in addition was prominent as a musician, being an accomplished pianist. He was heard frequently over the radio. He was born in Jefferson county, Kansas, in 1879.

BUSINESS STARTED

When a youth he went to work for J. W. Jenkins & Sons, the piano concern. Later he opened a general music store of his own in Wichita. After selling out that business, he traveled for the Gulbransen Piano Company and became known all over the country.

About nine years ago he came to Los Angeles and with his brother and L. E. Fontron, now secretary and treasurer of the company, organized the Martin Music Company at 734 South Hill street. Although it first was intended to do only a wholesale business, the company now also handles retail trade.

SOCIETY TO HEAR PROGRAM

A courtesy program by the Reed Brothers Company will be given this evening at a meeting of members of the New England States Society, at Veterans' Hall, 246 South Hill street. The numbers will include "Romance of the Birds" by Alfred Cookman and selections by a male quartet.

INSTEAD of exercise

Do it tonight! Join the ranks of the millions who know the secrets of the exerciser in the vest pocket for a dime! Cascarets give your bowels as much exercise as you get from an hour on the links. Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. These things only produce mechanical or chemical action, which really weakens your bowels.

Each time you use Cascarets your bowels become stronger! They are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this. That's why Cascarets are selling at the rate of 20 million boxes a year, and people everywhere depend on them for lasting relief from headaches, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc.

perambulator. This midget has a four-cylinder engine of only seven horsepower, but it can do fifty miles per hour on the flat and can be garaged in the hall. To comic editors it came as a godsend, arriving when the fund of Ford jokes was utterly exhausted.

"Blimey," said the bus driver when the "baby" bumped headon, "ain't yer lurned yet that yer cawnt run under a bus with yer top up?"

The Anstin's powers of hill climbing are remarkable, and its prowess has become almost legendary. There is the tale of the big man in the big auto who heard a hoot beside him. Great was his vexation when he saw a "baby" rubbing its side against his running-board. Grinding his teeth he stepped upon the gas; the "baby" fell astern and impudence was chastened. Three minutes passed. Then to his horror the hoots began again, and as he scowled down from his window the smiling driver of the midget hailed him blithely: "Say, old man, have you got a spare spark plug? One of mine is missing."

LIGHT BODIES

The search for speed combined with low power has led to the introduction of featherweight bodies, such as the flexible Weymann, which is a framework covered with fabric and jointed so as to absorb the shocks of the road without being twisted out of shape. The stamped steel body is the most popular, but within the last year it has become common practice to cover it with fabric, which can be more easily stripped off and replaced than can a coat of paint. Another recent innovation is the "sunshine saloon" in which the top can be rolled right back by a passenger working a lever from his seat inside. Thus in fine weather a closed car can be converted in a minute into what is practically an open tourer, with only the side frames and the back of the top left standing.

One characteristic of many American makes which strikes the visitor with surprise is their use of wooden wheels with removable split rims to carry the tires. This method is now no longer seen in England, where practically all wheels are steel, stamped, disc, or wire. They can be removed in a minute by unscrewing five bots around the hub with a brace, as in the new Ford and several other American makes.

For many years American manufacturers led the way in their provision of accessories, but as far as I can observe there seems now to be little difference in the equipment of autos here and in Great Britain. Over there, however, bumpers are always charged as extras, and though they are becoming common they are by no means universal.

DIFFERENCES NOTED

To sum up, the most outstanding differences between American and British cars appear generally to be as follows: Firstly, American cars are larger, and have greater power and speed. This latter advantage is not so important as might appear in Great Britain, where the narrow, winding roads make an average speed of twenty-five miles per hour good going. Secondly, American cars are much cheaper—the prices here seem to be about one-third less than for the corresponding type in England. Thirdly, American cars art not so well finished as in Britain, where purchasers usually keep their machines for at least five years. Fourthly, American cars are equipped with coil and battery ignition, whereas most British makes have the magneto. Fifthly, many American cars have wooden wheels and detachable rims, while British cars have steel wheels which can be detached as a whole. The names of the principal parts of the body are also different in England. There an auto is a car; fenders are called wings; bumpers are called fenders; the motor is the engine; the top is the hood; and the hood is the bonnet. Altogether, it is very confusing; but then Old England always must be different!

Wife Charges Desertion in Divorce Bill

Mrs. Agnes T. McComb yesterday brought suit for divorce against Marshall F. McComb, Superior Court judge, on technical grounds of desertion.

According to the complaint, the couple were married, August 22, 1921, and separated in April, 1923. They have one child. In a property settlement McComb deeds his wife real estate and agrees to pay $225 a month to her until she remarries and $30 a month for support of the child.

Kay Johnson Under Knife

Kay Johnson, star of the stage and more lately in talking pictures, was operated on yesterday at the Osteopathic Hospital for appendicitis. Last night her physician, Dr. H. B. K. Willis, declared her condition is satisfactory and that she probably will be able to go home within two weeks.

Miss Johnson was stricken suddenly Sunday night and was taken to the hospital. Although she has been playing the feminine lead in William De Mille's "Dynamite" at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio executives say production will not be delayed as the schedule can be arranged that her presence will not be necessary.

McAllister Hat Shied Into Ring

J. G. McAllister, Councilman from the Sixth District, will be a candidate for re-election at the May primaries, according to an announcement from his offices yesterday. McAllister was elected at a special recall election last August.

"I stand squarely upon my record during the time I have been in the City Council. If re-elected, I shall continue adherence to my policy of service to the people," said the Councilman.

McAllister has been a citizen of Los Angeles for the last ten years, coming here from Utah. He served as a member of the Utah State Board of Equalization under Gov. Spry.

FLOODS NOTHING TO NOAH

It might be supposed that a man named Noah would be afraid of floods.

But Noah Beery, film actor, doesn't seem to be. As a result, Flood Control Counsel Dowds is praying for rain, if not to help the crops, then to convince Mr. Beery that there is some danger of the Los Angeles River overflowing its banks.

Mr. Beery, according to Counsel Dowds, has refused to donate part of his property in Studio City for the purpose of widening the channel of the Los Angeles River. The Board of Supervisors thereupon yesterday directed Counsel Dowds to proceed with a condemnation suit against the actor.

"If Mr. Beery will call at my office, I will show him some pictures of the 1914 flood that may interest him," Counsel Dowds said. "I think I can convince him that flod-preventive measures are as necessary to him as they were to his namesake."

KRISHNAMURTI DUE TO ARRIVE AT NEW YORK

Hollywood-bound, Jiddu Krishnamurti, head of the Order of the Star, today is due to arrive in New York on the S.S. Berengaria. He is en route from Madras, India, to California, for his annual visit to his home at Ojai. Following a brief stop in New York Krishnamurti will come to Los Angeles. His outdoor addresses at the Ojai encampment will be open to the public.

BRANCH TO BE ORGANIZED

Plans are materalizing for the organization of a Los Angeles branch of the Italy-America Society, a national organization. On February 19 a preliminary meeting was held at which a committee of six, consisting of Henry W. O'Melveny, John Mott, J. Barlotti, Mrs. J. J. Van Kaathoven, Mrs. Secondo Guasti and Miss Grace S. Stoermer, was chosen to complete details for the local branch, and the official organization will be held at a luncheon at the Biltmore on Thursday at 12:15, Conference Room No. 8. At that time the officers and directors will be elected.

WORLD HEARS INAUGURATION

Radio Takes Great Event to Many Foreign Lands

Telephone Important Factor in National Broadcast

Six Stations Will Be Linked for Program Tonight

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

The colorful broadcast of yesterday, depicting the various stages of Herbert Hoover's inauguration as President of the United States, thrilled an entire nation, and foreign countries as well, to which the program was broadcast on short-wave lengths.

The radio as we know it today, would not be possible, however, if it were not for the research work of scientists engaged in a totally different field, that of extending the practicability of the telephone.

Were it not for the telephone, broadcast would be confined entirely to programs which could be put on at the transmitting station or which could be picked up and broadcast by portable transmitters.

STATISTICS INTERESTING

Through the use of the telephone, programs originating on the Atlantic seaboard can be broadcast by stations bordering on our Pacific, and the telephone has made possible the development of chain broadcast to a point where more than 100 stations can be connected for the transmission of an identical program.

Few people outside the industry realize the immense wire mileage which is required to connect even a comparatively small number of stations for a network program.

The statistics for yesterday's inaugural will not be ready for another week, but it is interesting to note available figures for a thirty-station hook-up.

REPEATER STATIONS

A feature weekly broadcast on Sunday nights at 6:15 p.m., Pacific time, totals 35,410 miles of wire, 17,916 miles being specially prepared telephone wire used in the actual broadcast while 17,494 miles of telegraph wire are used to connect the stations directly with each other for such communication as might be necessary during the hour.

A few years ago it would not have been possible to make connections over such a long distance as now is covered daily for chain programs, for telephone communication could not be held over a distance of more than a few hundred miles.

The development of the repeater station, which makes possible the interchange of telephonic communication between the Atlantic and the Pacific, paved the way for the sending of broadcast programs to distant stations.

IDENTICAL PROGRAM FOR SIX BROADCASTERS

A six-station program has been announced for tonight from 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock with KNX as the point of origin. Other stations to participate in rebroadcast are KMIC, KFWC, KGB and two others, the names of which have not yet been made public, according to Walter Fagan, local radio distributor. The talent will include the Bilbrew Chorus of sixty voices, thirteen soloists, several motion-picture players, Walter Weems, writer; Howard Johnson, baritone, and others.

RADIO MEN TO SEE TRANSMISSION TEST

When the Radio Trades Association meets at the Breakfast Club at 8 a.m., on Thursday, for its monthly meeting, Arthur P. Hill, radio engineer for the Southern California Telephone Company, will give a demonstration of the electrical transmission of voice and music.

MRS. WYMAN TO GIVE MANY RECIPES TODAY

Mrs. Mabelle (Chef) Wyman has arranged quite a varied selection of recipes for her demonstrations this afternoon beginning at 1:30 o'clock in the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway. Today's program follows: Cheese, macaroni and nut loaf with onion sauce, orange bread, popcorn pudding, baked fish with oyster and avocado dressing and black devil cake with chocolate frosting. Mrs. Evelyn Bishop, guest demonstrator, will make burnt almond ice cream and serve it to the class.

JAIL SENTENCE IMPOSED

James E. Bostwick, accused in a Federal indictment of abstracting funds while a clerk for the Bank of Italy, yesterday pleaded guilty before United States District Judge Louderback. He was sentenced to serve three months in the County Jail. It was charged that Bostwick abstracted funds in connection with railroad pay rolls.

SECRETARY IN SHERIFF'S OFFICE HELD

Burglary Detail Man Said to Have Confessed Robbing Houses Up for Auction

Confession that he had taken numerous furnishings from residences about to be auctioned was obtained yesterday from George Berger, secretary to the burglary detail in the Sheriff's office, Captain of Detectives Cato of Wilshire division announced.

Berger was taken into custody yesterday morning by Officer Lemmen as he departed from a house at 98 Fremont Place, with a lamp shade and two beaded bags in his possession, according to the police report. The residence was about to be auctioned by C. H. O'Connor. Officer Lemmen was staked at the address on the complaint of O'Connor that in numerous recent instances articles had been taken from residences a day or so previous to the auction.

In Berger's home at 229 North Boylston avenue Cato stated his detectives found a quantity of other furnishings which he said Berger admitted having taken from homes.

Appraised of the secretary's arrest the Sheriff's office at once ordered his suspension.

PAVLOFF TO SPEND LIFE BEHIND BARS

Man Convicted of Murder of Harry Pragin Ordered to Prison by Judge

Joe Pavloff, convicted of the murder of Harry Pragin on September 11, 1928, yesterday was sentenced to life imprisonment in San Quentin Prison by Superior Judge Murray.

Pavloff was convicted of the slaying last week by a jury which heard the case in Jurge Murray's court. The defendant was accused of meeting Pragin in the house of Ruben Koch, 644 Lavita Terrace, by prearrangement and slaying him during an asserted argument over liquor traffic.

After firing the shots that caused Pragin's death Pavloff attempted to end his own life by firing a shot into his mouth, the prosecution charged. He recovered, however, after several months' treatment in the General Hospital and was brought to trial.

TEARLE SIGNING WITH WARNERS

Berger Directs Jannings in Next Picture, "Concert;" Natalie Moorhead Plays Lead in "The Green Ghost;" Virginia Sale, Chic's Sister, Is With Fox

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

That former film fvaorite, Conway Tearle, who of late seems to have somewhat dropped out of things, is coming forward again now that the talking pictures are in, he being originally a stage actor.

Tearle has just signed with Warner Brothers to appear in a big Vitaphone feature. Warners are negotiating for the acquisition of Avery Hopwood's "The Gold Diggers," and, in case they acquire it, Tearle is to have the male lead in that. Otherwise he will play a featured role in some other picture.

LUDWIG BERGER WILL DIRECT GERMAN STAR

Ludwig Berger, the German director, who guided Pola Negri and Emil Jannings in some of the best pictures they have done for Paramount, has returned to this country after making a picture in Germany.

The director arrived home Sunday and already has been assigned by B. P. Schulberg to the direction of Emil Jannings's new starring vehicle, "Concert," a story by Hermann Bahr, an Austrian author. The picture is to be made at the Paramount studios in Hollywood.

This will be the first American picture in which Jannings appears in a high comedy role.

Simultaneously with the announcement of Berger's return comes word that Florence Vidor has been assigned the feminine lead.

Berger has been in Germany during the past five months, during which time he directed "The Burning Heart" for his own company at the Staaken studios near Berlin. Lena Malena, Mady Christians and Gustav Froelich were featured. Miss Malena is known here, having formerly been under contract to Pathe. She returned to Hollywood about two weeks ago, looking as svelte and slim as a debutante.

Natalie Moorhead in It

When "The Green Ghost," which Rupert Julian is to direct, goes into production at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios that beautiful and clever young actress, Natalie Moorhead, will have the leading feminine role, it was learned yesterday.

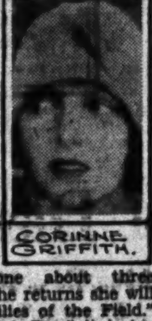
NATALIE MOORHEAD

"The Green Ghost" is a mystery thriller by Ben Hecht and is to be given a most elaborate production.

Miss Moorhead, formerly on the stage in New York, has lately been establishing herself as a favorite in the talking pictures.

Corinne Griffith's Next

According to well-authenticated report, Corinne Griffith will not film the Broadway play, "A Most Immoral Lady," at all. Instead, she is to appear in "Back Pay," by Fannie Hurst, while Billy Dove will be assigned to "A Most Immoral Lady." Forrest Halsey is writing the adaptation of the latter play.



CORINNE GRIFFITH.

Miss Griffith is leaving for New York and Europe on Friday or Saturday. She expects to be gone about three months. When she returns she will start work in "Lilies of the Field."

Concerning "Back Pay," it is interesting to remember that Seena Owen starred in the picture a few years ago.

A tremendously interesting possibility for Miss Griffith is that she may play the leading role in "The Miracle" when First National films the Reinhardt spectacle.

Nugents in College Film

The college pictures have not yet lost their popularity, it would seem.

And now, we understand, that Elliott Nugent and Eddie Nugent are to appear in a college picture to be made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The young actors are not relatives. Elliott Nugent is a noted member of the Nugent theatrical family headed by J. C. Nugent.

Fritz Feld With Fox

Fritz Feld is perhaps the busiest actor in Hollywood today. He is not only filling a leading role in "Squawk" on the stage nightly at the Mayan Theater, but he is also appearing in two different pictures, one of which, Universal's "Broadway," has already been announced.

Yesterday he signed for an important featured role with Fox in "Capt. Smoke," which George B. Seitz will direct.

Virginia Sale Signs

That brilliant young actress, Virginia Sale, has been signed by Frank Borzage for a part in his new Fox picture, "The Lucky Star."

VIRGINIA SALE

Miss Sale, who is a sister of the famous Chic Sale, it is said, won her role when Borzage saw her in Agnes Christine Johnston's playlet, "The Old Maid's Baby," at the Uplifters' Club Theater last week. On that occasion Miss Sale also gave some readings.

Both Chic Sale and his sister are known for their rube characterizations.

Doris Keane's New Play

There seems every reason in the world why Doris Keane should be in talking pictures. But in the meantime she is not to let her talents rust.

Miss Keane has a new play by William DeBois, New York journalist, with a setting in seventeenth-century Spain, in which she will appear here. It is likely that Elise Bartlett will play a supporting role.

Chatterton With Menjou

When Ernst Lubitsch begins the direction of Adolphe Menjou in "The Prince Consort," Menjou will have as his leading lady, we understand, no less skillful an actress than Ruth Chatterton.

RUTH CHATTERTON

Paramount is producing the picture as a talker, the original being a German play.

Miss Chatterton has been establishing herself most firmly in the hearts of the fans of late in a number of Paramount talking pictures, and has lately been loaned to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for a featured part.

Carroll-Rogers Team Invited

By arrangement with the Paramount studios "Buddy" Rogers and Nancy Carroll will appear in person at the Fox-Criterion Friday night when "Abie's Irish Rose" starts its run.

The Fox-Criterion announces that the engagement of "In Old Arizona" will positively end in three more days, on Thursday night.

Nancy Carroll has just returned to Los Angeles from New York and will be accompanied to the Fox-Criterion on Friday night by a group of friends from the Paramount studios.

Anne Nichols, author of "Abie's Irish Rose," also has been invited by the Fox-Criterion to be present.

According to figures recently given Miss Nichols by Paramount studios "Abie's Irish Rose" has played in twenty-one countries of Europe and America, most recently in Turkey. Constantinople liked "Abie" very much during its month's engagement and the play is booked for a return engagement in Pera, the European quarter.

Nagel Oversees Introductions

Conrad Nagel, one of the screen's most popular stars, has consented to act as master of ceremonies at the gala opening of Douglas Fairbanks's "The Iron Mask" at the Carthay Circle Theater a week from tonight.

This marks the third time that Nagel has presided at a Circle premiere. The first occasion was "Barďelys the Magnificent" and the second "The Barker."

STAFFS WATCH "SCALDAL"

Editorial staff members of local dailies will attend the Hillstreet Theater tonight to see and hear "The Office Scandal," Pathe's film of metropolitan newspaper life.

TRIAL OF KEYES DEFERRED

Illness of Getzoff, Principal Witness, Causes State to Postpone Conspiracy Cases

Owing to the illness of Ben Getzoff, expected to be a State witness, trial of former Dist.-Atty. Keyes and others charged with criminal conspiracy and bribery was continued yesterday by Judge Bowron to April 8.

Keyes, Ben and Dave Getzoff, Charles Reimer and A. I. Lasker all were scheduled to have gone on trial on the conspiracy complaint filed in connection with the dismissal of criminal charges against Lasker during Keyes's regime in office.

All of the defendants were in court but Ben Getzoff, and Chief Deputy District Attorney Stewart offered an affidavit stating that Getzoff is confined in a hospital and too ill to be present in court for some time. The continuance was then asked and granted.

Simultaneously the court granted continuances in four other cases pending in connection with the asserted corruption of Keyes while the latter was in office. Two of these indictments, one charging Keyes individually with three counts of bribery and the other accusing Ben and Dave Getzoff and A. I. Lasker of bribery, also were continued to April 8.

The other two cases were set over to May 6. In the latter accusations Jacob Berman, so-called "bright boy" of the Julian Petroleum Corporation stock pools, is charged with embezzlement and forgery and together with Ben Getzoff is accused on a separate count of asserted bribery of Keyes.

With the State moving for the delays yesterday because of Ben Getzoff's illness, it was reported at the Courthouse that it is likely the prosecution will call Getzoff as one of its principal witnesses against Keyes and the others in the forthcoming trials.

It also was reported the State plans to go to trial first on the indictment against Keyes, the Getzoffs, Reimer and Lasker charging conspiracy to bribe in connection with the dismissal of the old charges against Lasker.

Lasker recently was convicted on five counts of making false entries in the books of the Lasker Finance Corporation, of which organization he formerly was president. It is asserted Keyes dismissed these same charges against Lasker more than a year ago ostensibly for "lack of evidence."

Lasker now is under sentence of five to fifty years in San Quentin.

ment—thus may it be described! Perhaps it falls short of the glorious fulfillment that its author imagined, but it is noble and genuine nonetheless. It deserves respect.

Four lives—indeed the lifetimes of four people are put under the psychological microscope of the author and nothing remains unrevealed. In dual form of spoken words and spoken thoughts does the disclosure progress through the nine different moods that may be called scenes.

Three men are in love with one woman. A fourth who has loved her, and whose love she has returned, has died in the war. She lives under the shadow of this tragedy, and the fact that she refused him herself when he went to be killed.

No account is taken by her of the moral equation her consent would have involved; she challenges only her lack of courage, her submission to her father's will, and on the revolt that ensues strives to build her life.

CHASES ANOTHER MATE

The results are complex. She weds after certain promiscuous adventures. She discovers her husband inherits physical and mental weaknesses, and this deters her from having a child by him. However, to appease his desire for parenthood, she chooses another mate, the husband's mother acting as co-conspirator in this curious experiment.

The bargain coldly entered into with the proposed father turns into a deep infatuation. They love, or believe they do, and time and again one or the other wants to inform the husband of the existence of their mutual relation, and the parentage of the child. Always some psychologic obstacle prevents. Even death of the husband in the end intrudes.

In the ultimate moments of the play the old desires between the two lovers are swept away and the woman chooses the third man—the one who had been like a father and friend, who spells to her quiet and peace. Delicately the play suggests that in the original lover, the one who died in the war, she would have found all that these other three men offered her—one as provider, the second as lover and the third as friend.

THOUGHT DOMINATES

The play is elaborately motivated but runs quietly and smoothly on from situation to situation of its development. There are moments when thought becomes the dominating thing; there are others when the word conveys the supreme emotion. It is an odd double-patterning.

In addition to the soliloquy O'Neill has resorted to a kind of revival of the classic aside to convey the drama of his play. The characters speak to each other and then speak as if to themselves. The thought - expression is achieved through the latter means. It is a novel device.

There are those, of course, who will say that the action of "Strange Interlude" progresses lumberingly, because of the constant interruptions of dialogue as such. And certainly there is no question but that the play carries a heavy load on commensurately heavy wheels.

But the cumulative effect is one of great power. It shows in the climaxes toward the end.

Too, one can accept the sordid foundation for the play, because of that remarkably impulsiveness which O'Neill exhibits toward spiritual things. The note of spirituality is no new one with him, but it is beautifully struck in the closing scene of his curious nine-act drama.

At least, he will in large numbers want to see it at once.

Principals are secondary to authorship and drama in this instance. The cast at the Biltmore includes Pauline Lord in the role of Nina, Ralph Morgan as Marsden, Donald Macdonald as Evans, and Harry C. Bannister as Edmund Darrell. These are the four major roles.

Of the performance those of Morgan and Macdonald were the most consistently good. Though I must give large credit to Harry C. Bannister for his drawing of the difficult character of the doctor, I am not so sure that the impression he achieved in this will not last the longest, indeed, though it does not perhaps bring the greatest popular response.

I would not term Miss Lord an ideal Nina. She is superlative in the later scenes, but her earlier ones were deficient both in nuance and to some extent in feeling. She is best in the maturer portion of the portrayal, lending rare sentiment and conviction to these. Morgan received applause for his speaking of one notably forceful "aside," while Macdonald's transition of character toward the end was relished. Others are Walter Vonnegut, Maud Durand, Lester Sheehy, Helen Ann Hughes and James Todd. One fault that showed itself was the failure of the players adequately to differentiate between the soliloquizing and direct conversation at times. But this particular job is inherently difficult.

Director-Writer Combine Lauded

Richard Barthelmess has returned from a visit to Mexico City with Mrs. Barthelmess, and is enjoying the reclame which is his as the result of the success of "Weary River" at the Paramount.

"Dick" is generous in the matter of crediting his colleagues in the making of those pictures which star himself. To Frank Lloyd, his director, and to Miss Bradley King, the scenarist, who wrote both screen story and dialogue for "Weary River," he has accorded the full meed of praise.

Miss King now is writing the next Barthelmess story, which Frank Lloyd will direct.

A Novelist Turns Playwright

It Has Happened Before

But not with Louis Bromfield, whose best seller, "The Green Bay Tree," reaches the stage of the Figueroa Playhouse this evening as "The House of Women." In this fourth dramatic excursion of the Los Angeles Repertory Theater, Olive Tell (above) figures prominently.

GONDOLIERS A MERRY CREW

Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Oasis in Desert of Jazz; Savoyards Score Again at Mason

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

"The Gondoliers" graced the stage at the Mason last night as once more the D'Oyly Carte company changed itself at the bidding of Gilbert and Sullivan. The King of Barataria was duly chosen after two hours of the most delightful persiflage ever put to light, but good, music. The voices were shown to advantage in this musical nonsense and the orchestra provided the balanced tone. It was capably directed, although the program forgot to mention the name of the holder of the responsible baton.

These English operettas, when played by a well-trained company such as this D'Oyly Carte organization, are oases in the American desert of Broadway jazzeries. The girls are pretty and their ankles, (what we could see of them) are trim, but wonder-of-wonders, they sing English and they look like people, "nice people" I mean. The gentlemen of this cast have voices and both the men and women can sing four and eight-part interludes in tune and intricate rhythm. There isn't a tap dancer in the lot, but in its place a polite grace that is utterly charming.

Bertha Lewis as the Duchess of Plaza-Toro is a consummate actress. She never stepped out of her part and was at all times the personification of cultivated hauteur. Her beauty as the grande dame was arresting. The tender little contadine were led by Marjorie Eyre and Beatrice Elburn, both of whom sang well in solo, duet and in quartet with the fateful gondoliers, Marco and Guiseppe.

An amusing incident which might have occurred in any high school production convulsed the audience at one point and nearly stopped the show. During an elaborate court scene, a stage helper walked across the ultramarine sky with a milkman's stool in his hands. His sudden bewilderment at finding himself in front of the audience was a contagious moment of embarrassment.

The Duke was sung by Henry A. Lytton with all the inimitable bits of stage business that only years of theater experience can make natural. One wished for more of him. Sydney Granville as Don Alhambra wore the perfect costume and displayed a delicate sense of promiscuous appreciation of the ladies.

The lilt and light of "The Gondoliers" will remain in the memory of Los Angeles theater-goers long after this entertaining company has departed for London.

COMEDY STAR WRITES

Reginald Denny is certainly proving versatile to the nth degree. Having written the dialogue for his previous three pictures in which he starred, the Universal comedy satellite is now earning extra compensation by collaborating with Edward J. Montagne, scenario editor-in-chief, on the writing of the dialogue for "Companionate Troubles," his next talking production.

EARNS NEW TITLE

May McAvoy, acclaimed as "The Vitaphone Girl" in a voting contest conducted several months ago by eastern exhibitors, is proving another accomplishment. During the past month, the former Warner Brothers star has contributed two articles on talking pictures which are to make their appearance shortly in film publication.

Thomson Makes Successive Hits

Only recently returned to Hollywood from a vacation jaunt to Atlanta, Ga., and other Atlantic seaboard cities, Kenneth Thomson reportedly has been deluged with film offers. He has just signed for the second male lead in the forthcoming Al Jolson picture for Warner Brothers.

He returned to find local critics and theatergoers praising him for two noteworthy performances here—in "The Broadway Melody" at Grauman's Chinese Theater and "The Bellamy Trial" at Loew's State.

Hailing from the New York stage, which he deserted two years ago, Thomson's first notable film performance was in the lead of "White Gold," the William K. Howard production which won so much favorable comment. He was seen on the stage here several months ago at the Belasco Theater in "The Devil's Plum Tree," with Ruth Chatterton.

Sojin Attends "Rescue" Show

Sojin, Japanese film star, will make a personal appearance at the Million Dollar tomorrow night preceding the showing of "The Rescue," in which he scores in the role of an oriental pirate. Ronald Colman is starred in this drama of the Java seas, directed by Herbert Brenon.

Kosaku Midzusawa, Japanese consul, has been invited to attend and service clubs, women's societies and other organizations of the local Japanese colony are planning theater parties on this occasion.

Sojin has achieved his greatest screen triumphs in Samuel Goldwyn productions and it was at this same theater that he appeared a year ago in person at the world premiere of "The Devil Dancer," with Gilda Gray.

The lobby of the Million Dollar will be specially decorated tomorrow night with festoons of cherry blossoms and Japanese lanterns.

Hoover Talkie is Rushed Here

The inauguration of Herbert Hoover as President of the United States, reproduced in sound and dialogue on Fox Movietone talking news, will be seen on the screen at Loew's State tomorrow, forty-eight hours after the actual events pictured.

This is said to represent a new speed record for broadcasting, via the talking screen, an occurrence thousands of miles away.

Wire has just been received that the film has been shipped by air mail and should arrive here tomorrow.

The news special will be an added attraction on the program, which ends tomorrow and features "The Bellamy Trial," talking courtroom murder trial drama. The inaugural reels will continue to be shown, however, during the following week.

OAKIE P. A. FOR ARLEN

Jack Oakie, Paramount's sure cure for the blues, the talkative, ex-vaudeville song-and-dance specialist who has been cast in practically every Lasky picture made since he was signed to contract, is assigned to still another part. He will play Layton, the cocksure press agent, in the all-talking picture "The Man I Love," a romance of the boxing ring which features Richard Arlen and Mary Brian. William Wellman is to direct.

NIGHT-CLUB HOSTESS IN FILM DEBUT

Giving This "Little" Girl a Big Hand Not So Easy; New Warner Show

BY MARQUIS BUSBY

That thrinking little flower of the New York night clubth, Texath Guinan, maketh her firth and quite likely her lath Vitaphone appearanth in "Queen of the Night Clubth," which wath premiered yetherday at Warner Brotherth Theater in Hollywood. There may have been better lithping in other talking pictures, but thith writer hath never heard it. Texath juth lithps all over the plathe. Texath ith not the type to get away with a lithp, either. The audience laughed in all the wrong plathes during the showing yetherday.

Texas may be a bright light along Broadway's gay white way, but she shines very faintly in "moompitchers." If someone could write her dialogue without any s's she might do better, but even disregarding her voice Tex is the weakest thing in "Queen of the Night Clubs," which can be regarded as a broad, sweeping statement.

After years of watching picture plots, experience has taught me that when a character discloses the fact that she has a lost son, the first good-looking boy to wander in front of the camera is the fair-haired child in person. Otherwise it would have been bad for my heart to hear Tex quite unexpectedly address Eddie Foy, Jr., as "my son" and hear Eddie call Tex "mother."

Cutting on the picture is terrifically bad. As it stands, it is neither logical nor convincing. Dialogue breaks off suddenly, and action begins on an entirely different sequence. It is practically impossible to follow the plot, though originally there must have been some sort of a plot, however weak.

Tex appears as a night club hostess. She exhorts her patrons to give the little girlith a big hand. There is a shooting fray, followed by a particularly inept courtroom sequence, in which gun play figures as prominently as in a Tom Mix drama of the big open spaces.

Just where the burden of blame belongs in "Queen of the Night Clubs" is hard to say. Bryan Foy, who directed it, has made several successful Vitaphone pictures. Work of the supporting cast is of high standard. The story, of course, was tailored to measure for the star and can be dismissed. Cutting, undoubtedly, is the major fault. Scenes were slashed unmercifully to get the picture in short running time. Dialogue is singularly trite.

Lila Lee impresses in voice and acting performance as a cafe dancer. Her personality is well suited to talking pictures.

Eddie Foy, Jr., has little opportunity to display his ability as an entertainer. He photographs nicely and should be successful in worthier productions. John Davidson scores as Don Holland, the owner of the night club, and is the possessor of an effective speaking voice. Others in the cast are Jack Norworth, John Miljan, William Davidson, Jimmie Phillips and Lee Shumway.

The Larry Ceballos stage revue bears the lively title of "Whooping It Up." Apparently insufficient time was allowed the ensemble members for change of costumes yesterday. The West Point drill number looked like an "undress" parade and other entertainers on the bill attempted to complete their "buttoning" on the stage. This fault will undoubtedly be corrected in later performances.

Those appearing in the stage revue include Dabney and Fredericks, Nadine Wayne, Barrett Greenwood, Richard Powell and Madeline and George Raft, a clever dancer. The closing number is the best, presenting the ensemble dressed in red in a picturesque atmosphere of Hades.

Tuneful Music Show Revived

Having just finished a week of drama, and with another "heavy" dramatic vehicle scheduled for Monday, the Lafayette Players, that versatile colored troupe, last night proffered "Irene," musical comedy.

"Irene," as all the world knows, is one of those musical plays that sends an audience from the theater humming. It is aglow with tuneful songs, peppy dances and all the ingredients that one likes to find in a musical attraction—plus a few more thrown in for good measure.

In addition to "Alice Blue Gown," "Castle of Dreams," "The Last Part of Every Party" and other favorites of the play, the Lafayette Players render several song numbers quite separate from the production. Evelyn Preer fills the title role of Irene O'Dare in a whimsical manner, and before the evening is done, she provides the audience with a couple of those "blues" songs that made "Queen High" and "Little Jessie James" more or less un-

THIEF SUSPECT SHOT BY VICTIM

Venturan Fires at Negro Working at Window

Hurts Not Deemed Fatal by Hospital Authorities

Report States Plunder Found on Injured Man

VENTURA, March 4. — Joe Williams, 42-year-old negro, is in the General Hospital today, recovering from a bullet wound through the body, given him by William Himes, when the negro is said to have attempted to force an entrance into Himes's home on East Meta street, late last night. The shot, fired from a .44-caliber pistol, struck Williams in the right hand and penetrated his body, according to Capt. Joe Myres of the city police.

According to Myres's report of the shooting, Himes was at home with his wife and son, and was preparing to retire. As he did so, he heard a noise at the window and turned to see the negro, who had cut a hole in the wire screen on the window.

Himes seized a revolver which he purchased after being robbed Christmas night, and fired through the hole.

Williams, Myres said, turned from the window and staggered down the street to Meta and California streets, where he pulled himself into a yard and dropped in a heap. Night Officer George Sharpe found him there soon afterward.

According to Myres, Williams is suspected of having been on a burglarizing spree and the Himes home was the fifth which he is thought to have tried to enter during the evening.

The first report of the activities of a burglar came to the police about 10:20, when they learned that the James McGlinchey home, also on Meta street, had also been entered and a $10 bill and a check taken.

The home of E. D. Biggs, 1081 Meta street, had also been entered, as had a home on California street and another on Meta street.

When the police found Williams, they said they found several watches on him.

TIMELY ARRIVAL FRIGHTENS INTRUDER

GLENDALE, March 4. — A 200-pound burglar who entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Blakey at 1265 Thompson street last night, sought to efface himself beneath the bed when he heard the family entering the front door. Mrs. Blakey entered the bedroom to lay aside her wraps and discovered the burglar, and when her husband entered the room on hearing her screams, he found the invader crawling out from beneath the bed with a large revolver in his hand.

The burglar ordered Blakey to stand aside and the latter, who was unarmed, was forced to obey in the face of the burglar's gun.

The burglar fled from the house, climbing over the back fence and leaving behind a watch and a part of its chain that caught on the fence as he scaled it. Nothing was missing from the house and police are convinced that he had only been in the building a few minutes before he was interrupted.

Monrovia Youth Due on Vacation

MONROVIA, March 4. — E. F. Spence, Jr., son of former City Councilman E. F. Spence, is expected to arrive here the latter part of this week from Costa Rica, where he has been in the employ of the United Fruit Company for nearly two years. He is on a two-months' vacation, following which he will be transferred to Panama by the fruit company. Spence graduated from the University of Southern California in 1927, went to Boston to a fraternity convention, connected with the fruit concern while there and sailed immediately for Central America.

MAN DIES IN FIRST FIRE OF SEASON

Montrose Youth Succumbs to Injuries Received as Volunteer at Brush Blaze

MONTROSE, March 4.—Milford Robert Howard, 23 years of age, who was injured while fighting the brush fire that swept Pickens Canyon Friday, died yesterday, the first victim of the fire season of 1929.

Howard had answered the call for volunteers and was walking along a trail up the canyon when a rock that had been dislodged struck him at the base of the skull, knocking him down into a gully where he was found by rescuers, who were forced to cut a path before they could reach him to bring him out.

He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde G. Howard, 3548 Buena Vista street, Sparr Heights, and two sisters, Mary Anne and Virginia Howard. Funeral services will be conducted following the inquest.

Missing Couple Return to Home

GLENDALE, March 4.—The mystery of the disappearance of Mr. and Mrs. John Doemling, artists, of 1436 Tenth street, was cleared up when they returned to their home here last night and found their friends and the police directing a search for them that extended over a large part of Southern California. The Doemlings had invited a group of friends to visit them on the 3rd inst., which fell on Sunday, but the Doemlings had forgotten to remove the leaves from their 1929 calendar and were going by a January calendar, which showed the 3rd inst. to be on a Thursday.

Whittier to Honor Judges

WHITTIER, March 4.—California's Supreme Court judges are to be honor guests of the local Forum Club and the Chamber of Commerce at a joint meeting to be held at the William Penn Hotel here tomorrow evening, and will be greeted also by members of the Whittier Bar Association. The meeting will take the place of the monthly luncheon of the Forum Club. Among the eminent jurists expected are Chief Justice William H. Waste and Justices Emmett Seawell, Jess W. Curtis, John W. Preston, John E. Richards, John W. Schenck and W. H. Langdon.

Union Station Plan Advances

BALDWIN PARK, March 4.—Efforts are being made here to obtain a union station of the Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric with a telegraph office at the junction of those two lines here. This action resulted from a recent visit of a Southern Pacific representative here who informed H. A. Miller, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, that the Irwindale station of that line probably would be moved here.

D. J. Shultis, H. A. Miller and J. D. Rea comprise a chamber committee to further the union depot proposition.

CONTRACT AWARDED OVER STOUT PROTEST

SAN DIEGO, March 4. — Overriding opposition from Supervisor Edgar Hastings of the First District, the Board of Supervisors today voted to award the contract for Vista La Mesa paving to R. E. Hazard Contracting Company, on the latter's low bid of $234,000.

Hastings, in whose district the proposed improvement lies, opposed the award, contending the assessment would be the fifth against the property involved and that the bid was too high in comparison with the engineer's estimate of cost. The bid exceeded the estimate by 10 per cent, it was stated, but was the lowest of a number submitted.

Young Boy Killed in Auto Driven by Mother

Numerous Hurts Received in Various Crashes

SANTA MARIA, March 4. (AP)—Patrick Holland, 16-year-old prep-school football player, was killed near here late last night in an overturned automobile. His companion, Kenneth Stewart, was slightly injured.

ORANGE COUNTY LISTS KILLED AND INJURED

SANTA ANA, March 4. — One dead, one reported dying, eleven injured and six men in jail or facing probable charges, was the week-end toll of Orange county traffic.

Gene Stroppe, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Stroppe of Long Beach, was crushed to death when a car driven by his mother was knocked from the highway near Westminster by a small coupe driven by Joseph Stillwell, 74, of Long Beach. The mother and a 10-year-old son, and an unidentified woman escaped with bruises.

William Purdin, 30, of Huntington Beach, was probably fatally injured last night when a car driven by Fred Mullens, 30, of Huntington Beach, turned over in making a fast turn at Bristol street and Delhi Road. Officers reported finding a flask of liquor near the wrecked machine. Mullens also sustained a broken arm and internal injuries, while another passenger, D. P. Eldridge, 40, suffered a broken hip.

Deputy Sheriff M. E. Jemison was internally hurt while making a riot call when his machine crashed with a machine driven by William Hallner of Los Angeles. Jemison was not scratched, but collapsed later and was taken to the County Hospital. None of the five occupants of the Hallner car was hurt.

Mrs. L. E. Sharp, 23, an employee of the May Company in Los Angeles, is in the Santa Ana Valley Hospital with a fractured pelvis and her lower limbs partially paralyzed, while Z. N. Neel, 26, of this city, is in the County Hospital with fractured ribs and internal injuries as the result of a crash between cars driven by Neel and the woman's husband. Neel faces a charge of driving while intoxicated, according to police reports.

Ray Wallace, former deputy sheriff, was slightly hurt Saturday at 9:30 p.m., when he was run down by a car driven by D. O. Minter, 836 North Parton street.

Three men were held in the County Jail for asserted violation of traffic laws, though not involved in any accidents. They were B. B. Jones, 25, chauffeur, of 383 North Center street, Orange, charged with driving while intoxicated yesterday evening at San Clemente; R. B. Blankenship, 23, of Santa Fe Springs, arrested on a reckless-driving charge, and Jack Baragary, 32, engineer, of Downey, charged with driving while intoxicated in Santa Ana.

CHECK PASSER WORKS IN HUNTINGTON PARK

HUNTINGTON PARK, March .—A strange woman chose Washington's Birthday as a good day on which to pass checks on Walnut Park and Huntington Park merchants, the banks being closed on that day. As a result, eight checks have been returned to a bank in which they had been deposited marked "Returned, unable to locate account." The checks were drawn upon the Consolidated National Bank of Tucson, Ariz.

The woman is said to have made purchases at the stores and in payment, presented checks ranging from $10 to $35. After receiving small amounts of merchandise, the remainder of the face of checks was given in cash.

Local officers investigating, have been informed that the woman is about 28 years of age; that she is about 5ft. 5in. in height, slender, weighs about 115 pounds, dark complexion, bobbed hair cut boyish style, wears a riding habit, red coat and has no hat.

MONTEREY PARK, March 4.—Charles Sourp of 226 North Florence avenue is in the Garfield Hospital suffering from a bullet wound in his abdomen. Sourp was injured when a small-caliber pistol which he was attempting to unload was accidentally discharged. The bullet entered his left side below the ribs, physicians stated. He is expected to recover.

CAR LINE SALE REPORTED

Santa Barbara Street System Declared Bought by Group of Northern Railroad Officials

SANTA BARBARA, March 4.—Negotiations for the purchase of the Santa Barbara Suburban Railway for which a petition to abandon service has been filed by the Southern California Edison Company with the State Railroad Commission, are reported to be practically completed. It is understood that a group of railroad officials from a Northern California city are planning the purchase.

W. Nelson Whitmore, secretary of the State-street Property Owners' Association, admitted today that purchase of the lines was being consummated. Concurrently with Whittemore's announcement, it was learned from local sources that the Railroad Commission has signed the decision granting the Edison company permission to abandon the street-car service here, but that publication of the decision was being held up pending the outcome of the deal.

It is understood that the commission's decree, which has been awaited since the trolley company made formal plea for abandonment several months ago, includes a provision by which the company will have sixty days in which to discontinue its service in the city. Postponement of publication will prevent legal entanglement if the system is to be sold, it is explained, and would give the buyer a clear path to its purchase.

It is expected that a notice of intention to buy the holdings of the railroad company will be filed in the County Recorder's office within a few days.

CITY RESURRECTING ITS BURIED STREETS

MANHATTAN BEACH, March 4. Buried cities of the Old World have nothing on this place, where the removal of literally thousands of square yards of sand has been necessary within the last few months to unearth street paving and other improvements installed many years ago. The streets which have been recently opened up in this manner lie in the southeasterly section of the city, in a district which was improved and subdivided soon after the city was incorporated, but in which extensive building was not carried on until the latter part of last year. Increased settlement has made the removal of the sand, which had drifted over the streets undisturbed, imperative. The work is being carried on under the supervision of the street department.

FUNERAL FOR LAWYER

SAN DIEGO, March 4.—Last rites were conducted today for Louis Utt, well-known attorney here, who was killed Friday in Lower California by the accidental discharge of his shotgun while dove hunting. The body was brought here yesterday from Mexicali, where it has been taken for an inquest following the accident fifty miles south of the border.

He is being treated for severe injuries which may keep him in the hospital for several weeks.

SCHOOL GOING AIRY

Chino High Auditorium Roof Being Lettered for Aviators

CHINO, March 4.—The roof of the auditorium over Chino high school building is about to serve a purpose other than keeping rainfall out of the building, having been selected as the best spot on which to paint the name of this city in such large letters that aviators flying at high altitudes will be able to read the name. J. A. Latham, president of the school board, will present the matter to the board. He expressed belief that the school board will be favorable to the move. A well-known paint company has offered to provide the paint for the job.

ORANGE VICTOR IN ANNEXATION

Appellate Court Reverses Rulings of Superior

Santa Ana Loses Contest for West Orange Strip

Decision Automatically Annuls Recent Actions

SANTA ANA, March 4.—The city of Orange today appeared to have triumphed temporarily, at least, in its contest with Santa Ana over the annexation of West Orange territory claimed by both cities, with receipt of an Appellate Court decision reversing the Orange County Superior Court and validating the proceedings by which Orange annexed a strip of West Orange territory along Chapman avenue.

The decision, unless upset, automatically annuls the Santa Ana annexation of West Orange, which followed the Orange annexation, and which involves some of the same strip, according to legal opinion expressed here today.

Attorneys Scarborough, Forgy and Reinhaus, representing Sigfrid Swanson and F. E. Wilson of Orange who opposed the Orange annexation, announced today that a rehearing would be sought in the Appellate Court and, if it is denied, an appeal will be filed with the Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, it was said, a second court action, brought by the city of Orange against the city of Santa Ana, known as quo warranto proceedings, to set aside the Santa Ana annexation proceedings, probably will be decided favorably to Orange, in view of the Appellate Court decision. Hearing of the action had been deferred until the appeal in the Orange case was decided.

The Orange annexation of West Orange took place last spring immediately after a proposal to annex the West Orange territory to Santa Ana had been defeated. Swanson and Wilson filed suit to set aside the Orange annexation on the ground that the annexation petition had been prematurely filed with the Orange City Council before the returns of the unsuccessful Santa Ana election had been canvassed; also on the ground that the strip annexed was not legally contiguous to Orange. Superior Judge James L. Allen granted the suit and invalidated the annexation on the second ground. The city of Orange appealed.

City Attorney Harry L. Dearing of Orange, and the firm of Drumm & Tucker, as special counsel, represent Orange in the litigation. City Attorney Charles Swanner represents Santa Ana in the quo warranto case.

Valley Chambers Announce March Dinner Session

MONROVIA, March 4.—Members of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the San Gabriel Valley will hold their March dinner meeting here tomorrow night in the Elks' clubhouse. The session will start with a 6:30 dinner, served by Sanford Harris, chef of the Elks' dining-room.

The principal addresses will be given by Frank H. Bivens, vice-president of the Southern Counties Gas Company, and James Mussatti, editor of the Tax Digest. The latter will speak on "Business With Relation to Government."

Plans are made to seat 300. The group will be welcomed by Mayor A. J. Little and the response will be made by Walter Keefe, gas company manager here and vice-president of the association. An extensive musical entertainment program has been arranged in addition to the talks and business session.

Officers of the association are George Dake, San Gabriel; Keefe, vice-president; T. H. Lambert, El Monte, second vice-president, and Charles Bayer, Los Angeles, secretary.

NEW SPORT DEVELOPS AT REDONDO BEACH

REDONDO BEACH, March 4.—A jetty formed by debris from the former pier causing sand to fill in around the base of the new pier here forming a bed of shallow water has produced a new sport among fishermen, that of snaring starfish and similar crustaceans from the pier with gaff hooks. They can be clearly seen in the shallow water. At the Monstad pier a sand pump has been installed to remove the sand bars which interfered with boat landings at that point.

WHEAT KING VIEWS AIMS OF RUSSIA

Prediction Made That Land of Former Czar Will Soon Dominate Europe

PASADENA, March 4.—Russia will dominate Europe twenty-five years from now, in the opinion of Thomas D. Campbell of this city and Montana, who has just returned from an inspection of agricultural conditions in Russia. Campbell, the owner of one of the greatest wheat farms in the world in Montana, conferred recently with President Hoover in Washington.

The wheat expert stated today that he has not yet decided whether or not he will accept the invitation of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics to supervise the seeding of a great Russian experimental farm.

It is the belief of the agricultural authority that Russia is being led by some of the brainiest men in the world and will be one of the strongest European powers within twenty-five years.

Campbell is confident that farmers will regain "a belated prosperity" under President Hoover.

Vernon to Get New Aircraft Motor Factory

VERNON, March 4.—Another new plant is to be erected by the Axelson Machine Company on their site at State and Randolph streets. The site of the building will be at the rear of the present plant, and it is stated that approximately $100,000 will be expended in this new addition. It is planned to manufacture 100 motors a month and the working staff will be increased from seventy-five to 100 men, when the new airplane plant is in operation.

Straight Roads Dangerous

It is on the roads "called straight" that most of the automobile accidents happen, in one State at least. Statistics gathered in California list 2500 accidents, out of a total of 3499, for the month of October as having occurred while the motorists were driving on straight roads.

This recalls the traditions that unloaded guns have killed more people than loaded ones. More people are injured falling on stairs than are hurt in football encounters. Bathtubs are notorious for their treacherous treatment of bathers.

It is hard to realize the necessity of being on guard against steps, tubs, unloaded guns and straight roads. All drivers slow up and peer carefully ahead at curves, even though modern highway commissions have done away with most of the bad ones. Only the more obvious dangers win a driver's full attention. On the straightaway he steps on the gas. He feels free to look around at the passengers in the rear seat to see how his conversation is being received. The roving glance forward reveals imminent danger with hardly time for a scream.—[New York Times.

The Industrious Navajo

Different from most of the Indian tribes of this country, the Navajo Indians of the Southwest are keen for work. Everyone has some responsibility. Particularly is this true of the women. They herd sheep. They cook. They wash and repair and fabricate garments. And withal they card and spin and dye and weave eternally. You visit them and sit down to talk a half-hour, but their fingers race on with the work in hand all the time of the visit as if their very life depended upon completion of the task before them. The children herd cattle. The men hunt, haul and round up suppolies, and between times they knit socks for themselves.

Calls on His One-Time Prisoner

Forty years ago the head and front of the English labor movement was John Burns, who afterward occupied a Cabinet position, but at present he is in retirement, being 70 years of age. When he was engaged in agitating in Trafalgar Square he was arrested by a policeman who has also since achieved fame. The policeman—now R. Hamilton, J. P., a prosperous personality in Australia, recently visited London and paid a visit to Mr. Burns. He is now chairman of Eidsvold Shire Council, in Queensland, which administers an area of 5000 square miles.

At Klamath Falls, Or., hot springs heat the houses on one side of the fine residential hills. Each householder has his own hot well, using fire only for cooking.

SAWTELLE HOME HEAD HITS PLEA

Col. Hadley Declares Aid Not Needed by Veterans to Obtain Amusement

Mail solicitation being made for the ostensible purpose of furnishing entertainment and amusement for veterans of the Soldier's Home in Sawtelle should be stopped as unreasonable, unnecessary and uncalled for, according to Col. John A. Hadley, governor of the home, in a communication sent to the Department of Social Service in the City Hall.

The solicitations, mailed to motion picture companies and public spirited citizens, are on letterheads of the Disabled American Veterans of Sawtelle, Post No. 10, signed by "Frank J. Irwin, commander," according to W. J. Fitzmaurice, investigator for the social service department.

Irwin's assertion is that no amusement has been furnished for invalids in the Soldiers' Home since June, 1928, according to his solicitations.

Col. Hadley in his communication had the following to say:

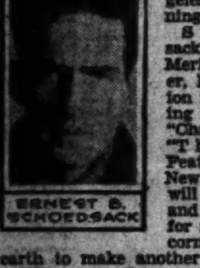
"Am enclosing a copy of the amusement program at the home for the week beginning February 17, which speaks for itself. That program is a fair example of what each week's amusement activities consist here. You will agree that the members in the hospitals and barracks here are not allowed to suffer for lack of amusement.

"It is true that there are 262 patients in the tuberculosis hospital who are segregated by reason of their affliction. Of these 175 are ambulatory cases which can and do attend amusements both in the home and outside. All amusements in the home are given free to the members and you will note that a great many theaters and other activities on the outside grant free admission to members of the home. The amusements that can be furnished to bed patients is necessarily very limited as the larger part of the men are very sick and it would be difficult to find entertainment of a nature to benefit them.

"In addition to the recreation and amusement provided by program, radio entertainment is furnished to all patients in both hospitals. There are but two blind men and no deaf men in the tuberculosis hospital."

Jungle Picture Man Plans Trip Into New Wilds

Bound for a destination which he describes as "somewhere east of the setting sun," Ernest B. Schoedsack, explorer-producer, left Los Angeles last evening.



ERNEST B. SCHOEDSACK

Schoedsack will join Merian C. Cooper, his companion in the making of "Grass," "Chang" and "The Four Feathers," in New York. They will go to Paris and then depart for an unknown corner of the earth to make another production.

"There are three corners of the world where white men have never stepped. Cooper and I will go to one of these but its whereabouts must remain a secret until we return," Schoedsack said.

Cooper left Hollywood three weeks ago on completion of "The Four Feathers," for which they went to the African Sudan. Schoedsack remained to complete cutting and editing the film.

The film adventurers went to Persian wildernesses for "Grass" and to remote parts of Siam for "Chang."

Conrad Named to School Post Kersey Vacated

Warren Cross Conrad, director of library and textbook activities for the Los Angeles city school district, last night was appointed to fill the vacancy created when Vierland Kersey resigned as assistant superintendent of schools to become State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

When Venice was annexed to Los Angeles, Mr. Conrad was the superintendent of schools there. Through the annexation his position was abolished and for a year he acted as principal in one of the elementary city schools and later as director for the vacation schools. When the vacancy occurred in the library and textbook department he was named to fill it.

Mr. Conrad will take up his new duties today.

Motorcyclist and Auto Set Afire in Crash

Norman Thompson, 16 years of age, of 836 South Fedora street, yesterday ran a motorcycle into a parked car, setting fire to himself, the motorcycle and the automobile.

At West Boulevard and Country Club Drive he had rounded a corner too sharply, crashing into a car owned by Geicher Cooley of 2181 West Thirty-first street. Gasoline spilled over him and immediately he was ablaze. Firemen extinguished the blaze, and sent Norman to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. He was treated for burns and a possible fracture of the hip.

PALESTINE SOCIETY TO HONOR OFFICERS

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, Marco H. Hellman and Dr. D. W. Edelman, will speak at the testimonial banquet to be given for Judge Hollzer and Adolph Fleishman at the Ambassador on Thursday evening. The banquet will be under the auspices of the Nathan Straus Palestine Society, of which Judge Hollzer is the retiring president. Mr. Fleishman is newly-elected to that office.

SITE DEADLOCK CONTINUES

Supervisors Fail to Decide State Building Location; Governor's Letter Filed Without Comment

County Supervisors failed to break the deadlock over a site for a new State building yesterday, when Gov. Young's letter, requesting that the northwest corner of Temple and Broadway be purchased, was received officially and filed. No comment was forth coming on the situation.

It is known, however, that three sites are under consideration. Supervisor Wright favors the one at Temple and Broadway. Supervisor McClellan favors the one at the northwest corner of First and Hill. Supervisor Graves wants the one at the northeast corner of First and Hill. Supervisor Beatty has stated no public preference, but is believed to favor the site championed by Supervisor McClellan. Supervisor Shaw, the newest member of the board, has not made his preference known.

MAJORITY REQUIRED

It is necessary for a majority of the board to decide the question, but it is considered unusual for the board to decide such an important matter as the expenditure of at least $500,000 for land on so narrow a margin as a three-to-two decision. It is customary, rather, for the decision to be reached at a committee meeting and confirmed at an open session of the board, generally by a unanimous vote.

Supervisor Wright, who favors the Temple-street site, but who says he is not irrevocably committed to it, announced yesterday that a reduction in price had been obtained from the owners, which makes it next to the cheapest site to be considered. It is on a high, sightly corner, and surrounded by property that would not be costly to condemn.

There is now $615,000 in the county treasury, set apart for acquiring property in the Civic Center area, according to Supervisor Wright. It would work no hardship on any county building program or other enterprise if this money were to be spent immediately, the Supervisor stated yesterday.

OPERA CLUB PLAYS FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

HOLLYWOOD ORGANIZATION to EXTEND PROGRAM FOR STUDENTS' BENEFIT

At yesterday's meeting of the Opera Reading Club of Hollywood Mrs. Louis H. Jaques announced that the organization will extend to the high schools a series of opera programs such as the club now has monthly. The first of the series will be for Hollywood High School on April 3.

The programs will be given with the same artists rendering them as now appear at the club meetings, with the club sponsoring. The opera "Thais" was presented yesterday by Alice Forsythe Mosher, Glen Dolberg, Mary Teithsworth, Nellie Walker, Cornelia Glover and Calmon Luboviski. Dr. Frank Nagel gave an analysis of music and story with orchestral illustrations.

At the luncheon which followed in the Hotel Roosevelt Arthur Ryan, toastmaster, introduced May Robson, Margaret Mann, Dr. Nagel, L. E. Behymer, Lois Wilson, Kenneth Macgowan, Gay Seabrook, Mrs. John Steven McGroarty, Mrs. Lyman Stookey, Granma Wakeman, Edward Novis, Ruth Nagel, Dorothy Kemper, Jimmie Mac, Georgia Griffith, Mrs. Leila Atherton Irish and Mrs. Haskell Freeman.

GARAGE MAN INJURED IN INDOOR ACCIDENT

An indoor automobile accident yesterday sent Joe Ramsauer, 28 years of age, garage employee of the Walter M. Murphy Motor Company, 943 South Grand avenue, to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. Ramsauer was crushed between a backing car and a wall in the service garage. He suffered a possible fracture of the left leg. After being treated he was transferred to the Santa Fe Hospital.

FILM PAIR APPLY FOR LICENSE TO MARRY

William Holt Dietz, a moving-picture cameraman, and Barbara Hunter Elder, known in Hollywood as Barbara Hunter, a film editor, filed an application for a marriage license at Santa Barbara yesterday. They gave their ages as 28 and 30 years, respectively. They plan to be married at the Samarkand Hotel in Santa Barbara Friday.

BALL BAT INJURES BOY

While playing baseball on the Vernon school grounds yesterday Arthur Johnson, 11 years of age, of 1730 East Forty-first street, accidentally was hit on the head by a bat. It was wielded by Donald Derricks, 11, of 1337 East Forty-third street. Arthur was rushed to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Sebastian operated for a depressed skull fracture.

UNIVERSITY RESEARCHES PUBLISHED

Discoveries of U.C.L.A. Scholars Made Available to General Public

In order to make available to the public important research work conducted by the scholars of the University of California at Los Angeles faculty, the university has decided to publish the series of research lectures given annually at the university by its members.

The first of these has just been issued and is the lecture delivered by Dr. Sheperd Ivory Franz, professor of psychology, in 1926. It is entitled "How the Brain Works," and deals with research conducted by Dr. Franz to discover what portions of the cerebrum are especially associated with various motor and sensory reactions of the body.

One of the important results of his study as revealed in the discussion is that although portions of the brain associated with certain functions of the body may be destroyed, other portions of the cerebrum undertake to assume these functions under a system of reeducation.

Other research lectures delivered by university scholars and which are shortly to be published are: "Fossil Birds of California," by Dr. Loye Miller, delivered in 1925; "A Government of Laws or a Government of Men, or Judicial or Legislative Supremacy," by Dr. Charles G. Haines in 1927, and the "Electro-Magnet as a Spinning Top," by Dr. Samuel Barnett last year.

Dr. Ernest C. Moore, director of the university, has announced that the 1929 research lecture will be given by Dr. Earle R. Hedrick, chairman of the mathematics department.

Young Miss Gets 'Lost' for Twelfth Time

Norma Brown, 8-year-old golden-haired Hollywood miss, seems to enjoy getting lost. In fact, she has been a steady customer of the Hollywood police division for three months.

Last night the child made her twelfth trip to the station after Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Ream discovered her tearfully sobbing on the front porch of their home at 5721 Waring street.

When Police Captains McCaleb and Hack and Patrolman Pearson gazed on the "found child" they recognized their young friend. She was marched along the rows of cells at the station and informed that she eventually will occupy something of that order if she doesn't stay at home. The officers then returned her to her parents at the family home, 900 Orange Grove avenue, Hollywood.

Shortly before Norma appeared at the station in custody of Mr. and Mrs. Ream her parents had discovered her absence and notified the missing persons bureau at the Sheriff's office.

Alber Will Have Race Opposition

P. W. Croake, Westlake district realty operator, last night announced his candidacy for Councilman for the Second Councilmanic District in opposition to Arthur Alber, incumbent.

Croake led the fight against the widening and repaving of Sunset Boulevard during a spirited argument in 1924 and declared the reviving of this plan is one of the reasons he will oppose Alber. He also cites objection on the part of Hollywood residents to assessments and awards too hurriedly "put through the Council," by the present Councilman.

Mr. Croake's offices are located at 2711 West Seventh street.

AUTO MAKER ARRIVES

DuBois Young Visits Los Angeles for Several Weeks' Stay

DuBois Young, president of the Hupp Motor Corporation of Detroit, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday on the Southern Pacific's Golden State Limited to attend the annual automobile show. He refused to be interviewed on business affairs.

"I expect to stay in Los Angeles for several weeks," Young said last night at his suite in the Ambassador.

RARE SPECIMEN RECEIVED

University Gets Skull of Saber-Toothed Tiger That Lived 10,000,000 Years Ago

Visual evidence of evolution's modification of the saber-toothed tiger over a period of some 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 years is now afforded students of the University of California at Los Angeles as the result of a specimen just received by the biology department from the State School of Mines of South Dakota.

The specimen is the skull of a Dinictis, or saber-toothed tiger, who flourished on this continent in the Oligocene period, many millions of years before the era of the Smilodon, which is the scientific name for the saber-toothed tiger of which fossils are found in the La Brea pits in Los Angeles.

SKULLS COMPARED

The striking difference between the skull of the Dinictis and of his descendant of the La Brea pits, is the presence in the former of teeth which have disappeared completely in the specimens of the more modern Smilodon.

Comparison of the skulls of the Dinictis and the Smilodon illustrate the story of the gradual development of the animal's long saber-like tooth and the accompanying disintegration of some of his molars, as his habits and environment made him more and more dependent on the peculiar functions of his characteristic feature, and rendered more useless his row of molars.

FIRST SPECIMEN

"Prior to obtaining the skull of this Dinictis," said Dr. Loye Miller of the U.C.L.A. biology department, "we have had no specimens of the Oligocene saber-toothed tiger which flourished on this continent 10,000,000 or 15,000,000 years prior to the creature whose fossils are found in the La Brea pits.

"We have sent one of the Smilodon specimens to the South Dakota University and have received the skull of the Dinictis, which was unearthed in the Bad Lands."

AND ACTIVITIES AT LOS ANGELES HARBOR

SHIP LINE AIMS AT NEW RECORD

McCormick Company Plans for Banner Year

Local Cargo Carried During 1928 265,000 Tons

Total for 1929 Expected to be About 300,000

The McCormick Steamship Company, operating sixty-five ships in coastwise, intercoastal and foreign trade, the largest active fleet under the American flag, this year promises to exceed by a large margin its 1928 record of 265,000 tons of cargo handled at its Los Angeles Harbor terminals, under operating plans outlined yesterday by M. A. Rishley, terminal superintendent.

Five ships have been purchased by the McCormick Line during the last few weeks—the West Ivis and West Ira, 8800-tonners, for its intercoastal service, and the Point Lobos and Point Judith, for coastwise trade—while plans are being formulated for further additions this year to its coastwise and coast-to-coast services. The McCormick interests operate the Pacific-Argentine-Brazil Line, with eight steamers in twenty-day service to the east coast of South America; nine ships to Atlantic ports under the colors of the Munson-McCormick Line, and forty-six vessels in coastwise trade, with three sailings from Los Angeles Harbor weekly.

Mr. Richley estimated that McCormick's share of Los Angeles' sea commerce for 1929 will exceed 300,000 tons. As indicative of early stimulation of coastwise traffic, he pointed out that five McCormick steamers this week will bring 9000 tons of freight for local discharge, viz: the Munami, in today with freight from Portland and San Francisco; the Edna, today from the same ports; the Munbeaver, due this morning from Baltimore, New York and Philadelphia, and the Wallingford and Catherine G. Sudden, from San Francisco and Portland over the week-end.

Pacific coastwise freight trade is today enjoying the most prosperous period in the history of the industry, with freight offerings exceeding the available tonnage, according to Mr. Richley.

GROUNDED FREIGHTER DECLARED TOTAL LOSS

The San Francisco Board of Underwriters yesterday advised the local marine exchange that the Transmarine freighter Sujameco, which went on the rocks off Cape Arago, Oregon, on the 1st inst., while en route from Los Angeles Harbor to Grays' Harbor in ballast, has been declared a total loss.

Starting on her eighteenth successive trip around the world, the Dollar liner President Monroe sailed at noon yesterday for the Orient after loading 1800 tons of local freight and embarking twenty-five Los Angeles passengers. Local Dollar Line officials were advised when the President Monroe left New York that space for but 1500 tons of cargo would be available at this port, but by restowage of cargo aboard room for 300 additional tons was secured. She loaded here 5000 cases of citrus fruits in her refrigeration holds, 30,000 cases of sardines and a shipment of oil-well machinery.

Among the Los Angeles passengers embarking on the President Monroe for the entire circuit of the globe were: P. C. Hord and F. F. Hord, Chicago manufacturers; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lott of New York; Miss Nellie Ada Black, Brooklyn school-teacher; Mr. and Mrs. Claude F. Smith of Long Beach; Col. R. T. Colter, local financier, and Mrs. Colter; Miss Virginia Lamberson, Fresno hotel owner, with Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Payne and their two children; Harold J. Peterson, Coronado sportsman, and Mrs. Peterson.

The U.S.S. Louisville will be the name of the eighth and last of the Augusta class of 10,000-ton light cruisers, which is building at the Puget Sound navy yard, the Navy Department announced yesterday. The Louisville's keel was laid on July 4, 1928, and she is scheduled to be commissioned on March 13, 1931. She is 600 feet over all, with a beam of sixty-four feet, five and three-fourths inches, has a speed of thirty-five knots and a main armament of nine eight-inch guns.
